CRASH OF TRAINS KILLS 10, HURTS 14

Panhandle Flyer Hits St. Paul Caboose Filled with Stockmen at 12th Street.

WRECKAGE IS IN FLAMES.

AXES USED IN RESCUE WORK.

Ten men—for the most part stock dealers from Montana and Dakota—were killed and fourteen others were injured in a rear-end collision between the Panhandle's Cincinnati flyer, which departed from Union station at 12:01 this morning, and a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul stock special, bound for the Union stockyards.

The place where the wreck occurred was at Rockwell street, between West Twelfth and West Thirteenth streets.

At 3 o'clock eight bodies had been taken from the wreckage, and two other bodies were visible in the wreckage, which was burning. Two of the dead bodies had been identified at that hour. A first report gave Charles Bond of Milwaukee, conductor of the stock train, as among the dead, but this proved incorrect. He was injured, and was taken to the Monroe Street hospital.

Some of the Dead.

POTTER, H. H., Diamond, S. D.

SCHLANGER, DANIEL, La Fayette, Ind.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN, burned beyond recognition.

Among the Injured.

H. F. BLACK, Dayton, O.: cut and bruised.

H. D. MAIZE, Springfield, O.; cut and bruised.

McAuliffe, John, conductor of passenger train.

Seven dead bodies, as yet unidentified, are at the Monroe street hospital.

In addition to the stockmen in the caboose a number of men living in Chicago and riding to the stockyards to help in unloading the cattle were riding on top of the caboose and on the cattle cars near it. Nearly all of these were injured. The hurt were taken to the Monroe street hospital.

None of the passengers or crew of the passenger train was injured. The dead and injured stockmen were huddled in the caboose of the stock special. The wreckage caught fire when the stove in the caboose overturned. Two cars of stock were burned to death before the fire department put out the blaze.

Police and Firemen to Rescue.

Four patrol wagons and three engine companies responded to the alarm, which was turned in by Capt. Murphy of engine company 66, who saw the blaze and jumped his force to the tracks. As soon as the fire was controlled the firemen and policemen started the work of recovering the bodies of the dead and rescuing the injured.

Shrieks from the men who were buried under the burning flesh of the cattle and the wreckage of the telescoped cars told the rescuers where to work.

The passenger train had plunged into the caboose of the stock train, and the caboose had been shoved directly through the car of cattle directly ahead. Three other cars were telescoped by the shock, but the caboose and the stock car, in one jumbled mass, were burning when the first engine company arrived.

Cattle Cover the Injured.

The fire department had little difficulty in extinguishing the fire, but the work of rescue was one of the toughest jobs which has been the portion of the fire and police departments for many a day. The carcasses of the dead cattle were covering up the shrieking men who were alive, and the steel and timbers of the two cars pinioned the dead bodies in an inextricable jumble.

Use Ropes and Axes.

Ropes had to be attached to the walls of the cars to drag them apart, so tightly were they wedged together, and after that axes had to be used before the bodies could be extricated and removed from the reach of the flames.

The scene was a horrifying one. By the light of the flames which already had enveloped the caboose and the wrecked cattle cars they saw the mangled bodies scattered throughout the debris, most of them being caught between the walls of the caboose and those of the cars just in front which had been crushed together with terrific force into an almost inextricable mass.

Bodies of Cattle and Men Mingled.

It was apparent that when the locomotive had plowed through the caboose, splitting it in two, both portions were carried forward and telescoped into the cattle cars, where the bodies of the men were mingled with those of the cattle.

One of the survivors guided the party with the axes and told them how they could cut him out, another man who was unconscious but alive, and three dead bodies. He was Peter Johnson, 50 years old, from Minnesota.

The rear end brakeman of the stock train, who jumped and saved himself, said there were sixteen stockmen in the caboose at the time of the crash.

Sees No Warning Signal.

Engineer Wallace of the Panhandle passenger train told Capt. Murphy of engine company No. 66 that he saw no signals displayed, and that so far as he knew, no orders had been given which would indicate that there was anything in the way on his track. His train is the regular Cincinnati flyer, which goes on a fast schedule and carries the late Chicago-Cincinnati business.

As a usual thing, according to Engineer Wallace, the track is absolutely clear. Conductor Foster was in charge of the passenger train.

The passenger train was made up of a baggage car, a day coach, a dining car, and four sleeping cars. Conductor John McAuliff, Chicago, of the passenger train, was in the day coach when the collision occurred and was thrown off his feet, falling in the aisle, but was not hurt severely.

Tracks Make a Sharp Turn.

At Twelfth street, just south of where the accident occurred, the tracks make a sharp turn and the freight train, going at ten miles an hour, had passed this but a minute before the passenger train, going twenty-five miles an hour, reached the turn.

Not until the engine went around the curve did the engineer see the other train's lights. Engineer Wallace shouted to his fireman, Edward Clark, to jump, and shutting off and reversing his engine and applying the air brake he too leaped just before the engine hit the caboose.

Responsibility for Wreck.

Responsibility for the wreck could not be determined this morning. The train dispatcher of the Pennsylvania railroad, who had direction of the trains, said the tracks where the wreck occurred were used jointly by passenger and freight trains, and there probably was a failure on the part of the towerman to display a signal that the freight train was in front, or of the engineer of the passenger train to notice such a signal.

After the wreck the passenger train was taken back to the Union station and sent out over the Fort Wayne branch of the system.

Conductor Taken from Debris.

Conductor Bond of the stock train was taken from the wreck supposedly dead, but was found to be alive and hurried to the Monroe hospital. It is said his injuries will prove fatal.

Hark Wallace and Edward Clark, both of Logansport, Ind., were engineer and fireman respectively of the passenger train. William Collins, 11 Thirteenth place, Milwaukee, Wis., and L. Koohlman, 3015 Vilet street, Milwaukee, Wis., were the engineer and fireman respectively of the stock train. Wallace and Clark were both slightly bruised in jumping from their train.

Most of the injured were removed to the Monroe street hospital—a railroad hospital—and the officials there refused to give the police the names or condition of any of the men taken from the wreck.

Wreck Blocks Traffic.

Traffic on the Chicago and Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads was blocked for some time in the evening when a locomotive crashed into a long line of empty passenger coaches at the Canal street crossing. Thousands of home going suburbanites were delayed.

The collision occurred at the rush hour when the platforms of the Wells street station were lined with hundreds of people.

It is thought that a mistake in the reading of signals was responsible for the collision. Two men who rode on the pilot of the locomotive leaped from their perilous position when they saw the collision was inevitable. A switch tower at that point was swept from its position.

FAKING OF PHOTOS CHARGED TO COOK

DOCTOR ADMITS AGE.

Peary, in Fierce Attack, Turns His Heaviest Guns on Rival's Claims of Discovering Pole.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Dr. Frederick A. Cook fired the opening gun in his talking tour with a carefully prepared lecture, which he had intended to read as written, at Carnegie hall tonight, but, owing to some charges made against him this evening before the lecture began in the editorial columns of a newspaper published near his old home in Bushwick the explorer digressed from his written remarks at times to explain about the dates upon which some of his photographs—many of which were thrown on screens in the darkened hall—were taken.

The editorial in the Brooklyn newspaper made no bones about saying in its late edition this afternoon that many of the photographs now being used to illustrate Dr. Cook's trip to the pole were taken by a young Brooklyn man named Herbert Berri of 752 Ocean avenue, Flatbush, and by "his tutor and friend," L. C. Stone, while Stone and Berri were aboard the Peary relief ship Erik in 1901.

Paper Says It Owns Cook Picture.

The Brooklyn paper, speaking of one of the published pictures in particular recently used as an illustration to accompany Dr. Cook's copyrighted story of his trip to the pole, says it now owns "the original film, which is precisely the same in every particular in shape and size and down even to the shadows."

Dr. Cook was shown these charges just before he started from the Waldorf-Astoria for Carnegie hall to deliver his first lecture tonight. A man of less self-confidence than the doctor might have been considerably flustered. The doctor wasn't. Already he had been in consultation with representatives of the publication that had been using the pictures with his story, who had hurried to him as soon as the Brooklyn editorial began to be sold on the streets.

Explains How It Happened.

When the reporters reached him, a few minutes later, he was ready to explain everything by saying it was true that both he and Mr. Berri had taken pictures eight years ago while on the Erik, and that as they might often have photographed the same scenes while standing in the same positions eight years ago, the films of both would print the same results.

The doctor admitted that a number of the pictures being used to illustrate his story at the present time were taken eight years ago and not during his recent trip. He had nothing to say in explanation of his publishers' lack of forethought in not notifying the public in the "captions" below the published photographs illustrating the story that some of the photographs were old stuff.

Paper Charges Bad Faith.

Strenuous efforts were made to induce Dr. Cook to give forth a denial, or at least a formal statement of some kind regarding the editorial and its charges. The editorial in the Brooklyn Standard Union is as follows:

"Under a full across the page headline, 'Remarkable Iceberg Photograph Taken by Dr. Cook on His North Pole Trip, Copyrighted, 1909, by the New York Herald Company, All Rights Reserved,' used in illustrating Dr. Cook's story, 'The Conquest of the Pole,' are pictures identical down to the smallest detail with photographs taken by Herbert Berri and his tutor and friend, L. C. Stone, who took many hundreds of pictures on their trip on the Peary relief ship Erik, commanded by Herbert L. Bridgman, of which Dr. Cook then was surgeon.

"Two large pictures printed last Saturday afford remarkably striking examples of peculiar iceberg formations. The bergs stand high up in the air, one of them having been eaten away through the center, forming a bridge.

Picture Taken in 1901.

"This particularly unmistakable iceberg was photographed in Melville bay in July, 1901, eight years ago, and the Standard Union has the original film, which is precisely the same in every particular in shape and size, down even to the shadows. The Standard Union charges that the world is being deceived by these pictures. They were not taken by Dr. Cook on his recent expedition. Who is responsible for deception? The Herald or Dr. Cook must explain.'

Dr. Cook, further than admitting that the pictures in question were not taken by him on his recent expedition, had no formal statement to make in reply to the editorial. He insisted, however, that all published pictures taken by him in the circum-polar sea were his own snapshots.

Representatives of his publishers seen tonight had nothing of moment to add to this further than to say that after going back through their files they could find no "full across the page headline" worded just as the editorial quotes it; and they added also that at no time have they said that all the photographs used by them to illustrate Dr. Cook's own story were taken more recently than eight years ago.

Dr. Cook had some of the pictures under question thrown on his big screen during his lecture at Carnegie hall. Sixteen years ago he and a band of Eskimos and dogs appeared in the curio hall of Huber's museum in Fourteenth street.

Before the lecture began, however, the doctor talked affably and with self-possession to the questioners who meet him each evening with the new bunch of questions that bob up each day.

Mr. Peary brought up a question today in Bar Harbor to the effect that it is the practice of experienced explorers when they come across records placed in cairns in the far north, to take these records with them to show they have gone farther north than the cairns, and to leave copies of the records in place of the originals. Mr. Peary wants to know why, if Dr. Cook was at Cape Thomas Hubbard, he did not mention the records Peary left there in prominent cairns.

Saw No Records in "Big Place."

Dr. Cook answered to this query first that he had been to a part of Cape Thomas Hubbard, but saw nothing of the records because it is "a big place." A few minutes later he admitted that he had seen something in the

HEIRESS IN SPIRIT LOVE SUIT

Wife Accuses Husband and Miss Antoinette Gazzam.

$150,000 SUIT THREATENED

Mrs. Marshall Clark's Strange Story of Psychic Alliance.

The name of Miss Antoinette Gazzam, daughter of former State Senator Joseph M. Gazzam of New York, who is said to be worth several million dollars in her own name, was brought into the marital troubles of Marshall Clark, a California land agent and clairvoyant, known also as Prof. Nibblo, when a temporary alimony proceeding was argued before Judge Windes yesterday. In brief it is charged Miss Gazzam fell under the psychic influence of Clark and later lost her heart to him.

As a result of the charges made by Mrs. Clark in answer to the divorce proceedings instituted by her husband, Attorney Frank D. Comerford, representing the wife, declared he would go to New York on Wednesday to file a suit for $150,000 against the young woman for alienating the affections of Mrs. Clark's husband.

The story back of the suit and a divorce action which was brought against Mrs. Clark in Chicago last July is expected to be replete with sensations, and already a host of attorneys has been retained by both sides.

Talk of Psychic Love.

The lawyers will attempt, it is said, to suppress the allegation that the divorce bill, the suit for alienation of affections, and the entire domestic squabble is the result of clairvoyant beliefs declared to have been held by Mrs. Clark and her husband and to have been practiced by Miss Gazzam herself.

The marital troubles of the Clarks—who, when in the clairvoyant business, had quarters in Michigan avenue—were partly aired when Attorney Comerford made a motion that Judge Windes set aside a former decree of the court granting Mrs. Clark $10 a week alimony pending the settlement of the divorce action.

The attorney declared that Clark at present was a man of means, that he had been provided with large sums of money by Miss Gazzam, and that he was well able to pay a much larger alimony than $10 a week. The court did not deem this statement germane to the matter, however, and ruled that Mrs. Clark was not entitled to an increase.

P. J. O'Shea, counsel for Clark, insisted that his client had scarcely any funds and that Mrs. Clark should be satisfied with her allowance. The attorney also exhibited an agreement in court in which Mrs. Clark waived all right to any claims against her husband when he gave her two diamonds valued at $1,500.

"She signed that without knowing its full import," said Attorney Comerford. "She knew that he was about to leave her alone in Los Angeles so that he could meet this wealthy woman. He left her to accompany this woman, who is worth between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

"The young woman met the Clarks when they were living at the Lankershim in Los Angeles less than a year ago. They became acquainted through their mutual interest in spiritualism and clairvoyance, and they attended many meetings together. Then Miss Gazzam began to show a decided preference for Clark's society. In fact, she became infatuated with him.

Spells Name Backwards?

"Finally matters became so serious that Mrs. Clark declared she would make trouble for the young woman if she did not leave her husband alone. Miss Gazzam then moved to the Zelta apartments and registered under the name of 'Elizabeth Mazzag,' which is her own name spelled backwards.

"Clark, by this time, was paying much attention to the young woman. Mrs. Clark finally discovered where Miss Gazzam was living and she went to the apartments to remonstrate with her. After her visit she got out a warrant for her rival, charging her with assault. The warrant never was served, because Miss Gazzam moved to the Hotel Peper and could not be found."

The attorney in his bill will charge further that Clark and Miss Gazzam finally left Los Angeles and went to Reno, Nev. Then Clark came on to Chicago last July and filed the bill for divorce against his wife, charging her with cruelty and desertion.

Weekly Allowance $1,000.

It is said that while she was in Los Angeles Miss Gazzam received a weekly allowance of $1,000, and that Clark often cashed her check and acted as her banker. At that time he was acting manager for the Eucalyptus Acreage company.

Before her marriage to Clark Mrs. Clark was the wife of Jackson H. Dorsey. In 1897 it is said that Mrs. Dorsey, under the name of Mme. Mizpah, had a "studio" in Michigan avenue opposite that of Clark. The latter, it is said, had many psychic students and advertised widely under the name of "Nibblo."

The little colony of psychics remained in Michigan avenue for some time, and the Clarks and Dorseys were said to be on the friendliest of terms. Then Mrs. Dorsey sued for divorce, alleging extreme and repeated cruelty.

Miss Gazzam was the only daughter of former Senator Gazzam, whose wife was a Miss Reading, daughter of John G. Reading, a millionaire of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Gazzam divorced her husband under sensational circumstances and in her will she charged the executor and guardian of her daughter to protect the young girl against her father.

The marital troubles of the Gazzams attracted much attention several years ago. Following her divorce from Gazzam, Mrs. Gazzam was made the defendant in a suit in which she was charged with alienating the affections of R. Charlton Reading, her cousin, from his wife and family.

HUNT TWO RUNAWAY GIRLS.

Chicago and Kenosha Police Search in Vain for Blanche and Bernice Holland.

Search for two runaway girls, Bernice and Blanche Holland, is being made by the police of Chicago and Kenosha, Wis., where they are supposed to be hiding. The young women are daughters of W. L. Holland, who formerly lived at 301 East Twenty-fourth street, and it is believed they are living in Kenosha under the assumed names of Lillian and Jennie Wood.

They disappeared a week ago. The father tried to find them in Kenosha. They were believed to be living at the home of a man named Frank Frantz. He could not be found. The police of Kenosha maintained an air of mystery concerning the case yesterday and the Chicago police said that they had no knowledge of it. Holland could not be found last night.

CHILD SLAIN BY STRAY SHOT.

John Dowe, 8 years old, of Niles, Ill., died at the Swedish Covenant hospital yesterday of a bullet wound in the abdomen. The child, who was playing near his home, is said to have been struck by a stray bullet from a revolver fired by an unidentified man at a bird. The bullet entered the child's abdomen and he became unconscious. He died after an operation at the hospital. The police have been unable to learn the identity of the man who fired the revolver.

STORM AT POSTOFFICE RULE

Women Object to Identification for General Delivery Mail.

GEN. STUART IS UNYIELDING

No Letters Will Be Delivered Till After Investigation.

A large aggregation of willow plumes, each adorning the puffed head of a woman with a grievance, assembled yesterday afternoon in the federal building before the window where general delivery letters are dispensed.

In the hand of each be-plumed woman was a white card, calling for divers bits of information, such as one's correct name—not the pseudonym by which one conducts general delivery correspondence, and one's correct address. In this lay the cause of the grievance, which rose to such heights at times that it culminated in the stamp of a sharp toed little foot, a violent flinging to the floor of said white card, and an exclamation of "I'll be blessed if I will."

Gen. James E. Stuart, chief postoffice inspector of the Chicago division, was in the immediate foreground, and to all such remarks returned the gentle but firm reply that "unless you comply with the conditions we shall be unable, much as we regret it, to give you your mail."

The occasion was the inauguration of step one in the reformation of the general delivery system of Chicago. If the plan proves successful it probably will be extended to other cities, where this department of the postoffice work is said to be greatly abused.

Safeguarding, Not Abolishing, System.

"We are not seeking to abolish this system, which is one of the greatest accommodations afforded by the postoffice department to the public," said Gen. Stuart, "but we shall modify it and restrict it to its proper use. The first step is to have these cards filled out calling for name, residence, street, new and old numbers, and date. Then I shall send to these addresses, find out if the information is correct, and if not why not. I could send out 10,000 cards tonight and hear from them tomorrow morning. If a girl under age comes here she will have the consent of her parents or be self-supporting. If a married woman comes, she will have to explain why or be willing to have us tell her husband."

Gen. Stuart expressed the optimistic opinion that 90 per cent of the general delivery mail was "on the square," but the gayly dressed young women, whose furry beaver hats and late fall coats turned the dingy federal building into a center of showy fashions, led one to believe that more than this percentage preferred to conduct their correspondence quietly. Almost every one objected, one of the mildest expressions being a belated concession, made with pursed up lips and flashing eyes, of "Well, I suppose it won't kill you."

Girl Alarmed by Regulation.

Just after this ingenue had received her letters another, much younger, much more frightened, and much less showily dressed girl advanced for her with her slip correctly filled.

"You may have your letter this time, Miss," volunteered the inspector, politely, "but I want to tell you that your mother will have to be informed."

By this time two letters in a masculine hand, on stationery bearing the picture and the name of a hotel downstate, were handed to her. In one corner they were marked "Personal." At the inspector's words the little girl dropped them like something hot.

"I'd rather not have the letters than have you do that," she answered, anxiously. And she agreed then and there to sever all connections with the general delivery.

ORDINANCE DOOMS SMOKING ENGINES

Drastic Council Measure Requires Electrification of All Railroads in the City.

LONG, BITTER FIGHT AHEAD.

Companies Call Cost Prohibitive; See Hard Struggle to Resist Bill if It Becomes Law.

ALDERMEN GIVE HEARTY APPROVAL

The big war club of the city of Chicago was brandished last night before the Illinois Central and twenty-five other steam railroads operating within the city limits.

Ald. Bernard W. Snow, the council leader, introduced a mandatory ordinance, which if it becomes effective, forces each and every railroad to substitute electricity for steam as motive power within an eight mile radius of the city hall. The ordinance grants the companies until Jan. 1, 1912, to conform to the demands of the city.

In so far as the ordinance is fathered by Ald. Snow, chairman of the council finance committee, the definite and spectacular move may be considered as an administration measure. The measure was drawn with the advice and consent of the office of the corporation counsel and carried the tacit approval of the mayor. More properly speaking, the ordinance is definite and flat flooted notice to the Illinois Central and the other roads that they must abate the smoke nuisance and get down to a business basis in negotiating with the city concerning the electrification of Chicago terminals.

Referred Without Discussion.

The ordinance was referred immediately and without discussion to the committee on local transportation. Ald. Snow said immediate consideration would be asked by him. The attitude of individual members of the council, as they declared themselves last night, is such that favorable action may be expected, unless the railroad companies bring court or other pressure to bear.

The railroad companies certainly will get busy, if the consensus of opinion of high railroad officials and attorneys amounts to anything. There is every indication that the city hall immediately becomes the center of activity of the railroad lobby, which has prided itself openly upon the ability with which antirailroad legislation and enabling legislation for Chicago looking toward electrification was killed at Springfield last winter.

Undoubtedly the Snow ordinance is the most far reaching measure, in point of amount of money involved and interests affected, which ever has been introduced in the Chicago city council. To the Illinois Central alone a superficial estimate by some of its officials is that $50,000,000 would be the expense of complying with its terms.

Total Cost Enormous.

If this is anywhere near a proper figure the total to the Northwestern, the Burlington, the New York Central lines—to all of the railroad companies which send their trains into the city limits—is appalling, to the railroad officials especially.

The rehabilitation of the street car companies' properties is estimated in round numbers at $50,000,000. The estimated total cost of the work of elevating the railroad tracks, including the work which has been done and that authorized by ordinance is $150,000,000. Estimates of the cost of electrification of all of the steam railroads entering Chicago run over $200,000,000.

Under such circumstances the Snow ordinance leaps into the first place in the front rank of tremendously and vitally important propositions which have confronted the Chicago city council.

That it will be combated to the limit, in the local transportation committee, in the city council, and in the courts if it is passed by the representatives of the railroad corporations is a foregone conclusion.

As Ald. Coughlin remarked while departing from the council chamber, "it will be one pippin of a scrap."

Relies on Old Charter Provision.

As outlined by Ald. Snow the city relies upon a reanimated provision of the old city charter of 1863, together with a broad construction of the police powers of the city, to enforce the demands which are made in the ordinance first introduced. He claims that the provision of the 1863 document never has been repealed by any section of the cities and villages acts passed subsequently which would take from the city the right to regulate the motive power of railroads within the city.

The forty-ninth section of section 8 of the old city charter, in providing the powers of the city, stipulated among others this privilege:

To regulate and prohibit the use of locomotive engines within the city and require railroad cars to be propelled by other power than that of steam; to direct and control the location of railroad tracks, and to require railroad companies to construct at their own expense such bridges, tunnels, or other conveniences as public railroad crossings as the common council may deem necessary; also to regulate the running of horse railway cars, the laying down of tracks for the same, the transportation of passengers thereon, and the kind of rail to be used.

Upon the ground that the city, to abate the smoke nuisance, may use its police powers and force electrification, Ald. Snow thinks that the city has a double edged weapon to use on the railroad companies.

Text of Snow Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

Section 1. That after Jan. 1, 1912, every railroad company shall operate and propel any and all cars or trains within a radius of eight miles of the city hall in the city of Chicago by electrical power.

Section 2. Every railroad company now operating or propelling cars or trains of cars in the city of Chicago or now authorized by ordinance so to do shall within one year after the passage, approval, and publication of this ordinance, submit to the commissioner of public works of the city of Chicago plans and specifications for operating and propelling all of its cars or trains of cars in the city of Chicago by means of electrical power, as in section 2 of this ordinance provided. If the manner in which any railroad proposes to operate its cars by means of electricity, as indicated by said plans and specifications, is one which, in the judgment of the commissioner of public works, is reasonably safe, the commissioner of public works shall approve said plans and specifications, and thereafter the railroad company presenting plans and specifications so approved shall proceed within six months to electrify its line of road as in and by plans and specifications provided, and shall continue said work with reasonable diligence.

Submit Plans or Cease Operation.

Section 3. No railroad company shall propel or operate any car or train of cars within a radius of eight miles of the city hall, in the city of Chicago, by means of any power other than that of electricity any time after one year from and after the passage, approval, and publication of this ordinance, unless at the time of so doing it shall have submitted plans and specifications to the commissioner of public works, as by section 2 of this ordinance provided, and such plans and specifications shall have been approved by the commissioner of public works.

Section 4. Any railroad company which shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $200, and every day that any railroad company shall continue to violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be regarded as a separate offense and punished by a fine of not exceeding $200.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication.

Roads Call Cost Prohibitive.

The attitude of the railroad companies, as indicated by statements which came from responsible officials of the companies in the evening, is that the cost of electrification of their lines in Chicago is prohibitive and that electricity as a motive power in place of steam is yet in an experimental stage.

"The Illinois Central could afford to abandon its suburban traffic utterly rather than to stand the cost of electrification," an official of another road is quoted as saying. The stockholders of the Illinois Central hold their annual meeting next month. It is the idea of Ald. Snow that his ordinance will have a most important effect upon the attitude which the officers of the company will take in handling the electrification matter before the shareholders and also upon the minds of the latter themselves.

Ald. Snow discussed the terms of the ordinance after the council had adjourned.

"Yes, the ordinance is aimed directly at the Illinois Central railroad," he said. "The city has dallied long enough with that company, and it is time that something certain and sure is being reached in the negotiations between the city and the company. The ordinance had to be general and is general in its terms, but I cannot see, and aldermen from other sections of the city than the south side, through which the Illinois Central runs, cannot see why all of Chicago should not join in the benefits to be secured from electrification of the steam roads."

Eight Mile Limit Technical Detail.

"Why the eight mile limit?"

"That is a technical detail which will be subject to discussion and change within the local transportation committee," replied Ald. Snow. "It is placed in the ordinance in order that there would be no question about my own ward, the Seventh, being included within the electrification zone. At that the eight mile radius includes practically all the territory within the city limits which suffers from the smoke nuisance from the steam railroads."

To this Commissioner of Public Works Hanberg did not agree, when he was asked about the ordinance, because he said that South Chicago was not included in the proposition.

"South Chicago is full of smoke from the steel mills anyhow," Ald. Snow explained.

"Then the eight mile limit is not suggested for the purpose of excluding any belt lines from the provisions of the ordinance?"

"Not by any means," said Ald. Snow. "The ordinance, as it is drawn, is intended to cover every steam railroad, freight, passenger, or terminal, operating within the eight mile limit. It is meant to exclude nobody."

Believes Ordinance Constitutional.

Ald. Snow said the validity of the ordinance and its constitutionality are unquestioned in his own mind and in the estimation of the office of the corporation counsel.

"The ordinance was drawn most carefully and has been passed upon by many expert advisers," said Mr. Snow. "The state Supreme court and the federal Supreme court are on record in decisions which apparently sustain the point which is made in the ordinance.

"In the case of the Chicago Dock and Canal company against Garrity," continued Ald. Snow, "the Supreme court of Illinois held flatly that the city of Chicago should continue to exercise all of the charter powers conferred in its charter of 1863 not inconsistent with the cities and villages act. Strict search has been made and nothing has been found whatever which deprives the city of the rights granted in paragraph 49 of section 8 of the 1863 charter."

Ald. Snow admitted that he had no idea that the framers of paragraph 49 of section 8 possessed any inkling of a supposition that some time the city would want to force the steam railroads to change their locomotives for electric motor engines of some description, and intimated a moment later that the history of the paragraph, probably, would disclose that the generation in control of affairs in 1863 wanted to shut off certain interests from running steam cars along what is now Cottage Grove avenue, for fear that seven miles an hour would slaughter too many citizens at the street corners.

Expects Bitter Opposition.

"Naturally, I expect the most bitter opposition from the railroad companies," said he. "The first effect probably will be for other companies than the Illinois Central to exert their combined force upon the Illinois Central to urge it to get into line for the fair demands of the city and to proceed diligently with the necessary negotiations. That of course would satisfy my end of town.

"There is no question, however, that the agitation has reached a point where the entire city will be in arms for the electrification of all the lines which are running trains within the city limits. A nuisance in one place, probably, is a nuisance in another."

Ald. Snow said the temper of the council, as he found it, is altogether favorable to the proposed ordinance.

"There will be bitter opposition from certain quarters of course," he said, "but I believe the local transportation committee will take up the matter immediately and that the ordinance can be placed upon its passage at an early session.

"When that is accomplished and the mayor has added his approval, the ordinance then becomes effective and the railroad companies will have one year in which to furnish their plans and specifications to the commissioner of public works. It will be up to him to give his approval and the companies will have until Jan. 1, 1912, to come to the mark."

Calls the Fine Reasonable.

"Isn't the fine of $200 a day for negligence to do business a bit low?" Ald. Snow was asked.

"No, I think not," replied the alderman. "Two hundred dollars a day soon cuts into the dividends, I imagine."

There were no fireworks accompanying the introduction of the Snow ordinance. It had been put in with the usual grist and was reached in its turn by Reading Clerk McGaffey.

Ald. Snow was on his feet when the first paragraph was read and immediately moved that it be referred to the committee on local transportation. Ald. Mike McInerney shouted "Good!" as though he meant it, and the incident was closed.

Aldermen All for Ordinance.

Members of the city council, without exception, declared themselves decidedly in favor of the ordinance when they were interviewed.

"I am for it in every way," said Ald. Harding of the Second ward. "It is just what is needed, and I will do all in my power to help it through the council. The people in my work are tired of the Illinois Central's trifling."

"It's the best thing that ever happened," said Ald. Taylor of the Twenty-first. "I am for the ordinance, and I hope Ald. Snow pushes it along. Electrification cannot come too soon to suit me."

"I want it and my people want it," declared Ald. McCold of the Sixth ward. "The ordinance directly affects my territory, and I shall vote for it without a word of objection from my constituency."

"My sentiments are precisely those of my colleague," said Ald. Long, Mr. McCold's wardmate. "The sooner and the more tightly the screws are put on, the better the Sixth ward will like it."

"I am for the ordinance so far as it is consistent with the powers of the council and consistent with the investments which have been made by the railroad companies," said Ald. Foell of the Twenty-first. "I am not a believer in confiscation, but I am strongly for electrification, and I am for this ordinance if it will help bring it about honestly."

Part of Merriam's Platform.

"Such a move was a part of my platform when I was running for alderman," said Ald. Merriam of the Seventh. "The city cannot force electrification of the Illinois Central any too quickly to suit me or to suit Hyde Park. I think the Snow ordinance is exactly the right move."

"The Snow ordinance is the forerunner of a splendid movement which will cause electrification all through the city, I hope," said Ald. McKenna of the Fifth. "I am for the ordinance and I am glad that it has been introduced."

"I cannot declare myself too strongly in favor of the Snow ordinance," commented Ald. Bellfuss of the Fifteenth. "The northwest side is as much entitled to electrification as is Hyde Park and the south side. We know up there what the south side suffers, and I will support the ordinance to the best of my ability."

"I should say it is a matter for special legislation," said Ald. Egan of the Ninth, "and I do not believe in the council getting too far away from its power. I am for electrification, however, and if this is the way to get it I am for it."

Zimmer's Ward a Sufferer.

"I am for electrification on the Illinois Central and on all other railroads," said Ald. Zimmer of the Twelfth. "I live in a ward which is full of railroads and I am certain that we can stand an abatement of the noise and the smoke. Put me down for the ordinance."

"The Snow ordinance is a mighty good thing to bring the Illinois Central to time," commented Ald. Finn of the Twentieth. "In my judgment the railroad officials have been holding off waiting for a deal. This gives the city a chance to open definite negotiations."

"I am in favor of anything which will create better sanitary conditions of Chicago," said Ald. Dever. "I would be in favor of coupling up with the Snow ordinance, another compelling the railroads to carry passengers within the city limits upon the same basis as the surface lines have been compelled to approve. I believe the Snow ordinance is a good thing."

"It is a good measure and I am for it," declared Ald. Dunn of the Twenty-fifth.

Railroads Surprised and Dismayed.

The news that the city had begun a great campaign for the electrification of all railroads entering the city came as a complete surprise to the railroad executives. By many it was regarded as a severe blow to the transportation interests. There was a hesitancy to discuss the mandatory ordinance at all, the officials saying that they required time to study and consider the question.

President Harahan of the Illinois Central said:

"I think it would be much fairer for the city to pass an ordinance affecting all the roads than to go after one alone, as all should be treated alike, but I don't want to say anything about the ordinance or the position of the road one way or another. It is true that the expense of electrification would make a difference in the dividends paid to the stockholders, and I have told the city authorities so, but the report that we will try to influence the stockholders against the plan for that reason is untrue. The whole question will be laid before the stockholders at the annual meeting. They have minds of their own and will decide as they think best.

"The charge that we have placed the cost too high by including other changes and betterments is based upon false premises. Under the proposed electrification of terminals there would be a great increase in the number of trains, and it is inevitable that extensive changes would have to be made which are necessary details of the electrification scheme."

Attorney Drennan of the Illinois Central said:

"I wouldn't express any opinion about such an ordinance or its validity until I had read it myself or until it had been put up to me formally for an opinion. All matters connected with electrification are handled in the president's office."

Shouldn't Make Roads Scapegoats.

Said President Ripley of the Santa Fé:

"My position is that if the smoke nuisance is the reason for the agitation, the railroads of the city don't make 10 per cent of the smoke that is complained of, and they ought not be made the scapegoat for all of it. If you would take a boat and go out into the lake about five miles, where you can see the volume of smoke that is created by the great plants at Gary, South Chicago, Indiana Harbor, and other places, which blows over Chicago, and by the manufacturing districts of the west and the north sides, you would admit that the railroads make only a small proportion of the smudge. If the city is trying to stock the smoke nuisance by enforcing such an ordinance it should treat all offenders alike.

"Electrification is exceedingly expensive, and I don't believe that there is a railroad entering the city of Chicago that can afford it. The New York Central has had a bitter experience of the expense of electrification, and it has not found it entirely satisfactory. I don't know exactly how much it cost, but I do know it was so much that I think the officials would be much better off without their suburban business. I am firmly convinced, too, that if the Illinois Central should be required to electrify its lines it would be better off without its suburban service.

No Saving in Expense.

"It hasn't yet been demonstrated that the expense of operation will be any less with electrical operation than with steam. It would be impossible for me to make an intelligent estimate of the cost to all the roads in the city, or even to a single road, but I should place a rough estimate of the cost of electrifying all the tracks of the Illinois Central within the city limits, including all changes necessarily incident thereto, at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

"I know the city officials published a much lower figure, but you know it is the easiest thing in the world to spend other people's money and to make low estimates for some one else to carry out.

"The railroads undoubtedly will oppose the ordinance. Something might be done by the use of coke to abate the smoke nuisance, but the railroads are only minor offenders in that respect as compared with others."

Daniel Willard, second vice president of the Burlington, said:

"I am not going to discuss what might happen if some improbable event should take place. I know nothing about the ordinance or the plans or motives of the city authorities. I have given no consideration to the question. I suppose if they say we have to electrify we shall have to comply, if after careful consideration the city decides there are sufficient reasons for forcing the roads to spend such a large amount of money."

Ordinance Unenforceable—Dawes.

Chester M. Dawes, general counsel of the Burlington, said:

"I don't think the city can enforce such an ordinance and I don't believe it would be possible to carry out its provisions in the amount of time allowed, but, of course, that is a question for railroad operating men, not for lawyers. I haven't examined into the city's powers in that respect, so I am not in a position to say anything about the constitutionality of such a law, and I wouldn't care to be quoted as discussing the proposed ordinance unless I had studied it carefully."

Edwin M. Hyzer, general counsel of the Northwestern, said:

"It seems to be a pretty drastic ordinance and if enforced would keep the railroads rather busy for a few years. As to the power of the city to compel a railroad to make such a radical change in its mode of operation, I shouldn't care to express an opinion. I never have had occasion to study into the question, so I think it would be poor taste for me to express a criticism. I hardly believe there are any grounds for fear that the example of Chicago would be followed by other cities through which the Chicago railroads pass, because the situation in Chicago is of course different from what it is in other cities, but that might be a result."

Shedd Sees Great Problem.

"The question of electrification is one of the greatest importance, not only to the public but to all the railroads, and one which should not be acted upon hastily until we know what is best for all concerned. It hardly would be feasible for one road to electrify its terminals unless its connections also were operated by electricity, on account of the interchange of traffic.

"Electrification as a general proposition is desirable and I am much interested in it, but it is much more difficult than the layman has any idea of. It is a question on which there is a great difference of opinion, and which I am not competent to discuss, but I hope that all the railroads entering the city ultimately can use electricity. As a director of the Illinois Central I think it would be much wiser if all roads acted in unison in the matter. I do not believe the officers of the road have made any decision to oppose electrification before the stockholders."

Called "Knockout Blow."

"This is a kind of a knockout blow," said S. T. Fulton, assistant to President B. L. Winchell of the Rock Island railroad. "I don't know what we'll do. I suppose the ordinance will pass. If it does and we are forced to electrify it will mean a big job for us. It will not cost us so much as it will the Illinois Central, as we have only two main tracks for the most part.

"We have given this no consideration at all, as we never expected such a proposition. It is absolutely impossible for us to suggest what it would cost."

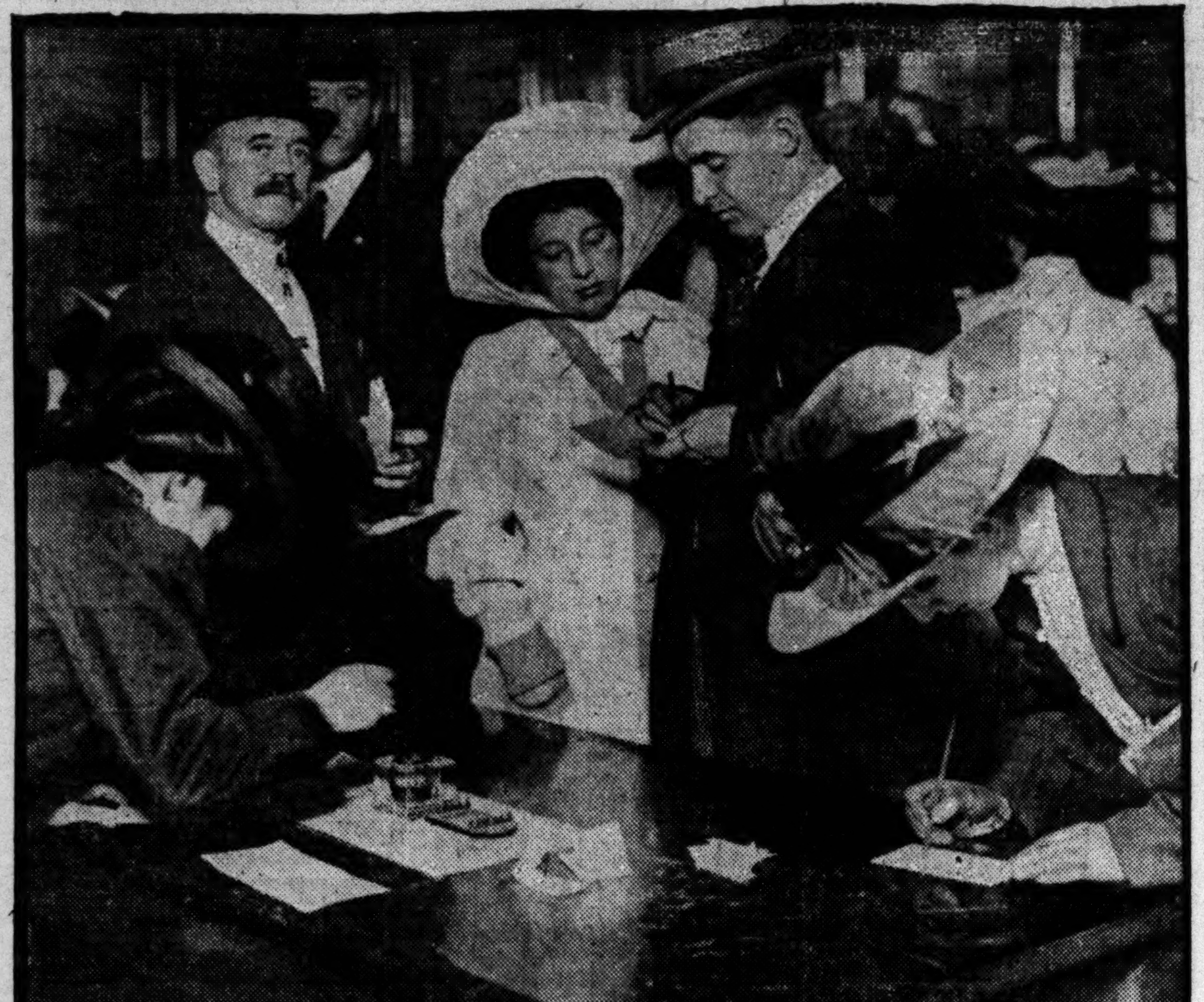
[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



Scores of young women yesterday afternoon filled out blanks before Inspector Stuart in the general delivery department of the postoffice, giving their correct names and addresses before they could receive their mail. By the new rules instituted by Gen. Stuart every one will have to identify himself and explain his reasons for getting his mail in the general delivery before he has the privilege of using it regularly.

CITY EXPERT CONDEMNS LOOP

Millard B. Hereley, in Council Report, Urges Its Removal.

WANTS TEMPORARY REPAIRS

Suggests Heavier Rails to Deaden Noise Until Subway Can Be Completed.

Millard B. Hereley, the city's traction expert, made a new assault upon the Union loop yesterday in a communication to the mayor and the city council. He declared the steel structure "must come down if transportation methods are to go up."

Mr. Hereley's communication was in the nature of a report following a council order of last May directing him to investigate the feasibility of lessening the noise from the elevated in the downtown district.

In substance he declared the changes necessary to reduce the racket—either a complete rebuilding of the structure, or the remodeling of the deck with the use of longer, heavier rails, and heavier cross ties—were difficult, and that the removal of the loop was impending.

Favors Temporary Changes.

His recommendations were that temporary changes without raising any presumption in favor of the continuance of the loop be made, and that ultimate removal be considered as an accompaniment of the completion of a subway. His report in part follows:

"It is my deliberate judgment that it would be folly to attempt at this time to rehabilitate the Union loop with any view to its permanent continuance.

"The loop must come down if transportation methods are to go up.

"Straight line operation of all cars, elevated, surface, and underground, is what the people undoubtedly want and what they eventually will have.

"To accomplish this in accordance with approved methods for handling traffic, unified operation is imperative, but the precise kind of subway required cannot be determined until it is ascertained what the demands of the traffic will be following such unified operation.

Suggests Awaiting Stations.

"Under no circumstances, however, should elevated trains be permitted in future to enter the present loop district. As I have suggested, let auxiliary elevated railway terminals be established at or near the present loop entrances, say, at South Water, Franklin, and Harrison streets.

"Of course, the subway project has its financial, engineering, and traffic sides, each of which merits serious and expert consideration.

The temporary relief, the expert said, might be accomplished by the installation of "T" rails of sixty foot lengths, weighing ninety pounds to the yard, and with continuous joints instead of the present worn out rails, in thirty foot lengths, the joints of which have become hollows that are responsible for most of the noise.

City Controller Wilson was host at a dinner given to city department heads at the Hotel La Salle at noon, the occasion being a "return game" for the dinner recently given the controller. These two dinners have proved so profitable that an informal agreement of a series of weekly Monday noon dinners for the members of the mayor's cabinet was entered upon.

QUITS THE UNITARIAN FOLD; RUBINKAM FREE LANCE AGAIN.

Lecturer on Ethics, Sociology, and Literature Will Begin Seventh Season Next Sunday Afternoon.

Dr. Nathaniel I. Rubinkam next Sunday afternoon in Fine Arts building will begin his seventh season of lectures under the auspices of the Rubinkam association.

Shortly before the close of last season the association changed its name to the Central Unitarian society, but it has resumed its original name. In explanation of this, Dr. Rubinkam said last night:

"Many of our members felt such an attachment to the original name, borne through six years, and were so opposed to even any semblance of sectarian connection that it was impossible, under the change, to finance the organization. The trustees, therefore, with my full assent, have resumed the old name.

"At the request of many we have changed the time of the lectures to 4 o'clock in the afternoon, as they were held the first three years, and have extended the length of our season from six to eight months, beginning Oct. 3, instead of November, as hitherto. It is my intention this season to relate our modern thought and drama with the drama and ideas of the old Greek world through a series of lectures."

$100,000,000 BACK OF SUBWAY OFFER?

ATTACK ON HEALTH CHIEF

Ald. Emerson Declares Dr. Evans Lets Scavengers Charge Illegal Prices.

A mysterious subway project of alleged $100,000,000 backing made its first public appearance last night at the initial fall meeting of the city council. M. H. McGovern of paving notoriety was its particular sponsor, and after the meeting he spoke—still with mystery—about having the backing of "the Harriman estate in the east" and a millionaire capitalist right here at home.

For additional excitement, apart from the mandatory electrification ordinance, the meeting witnessed a fiery attack on Commissioner of Health W. A. Evans by Ald. John R. Emerson of the Eighth ward.

The council also approved Mayor Busse's recommendation for a conference of city, state and park board representatives to consider obtaining for the public the possession of all the lake front lands.

Ald. Emerson charged that Health Commissioner Evans aided in cornering the night scavenger business for three men who have charged twice the legal rate for their work. Dr. Evans later said he would not discuss the matter.

Asks Council to Censure Evans.

The attack on the health commissioner came out of the clear sky, so far as the council was concerned, although Ald. Emerson had been investigating his subject for two months and protest meetings to discuss the subject had been held in South Chicago. The order introduced by the alderman follows:

Be it ordered by the city council of the city of Chicago that whereas section 1186 of the Revised Municipal Code of Chicago specifies that all night scavengers shall be allowed to charge and receive a sum not exceeding 10 cents for each cubic foot of night soil by them taken and removed under and by virtue of any permit issued by the commissioner of health; and

Whereas, the commissioner of health, contrary to the provisions of this section, has permitted night scavengers to charge a sum in excess of the ordinance rate, thereby placing an unlawful burden of expense upon many property owners and householders of this city.

The said commissioner of health hereby is censured by the city council of Chicago for permitting violations of the Municipal Code of Chicago, and the said commissioner of health is hereby directed to require all night scavengers to charge and receive a sum not exceeding 10 cents for each cubic foot of night soil by them taken and removed under and by virtue of any permit issued by the commissioner of health, according to the privisions of section 1186 of the Revised Municipal Code of Chicago.

Declares People Are Robbed.

An unusual silence dropped over the council rooms as soon as the meaning of the document that Reading Clerk Magaffey had in his hand reached the alderman. While it still was held, Ald. Emerson was on his feet.

"Although the ordinance I have mentioned fixes the rate for this work at 10 cents a cubic foot," he said at the top of his voice, "I have evidence that the health commissioner entered into an agreement with the night scavengers to permit them to charge more than that amount. In the last year 1,000 pieces of this work have been done in South Chicago, and that means that 1,000 persons have been robbed.

"The health commissioner entered into an agreement that these men could charge 15 cents a foot and then they go out and charge 20 cents—just twice the legal rate. When that ordinance, giving the commissioner full control of this work, was passed there were seven or eight men in this work. Now there are only three.

"What does that mean? Is the health commisisoner looking after the health of the people or after the pocketbooks of these night scavengers? The people of the Eighth ward won't permit the health commisisoner or any other high city official to treat them so unjustly."

Ald. Charles M. Foell said the order contained charges that could not be passed upon without investigation and, at his suggestion, it was referred to the health committee.

Subway Proposition Presented.

The wording of the McGovern communication follows:

We hereby propose to enter into a contract to build a subway system for the city of Chicago in accordance with the plans and specifications of the expert engineers employed by the city and ourselves, and are prepared to give any necessary assurance of our financial ability to the extent of $100,000,000 or more. We will accept an ordinance that will give municipal ownership as practically as present financial and legal conditions will permit and without delay.

Found at his home later, Mr. McGovern said the company's plans had been in formation about four months and that they covered the district bounded by Chicago avenue, Twenty-second street, Halsted street, and the lake.

"The capital is both Chicago and New York capital," he said in response to a question. "I will say that the New York interests are the Harriman interests; but I don't care to disclose the Chicago men interested."

"Is it the Armour interests?" he was asked.

"I don't care to say. I shall neither affirm nor deny that," he replied.

To Recover Lake Front Land.

Mayor Busse's request for authority to call a conference on lake front lands was accompanied by the letter written by Ald. Theodore K. Long, suggesting that idea, and the opinion of Howard W. Hayes, assistant corporation counsel, discussing the tangle of ownership confronting the establishment of municipal bathing beaches.

"Inasmuch as it appears that there are many unlawful encroachments along the lake shore south of Twelfth street," wrote the mayor, "one conclusion necessarily follows: Some one should proceed with all possible diligence to obtain for the people both title and undisputed possession to the land which belongs to them."

He then made the recommendation for a conference, with the provision that it should be authorized "to consider the advisability of a settlement of the claims made by the riparian owners along the lake points aforesaid."

The authority was granted without comment and the invitation to the conference will be issued this week.

Other Work of the Council.

Other matters of business before the council were:

A suggestion from Chief of Police Steward that all sergeants—patrol, desk, and detective—be made one class.

A mandatory ordinance elevating the Oak Park Elevated's tracks through Austin, introduced by Ald. Forsberg.

An order instructing the committee on state legislation to seek the passage of a bill licensing and bonding surveyors, introduced by Ald. Clancy.

An ordinance for the examination, licensing, and bonding of public automobile chauffeurs, introduced by Ald. Dunn.

Forty improvement ordinances for "Goose island" and an order instructing the commissioner of public works to estimate the cost of public landing stations on the river, introduced by Ald. Bauler.

Mayor Busse vetoed an ordinance requiring the notification of both aldermen of a ward in which a street opening is to be made; and it failed to pass over his veto. Ald. Snow opposed an ordinance introduced by Ald. Fisher requiring that copies of all local improvement specifications be sent to all property owners affected, and it was referred to the finance committee.

TO WIDEN MICHIGAN AVENUE

Ordinance to Be Introduced in Council at Next Meeting.

ITS PASSAGE IS ASSURED.

Park Board to Have Jurisdiction of Street from Jackson to Madison.

Boulevarding of Michigan avenue as far north as Madison street will be accomplished in the immedaite future.

At the next meeting of the city council an ordinance will be introduced authorizing the commissioner of public works to turn over to the south park commission that part of Michigan avenue lying between Jackson boulevard and the south side of Madison street.

This ordinance will be backed up by a petition signed by nearly every property owner, or those who hold long term leases on property along that portion of the street it is proposed to boulevard.

In all probability this ordinance will be referred to the committee on streets and alleys south, of which Ald. George Harding is chairman, and promptly will be taken up by that committee as a matter of special business.

Mayor and Council Approve It.

As most of the members of the committee are in favor of the boulevard proposition, and as Mayor Busse has already expressed himself as approving the idea, it is said by those who are handling the matter that the ordinance probably will be unanimously recommended by the committee to the council for passage at the following meeting.

The matter was to have been presented to the council at last night's meeting if the plans of those who are behind the boulevarding scheme had not miscarried by an unfortunate circumstance.

The ordinance had been in the course of preparation and was to have been completed yesterday morning, but through some oversight it was mislaid and when it came time for the council meeting there was a scurrying around to find it, but no ordinance could be found.

The delay is considered unfortunate, as the south park commissioners had intended to hold a special meeting to accept it and it was expected that work on the widening of the street could have started before the end of the week.

The south park commissioners have been sounded on the proposition by many of the property owners and have expressed their entire willingness to accept the street and to widen it in accordance with the plans carried out on that part of Michigan avenue between Jackson boulevard and Twelfth street

Will Conform to Rest of Street.

The street will be widened to correspond with the southern portion of the avenue, and the sidewalk on the east side along Grant park will be widened to a uniform width of twenty-five feet, while the sidewalk on the west side will be extended to thirty feet.

The roadway when the improvements are completed will be seventy feet in width and will be paved in the same manner as that part which is now under park control.

Members of the Chicago Athletic association and the New Illinois Athletic club are particularly pleased that the street in front of their buildings is to be boulevarded. The members of the University club also are pleased with the prospect, for while their entrance is on Monroe street the building actually faces on Michigan avenue.

It will necessitate changing the locations of the cab stands to the side streets, as the south park commission does not permit cab stands on its boulevards. The cabs for the Chicago Athletic association will have to be transferred to Madison street and the Illinois Athletic club cabs will probably stand on Monroe street.

Orchestra Association Pleased.

The Theodore Thomas Orchestra association has long been seeking to have the boulevard extended in front of Orchestra hall. During the winter season, when Orchestra hall is in constant us, there are so many carriages and automobiles arriving and departing and standing in front of the hall as to almost block traffic, but with the extra twenty feet of roadway and the street cleared of heavy traffic teams the delays incident to the jam of vehicles on these occasions will be materially reduced.

Inspector Arrests Chinamen.

Three Chinese immigrants were arrested yesterday as they attempted to leave a Chicago and Alton passenger train at the Englewood station by Immigrant Inspector Plummer. Later they were taken before United States Commissioner Foote, and today they will be given a hearing. One of them, Moy Bow, 55 years old, showed papers to show he is legally in this country, but the other two, Ah Tung and Lung Chee, 24 and 26 years old, respectively, had no papers and were detained.

FRANKS' 'RED BOOK' GRAFT CASE CLUB?

Defense Says Discovery of Resort Accounts Forced Activity Against McCann.

MAY USE IT IN PLEA.

Wayman's Office, in Meantime, Turns Eyes on Assessment and Review Boards.

A "little red book," said to be one of the "protection" records of Julius and Louis Frank, the principal witnesses against McCann, played an important part in the recent trial, it was asserted yesterday.

Although the book was placed in the hands of State's Attorney Wayman before the court battle, it is said, the contents never were made part of the evidence.

Upon the strength of this the convicted police inspector's attorneys may argue Mr. Wayman compelled a number of officials to aid him in obtaining evidence by insinuating he had the "goods" on them.

This question probably will be part of the plea before Judge Barnes for a new trial.

All persons connected with the state's attorney's office professed ignorance of the Frank brothers' graft record, although it was acknowledged Mr. Wayman had a large quantity of evidence which he never introduced in the case.

Workmen Find "Red Book."

The mysterious book was found by workmen for the Brunswick-Balke company who were remodeling the Frank Brothers' saloon shortly after the indictment of Inspector McCann on the charge of extorting "protection" money from west side resort keepers.

At first the workmen paid no attention to the book. It was discovered in a pile of rubbish behind the saloon bar and evidently had been placed there and forgotten. One of the men put the memorandum in his pocket and, a few days later, turned it over to John Shanks, factory superintendent of the billiard company.

According to the various stories of the little book, it was not considered of much importance until Mr. Shanks spoke of it one day to an attorney. He mentioned that the names of several police officers were written in the memorandum.

"Don't let that get out of your hands," cautioned the attorney. "If anybody gets it it should be the state's attorney."

Gives Book to Prosecutor.

Shortly after this conversation it is said that Louis Frank called on Mr. Shanks and demanded the return of his property. The superintendent refused to turn the book over to him. However, one of State's Attorney Wayman's assistants called on Mr. Shanks and the book was then turned over to the state. What became of it afterward, Mr. Shanks declares he does not know.

"In fact, I don't know much about the matter at all," said Mr. Shanks. "All I know is that one of my men brought me the book and that I had a casual interest in it because the names of several police officers were on the memorandum. I don't remember the names now, as I never have paid much attention to the police department. I do remember that I did not know the officers whose names were written there.

"Like my workmen, I did not think that the book was of importance to any one. However, I learned that it was wanted by the state's attorney, and one day, when Assistant State's Attorney Claude Smith called for it, I gave it to him. That's all I know about it. I never heard of the book afterward."

All that is known now is that the little book, supposed to be incriminating to a number of policemen, is in the hands of the state's attorney and may be used at any time.

May Base Plea on Book.

Col. James Hamilton Lewis and other attorneys connected with the McCann defense refused to say whether the alleged facts regarding the memorandum would be used in urging a new trial for their client. However, it is expected that the lawyers will claim certain evidence was injected into the case because Mr. Wayman had the book.

The conference between the convicted police official and his attorneys, at which it will be decided when arguments for a new trial are to be made before Judge Barnes, is to be held this morning in the offices of Attorney Lewis. The argument probably will be heard by Judge Barnes on Saturday, Oct. 9. Saturdays are the regular days for hearing motions for new trials.

Former Chief of Police George M. Shippy, who recently arrived in Carlsbad, Bohemia, in search of health, declared in a cable message that he had nothing to say regarding the McCann verdict other than that he had appointed the inspector because he stood first on the eligible list and was a good officer.

"McCann's indictment and the events of the trial came up after my departure for Europe," said the former chief, "and my condition since then has not been such as to allow of my following the affairs of the department, even if I had had the opportunity of doing so. Later I may have something to offer, but with such information as I now have I prefer to say nothing."

While State's Attorney Wayman is preparing to fight any move of McCann's attorneys for a new trial, it is said that he and his assistants are also actively engaged in obtaining new evidence on the John J. Holland, Willis Rayburn, and Nicholas Martin, alleged "jury fixers," and others who are declared to be the "men higher up."

Eyes on Tax Boards.

That State's Attorney Wayman's activities may spread to the board of review and board of assessors was reiterated during the day by men supposed to be in the confidence of the prosecutor. It was asserted Mr. Wayman has had a stenographer present at every meeting of the legislative investigating committee, and that a full report of all the proceedings may be turned over to the October grand jury.

Chairman Lederer of the investigating committee said it was not the purpose of the investigation to attack any one personally or by insinuation.

"We are merely trying to find out if the present system is wrong, and if it is, how it should be improved," said he. "Thus far we have not run across anything of a criminal nature. Of course, if anything should develop that might be classed as criminal it would be our duty to turn it over to the state's attorney."

The question of the county board appropriating $10,000 to aid State's Attorney Wayman in his investigation of graft will not come up until the prosecutor returns to Chicago. He is at present in West Virginia visiting his mother, and is not expected back until the latter part of the week. There is no secrecy about his trip. He requested that the $10,000 fund matter be held over until he could appear before the finance committee.

Mayor Would Aid Inquiry.

Mayor Busse, when it was reported to him that State's Attorney Wayman intended to make an investigation of certain city affairs, said that he was ready at any time to cooperate with the prosecutor in any inquiry which he might see fit to make.

"I will help Mr. Wayman in any way I can," said he. "I have received no request from him except for the occasional use of a policeman, but any time he wishes to turn his attention to the city departments I will lend my assistance."

Lieut. Andrew Rohan and Secretary "Si" Mayer of the police department were callers at the office of Acting State's Attorney William Lundgren during the afternoon, but both denied they were there in connection with the graft investigation.

Homesick Belgian Lad Sought.

Camil Deas, 13 years old, 2526 South Halsted street, is on his way to Brussels, Belgium, and trainmen on east bound trains have been asked to notify the Chicago police should he ride on one of their trains. His mother says that he ran away from his home last Saturday, taking $65 of her money. He came here from Brussels three years ago and had made threats to leave her and go back.

JUDGES BLAME GRAND JURIES

Municipal Court Cases Are Said to Receive Scant Attention.

OLSON REPLIES TO WAYMAN.

Letter to Prosecutor Sent with Approval of Other Jurists.

Completion of a special report on the disposition of Municipal court cases by the July grand jury, compiled at the request of judges of the court and supplementing a similar report on the work of the June inquisitorial body, marked developments yesterday in the dispute between the state's attorney's office and the city courts.

The total number of cases held over for the consideration of the July jury was three-fourths that of the month before, but in only one out of seven of these cases was an indictment returned. This is the same proportion, practically, which marked the treatment of Municipal court cases by the June grand jury.

The tabulation of the July cases, placed in the hands of Municipal court judges, coupled with a growing resentment at what is considered unwarranted grand jury criticism and opposition to the position State's Attorney Wayman has assumed with reference to the instituting of cases in the Municipal court, led to definite action, and, at the request of the associate judges, Chief Justice Harry Olson sent to the office of the state's attorney a communication setting forth the position of the city courts regarding the points of difference involved.

Judge Thinks Something Is Wrong.

"Something is radically wrong when we find that six cases out of seven were thrown overboard by the July grand jury as well as by the June jury," said one municipal jurist. "This last report, resulting from our investigations, shows simply the bald figures in the matter. Some of these cases were brought before me, and I examined in one of them ten witnesses. In that particular instance not one witness was summoned before the grand jury. Two cases of larceny and one other serious case came before me. For all of these the grand jury in July returned 'no bills.' Something is radically wrong.

"It is hardly possible for the judges to carry on the work, but these cases should be followed up, some one should get to these witnesses who appeared in connection with cases which we know were worthy of indictment and find out what happened to them. It seems incredible that they ever got to the grand jury with the testimony they gave in court."

Seeming Negligence of Jury.

The two reports are significant in several respects. Of the seventy-seven cases in which the June grand jury returned "no bills" ten were from country justices and the coroner's office. Of the remaining sixty-seven cases ten were held over to the grand jury for such crimes as: larceny, confidence games, burglary and attacks on children. In these latter ten cases municipal court judges examined in no instance less than three witnesses. The grand jury returned "no bills" and examined no witnesses in any of them.

In only a few instances did police officers who gave testimony in the court serve the grand jury as witnesses. In only two instances did the grand jury examine more than two witnesses per case, although the witnesses whose names were sent over with each mittimus were frequently seven, eight, and even ten in number.

Wayman's Letter Rouses Ire.

The following letter written by State's Attorney Wayman to Chief Justice Olson on Aug. 30 was what, next to the grand jury censure, roused the ire of the city judges:

> Dear Judge Olson: In view of the fact that the assistant state's attorney is present at the Desplaines street court and the Harrison street court all the time, and is ready to be there at any time that the presiding judge may suggest, would it not be well that the presiding judges exercise considerable care in issuing state warrants without the knowledge of the state's attorney? If irresponsible persons and attorneys impose upon the courts by having state warrants issued, you can readily see how easily the power of this office may be usurped by lawyers having ulterior motives and the administration of justice be brought into disrepute. I am making no reference to any past cases, but am writing this letter solely with reference to the future, as I am particularly anxious at this time that the state be the judge of what cases it will prosecute and in what manner it will prosecute.

Comment by Judge Olson.

"I do not think Mr. Wayman intends that the state alone shall institute cases," said Judge Olson. "Though some of the judges have been inclined to do so, I shall not put that construction on his letter. I have, in fact, urged Mr. Wayman to put a representative of the state in these courts where so many cases come up. A conference between the court and the state could in many instances do away with long preliminary hearings and thereby much time would be saved. It

SAYS MARRIAGE IS NO BAR

English Unionist Tells Why Girls Fail to Join Organizations.

SAYS THEY LACK INITIATIVE

Trade League Convention Opens with Speeches by Labor Leaders.

Miss Mary Macarthur, secretary of the British Trade Women's league, and a delegate to the second biennial convention which opened in Chicago yesterday, said in an address in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night that she didn't believe it was the prospect of marriage that kept girls from joining trade unions.

"I don't think it is true," said she, "that the prospect of marriage keeps the women from organizing. It is a natural reticence to taking an initiatory move. A girl will say, 'Yes, I think it's just lovely and I think every woman ought to join, but I don't believe I will.'

"It is the duty of this convention, however, and of every woman worker to show her that she must. Here are a set of replies that ought to be learned and used in cases such as the above:

Rules for Doubting Ones.

"'If you're thinking of being married, you know there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip.' This one is unpopular," added Miss Macarthur.

"Even if you are married," she continued, "you know you may some day have to earn your living. And then there is a third which works more efficaciously. You can say, 'You may be lowering the wages of your own husband by refusing to join the union for sustaining women's wages.'

"If this does not move her there is a fourth argument which never fails. Say to her, 'Don't you want your own little children to grow up to a happier and more prosperous labor condition than the one now.'"

That the end must be accomplished by fair means or other was the enthusiastic agreement of everybody attending the afternoon and evening sessions of the big convention.

At the evening session the high walls of the Y. M. C. A. building echoed the cheering.

Chicago Leader Speaks.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, urged the importance of unionism for women and of votes for them, too.

"I believe," he said, "that the woman from whom man gets his brains has a brain as good as his. And I ask you if you would say that the political situation as the men have shaped it is satisfactory?

"You would not, and I ask you if you don't think we might do well to turn politics over to the women for awhile and see what they would do with it?"

Returning to the subject of unionism for women, he declared nothing in the industrial life of today was more important than to accomplish this. Not only the progress of women but of men, too, is impeded by the halfway measures.

Mrs. Robins Speaks.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, national president, opened the session with an address.

"The organization of 6,000,000 working women, one-half of whom represent our younger sisters, is no light task," she said.

"Can we not teach our young women that to lower the wage or increase the hours is to lower the income of their future home, and that to stand together in the demand for equal pay for equal work, in the demand for a shorter workday, in the demand for social control of wages and hours both through trade organization and legislation, is to guard and protect the home of the people, their own, and that of the race?

"If the young woman worker acts as underbidder before marriage, then her husband must bring home a lesser wage after marriage; let her be willing to work longer hours during her working years and she must suffer a lower standard of living through all the remaining years of her life.

"She will have aided in making her husband an industrial slave, thus losing for herself his fellowship, for her children the companionship of a father, and for the community the services of a citizen."

To Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin was delegated the part of welcoming the delegates.

"Of all the meetings in this city, and I might add in any city, this is to my mind the most significant, has in it the greatest promise of good for the future," she said.

"Women have in the past been forced by industrial and economic conditions to perform their share of the world's work practically alone, either in the home or in small individual groups.

Wilmette Roman Catholic Parishioners Aim at Raising $5,000 Fund—Town Lot a Prize.

Women of the St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church, Wilmette, opened a bazaar last night, in which they hope to raise a good part of a $5,000 fund. The uncompleted parochial school of the parish has been fitted up for the fair.

In the beauty contest Miss Marie Schroeder, Miss Gertrude Ketchum, Miss Marie Slade, Miss Isabel Byrnes, Miss Margaret Schaeffer, and Miss Bertha King made good starts. The prize will be given to the winner Saturday evening.

A lot in Kenilworth, donated by Joseph L. Long of Wilmette, is the largest prize to be given away at the bazaar. The drawing will take place Saturday night, when the bazaar closes.

SAVE PARK DOME, BOARD'S AIM

DISPUTE IS MORE HEATED.

Charged and Denied Ex-Supt. Jensen Permitted Faults.

To save what is left of the dome of the great Garfield park conservatory and to prevent the freezing of the valuable plants within, the work of rebuilding the structure was begun yesterday. A large force of workmen started in at the southeast corner, where the dome has suffered most, and other artisans went about the building making temporary repairs to keep out cold fall winds and early frosts.

The controversy between the west park board and former Supt. Jens Jensen over the blame for the serious faults of construction which have brought the huge dome near to collapse two years after its completion raged with increasing vigor and heat. Commissioners intimated the belief that Jensen was talked into permitting deviations from the specifications by C. E. Carson, the contractor.

The dome is dotted with holes. To use the words of George A. Mugler, secretary of the board of commissioners, it looks as if it had been made the target of a gatling gun. Hundreds of plates of glass have been blown out and shattered. Hundreds more, still retaining their places in the framework, are cracked or have holes in them.

Terms of the Specifications.

"The lumber must be clear, air dried red pulp," say the specifications Jensen is charged with having failed to enforce. "All wood must be thoroughly air dried, free from sap, knots, or imperfections detrimental to strength, durability, or appearance. The glazing bars for the curved portions of the roof to be sawed from solid wood."

The contractor, with Jensen's sanction, it is said, and unauthorized by the board, did not use sawed wood. Instead straight glazing bars were steamed and bent into place over the curved parts. Much of the wood, too, contained sap and knots. Glass was specified to be laid with lapped joints as near one-quarter of an inch as possible. In actual construction the laps, in many instances, were at least three-quarters of an inch. Deviations from the requirements, members of the board say, may have saved Carson thousands of dollars.

A large percentage of the glazing bars have warped. In a number of places they have sprung out of alignment to such an extent that they look as if they were ready to collapse, carrying with them the glass. The warping of the glazing bars is the seat of the chief trouble. When the bars warp they either force the glass out of its fastening or break it.

When a heavy storm comes, with a high wind, a few glass plates are blown out. The great difference between the cold outside and the tropical atmosphere inside causes such pressure upon the glass plates that they are torn loose by the score and left to the mercy of the wind.

Copper plates are being used to hold the glass in the new construction, and there is no lapping of the plates. W. F. Ewert, inspector for the commissioners, is constantly at the conservatory. He passes upon each piece of material, condemning that which is imperfect, or not, as specified.

John Sells, head gardener at Garfield park, said the vast collection of tropical plants in the conservatory was in imminent peril, and would be destroyed if a new dome were not put up before winter. The present structure, he said, would collapse.

"Will there be any investigation of Mr. Jensen's action in permitting the changes?" was asked of Commissioner Bernard A. Eckhart.

"I don't know. There surely ought to be," he said, tersely.

Nothing in It for Jensen.

Ex-Supt. Jensen maintained that the fault was not his. He was told the commissioners estimated it would cost $40,000 to rebuild the dome and that it was believed Carson had saved a large sum by his departure from specifications.

"Well, if there was any money saved," said Jensen, "I never got any of it, that is sure. It is true a number of changes were suggested by Mr. Carson and I permitted them to be made, for it appeared they would be beneficial. The whole trouble is in fact that the glass was inexpertly put in and not because of the changes from the specifications. The commissioners made a big mistake in not letting the contract to a regular greenhouse builder and now they want to shift the blame upon me."

CLEMINSON TRIAL ON TODAY.

Rogers Park Physician Will Be Formally Accused of Poisoning Wife Before Judge Tuthill.

Dr. Haldane Cleminson, accused of the murder of his wife, Nora Jane Cleminson, will be placed on trial this morning before Judge Tuthill in the Criminal court. Assistant State's Attorney Northup finished the preparation of the case yesterday. He called Capt. Kane, Lieut. Cullinan, and several detectives for a conference. Cleminson will be represented by Attorneys Joseph R. Burres and Edward Greene. Mrs. Cleminson was found dead in her home, 6823 Wayne avenue, Rogers Park, on May 30, by the police, who had been summoned by Dr. Cleminson. At first he blamed burglars, but later admitted this story was false.

COUNT EULALIA TO BE SUED?

Rumor Says Woman Will Demand $10,000 from Nobleman

CLAIMS TO HAVE CONTRACT.

Money Alleged to Be Due for Introducing Him to Present Wife.

Rumors have emanated from some mysterious source that Mrs. William Ernst, wife of a physician, proposes suing Count Santa Eulalia to recover $10,000 on an alleged antenuptial agreement, whereby Mrs. Ernst introduced the Portuguese nobleman to the widow of John B. Stetson and paved the way to their marriage in June of last year.

Friends of the count make indignant denials, and Mrs. L. B. Bishop, wife of an insurance manager, and an old friend of Mrs. Stetson, says she had the honor of bringing the couple together. Mrs. Bishop gave out an interview in which she stated that she had heard of some sort of litigation between Mrs. Ernst and Count Eulalia, but said the suit would not stand the tests of the court.

Ernsts Keep in Background.

Mr. Bishop spoke in the same strain. He said he knew Mrs. Ernst, but refused to express an opinion of her social standing.

The story is that Count Eulalia was anxious to meet some woman of wealth, and that Mrs. Ernst agreed to bring him in contact with the hatter's widow. Whether she claims to have a written or mere verbal contract could not be learned.

It is apparent that she and her husband prefer to remain in the background during the discussion. They formerly resided at Ashkum, Ill. Rumor has them in Chicago now, but they could not be found yesterday.

Col. J. Hamilton Lewis in the evening said he had corresponded with Philadelphia lawyers on the merits of the proposed suit, and the last he heard of Dr. and Mrs. Ernst was some time ago, when they departed for Mount Clemens to take charge of a sanitarium.

Statement Made by Countess.

Countess Eulalia at Philadelphia gave out this statement:

"I do not know Mrs. Ernst. I am sure the count does not, or he would probably have told me of her. I will not pay the slightest attention to the alleged suit. I dare say the woman, if the suit is instituted, has some purpose for starting it. I do not think the count will dignify the threat with a reply. He is in New York working on a medallion of Dr. F. A. Cook, which the Arctic club proposes giving to the explorer. He is engrossed in his work. He is staying there and will not return until the latter part of the week.

"I will not discuss any letters which passed between the count and me prior to our marriage, as that is strictly personal. The count is a quiet gentleman, an artist who enjoys his calling. He bothers no one. Why, then, should persons bother him? I think it is nonsense."

Admits Knowing Mrs. Ernst.

Count Eulalia, at his New York studio, said all he knew about the supposed suit was told him by reporters, and then added:

"Perhaps Mrs. Ernst heard that my wife and I are happy and decided to try the blackmail game on us."

He admitted knowing Mrs. Ernst previous to his marriage to Mrs. Stetson, but said his wife never met the woman. The count said he met Mrs. Ernst at the Alliance Française in Chicago four years ago, and she called at his studio several times. Later, he said, he dropped her acquaintanceship. He refused to give the reason and declined to answer when asked if Mrs. Ernst had ever made any money demands on him.

When Mrs. Stetson and the count married a mysterious woman appeared at Idro, the country home of the hat manufacturer's widow at Elkins park. She attempted to enter the grounds and, when prevented by guards, asked that her card be forwarded to the count. The Countess Eulalia said she believed this woman was not Mrs. Ernst.

CONTRACT FOR TUNNEL LET.

George W. Jackson, Inc., to Construct Washington Street Bore Under the River at Cost of $590,000.

The contract for the construction of the new Washington street tunnel under the Chicago river was awarded yesterday to George W. Jackson, Inc. Mr. Jackson said the compressed air method which he proposes to use will save $150,000 to the city. The tunnel is to cost $590,000.

Mr. Jackson will give a bond for $200,000 as a guarantee that the tunnel will be completed by Dec. 1, 1910. Work on the bore will be begun at once.

The old tunnel will be incased in an air and water tight covering. Excavations on each shore down to the floor level then will be made and the walls will be constructed. Beginning at the floor level, workmen will bore under the river, forcing the compressed air shields through the river bed, as was done in New York's river tunnels.

ASKS EXPANSION OF LIBRARY

Special Commission Urges Opening of Many Branches.

REPORTS $300,000 NEEDED.

Suggests Appropriation and Favors Abandonment of Economy.

Branch libraries and the securing of a $300,000 appropriation to meet the expenses of these and other improvements constitute the chief recommendations in the report of the Chicago public library advisory commission submitted to the directory board of the public library at its meeting last night.

The report is the result of a special investigation of local library conditions made by a committee consisting of Harry O. Wheeler, Thomas F. Holgate, N. D. C. Hodge, and George Vincent, who were appointed six months ago. It was received and the board adopted a resolution of thanks to the members of the committee.

Among other things, the committee recommended that "rigid economy should not be practiced now that the library is on a cash paying basis."

Indirectly the findings of the committee indorsed the action of the library board when it removed the former librarian and began the task of finding a new head for the public institution.

A resolution calling for more branch libraries was introduced by B. J. Cigrand, a member of the board, and adopted.

Recommends Twelve Changes.

Twelve resolutions embodied in the advisory committee report read as follows:

1. The bylaws and rules of the library should be so revised as to fix upon the librarian the full responsibility for the administration of the library as its administrative head.

2. The civil service law should be amended to place the appointment of librarian on the same basis as that of other officers of similar professional standing, such as the superintendent of schools.

3. The librarian in consultation with the civil service commission should work out a plan for the reorganization and classification of library service.

4. The fiscal year of the library should be changed so as to correspond with that of the city of Chicago.

5. It should be the policy of your board to secure as soon as possible the development of an adequate system of branch libraries, located in suitable buildings erected and controlled by the library board.

6. An immediate campaign should be started for creating a public sentiment in favor of using for this purpose a part of the funds that may be secured under the Illinois mayors' bond bills.

Committee Favors Branches.

7. The surplus remaining in the hands of the board on Dec. 31, 1909, or such portion thereof as may be necessary should be used for the erection of a branch building to commemorate such a generous donation to the library endowment fund as is indicated by the resolution of the board of June 25, 1906.

8. To the full limit of your financial ability advantage should be taken of the favorable attitude of school and park boards, and reading rooms and circulating branches should be established wherever possible in school buildings and in park field houses.

9. To secure the fullest measure of cooperation frequent conferences should be arranged between your board and other library boards at which detailed reports are made and discussed.

10. More attention should be given to work with children. Departments should be organized for this purpose with specially trained and skilled workers.

11. Care should be taken in the purchase of books to keep in mind the demands upon the library as a circulating medium and duplicates of those most used should be had.

12. A policy of publicity should be adopted through which bulletins and reading lists may be circulated.

"In general we would urge the employment of every possible means to procure the best possible corps of workers," the report concludes. "This will come about most surely and quickly through the influence of a competent chief who is imbued with the spirit that characterizes the modern public library."

'NEPHEW' OF SPEAKER CANNON ENDS NIGHT IN A POLICE CELL.

Congress Hotel Clerk Cashes Check on Danville Bank, Then Makes Inquiries, and Arrest Follows.

After spending last evening at the Congress hotel, where he attracted attention by his tales of his being the nephew of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Richard Cannon was arrested and taken to the Harrison street police station, where he spent the remainder of the night.

Cannon registered from Danville and impressed Clerk John Burke with his relationship with the speaker. Then he persuaded the clerk to cash a check for $50 drawn on the English National bank of Danville, saying he was an official of the Second National bank of that city. Burke's mind was not easy and he telegraphed to Danville, receiving a reply to the effect there was no such institution in Danville as the English bank. Cannon was asked to step into the baggage room, saying Mr. Cannon wanted to see him, and Detective Monte Cannon took him in charge on a warrant alleging he had operated a confidence game.

"When Uncle Joe hears this there'll be h—l to pay," declared the prisoner as he was led away.

TWO HOTELS AFTER SHAFER.

Auditorium Manager Can Retain Present Position if He Wants It, but Has Another Offer.

Directors of the Auditorium association will meet today to complete arrangements for taking over the operation of the Auditorium hotel from the Congress Hotel company, whose lease on the property expires at midnight on Thursday.

A manager of the hotel probably will be chosen at today's meeting. The first choice is Will S. Shafer, the present manager. John Talty, formerly manager of the Raleigh hotel of Washington, and George Reynolds, recently manager of the Virginia hotel, also are under consideration.

Mr. Shafer has tentatively accepted a position as outside manager of the Congress hotel.

CITY'S BEST DOCK BRINGS LOW RENT

IDEAL PLACE FOR $5,500.

Comparison with Other Water Rights Shows Goodrich Company Is Beneficiary.

The best dock for freight and passenger steamship traffic on the Chicago river and harbor, the chief dock owned by the city, is under lease for a term of three years at an annual rent of $5,500, to the Goodrich Transit company, while its counterpart on the opposite side of the river with much less water front under private ownership is leased at a rental of $13,500.

This was one of the facts uncovered in an investigation made yesterday into the management of the city's water rights along the river and the revenues they bring into the city treasury. It was shown that a portion of the river front to which the city has a claim is used for the landing of freight without any recompense to the city.

The Goodrich docks, because of their location, have been the most desirable in the city. No bridges interfere with the landing of boats and the line has enjoyed the possession of the warehouse and landing for more than fifteen years, in spite of the efforts of other concerns to secure a lease. They occupy the space adjoining River street, from Rush street as far as 250 feet east. A small and convenient warehouse occupies the land and railway terminals are within a stone's throw.

Claim It Is Worth $10,000.

Other concerns which have tried to obtain possession of this strip of land which makes navigation profitable claim it is worth an annual rental of $10,000 or more to any line of boats and that it would bring that amount if the leasehold were opened to competitive bidding.

The new lease was entered into June 23, 1909, giving the use of all that part of River street used for dockage purposes which lies south of the Chicago river and between Rush street and the east line of Fort Dearborn's addition. The agreement is to run three years, the consideration being payable in monthly installments. It is also provided that the transportation company shall make all repairs. It was executed on the part of the city by John J. Hanberg, commissioner of public works, and approved by H. M. McGurren, superintendent of the bureau of compensation. The other parties are the Chicago Transit company, A. W. Goodrich, president, and H. W. Thorp.

"The rental is lower than it would be but for the fact that the lease can be terminated upon sixty days' notice by either party," explained Mr. McGurren. "This clause was necessary because of the plans for extending the boulevard north on Michigan avenue across the river."

The rental is $500 a year more than the rate named in the former three years' lease, but the former lease provided that repairs should be made by the city.

Rentals of Other Docks.

A comparison with the rental of the docks on the opposite side of the river to the Northern Michigan Transportation company shows that higher rates are paid individual owners and corporations. The dock on the north side is 220 feet long and has a warehouse adjoining. As before mentioned, it costs the company $13,500 a year for the privilege of landing its boats at this place and using the warehouse.

Other dockage rights claimed by the city bring a great variety of rentals. The city has no other complete dock with adjacent warehouses, however. For the most part they consist of "stub ends" of streets jutting up against the river.

The Graham & Morton line pays the city $1,000 a year for the use of sixty-six feet of river front at Dock street.

The Indiana Transportation company, which operates the excursion steamers Theodore Roosevelt and United States, pays $350 for the use of the landing at Clark street and for the strip of river front five feet wide claimed by the city for the summer season.

The Chicago Navigation company, which operates the excursion steamship Pere Marquette, pays the city $250 for the use of the landing at Wells street and the five foot strip claimed by the city for the summer season.

Companies Take Precautions.

In order to prevent objections from property owners managers of both excursion companies say they have leased the entire row of buildings adjacent to the landings and sublet them at a loss in order to insure their rights.

No rent is paid the city by the Erie railroad company, which unloads freighters at its warehouse north of Washington street, for the use of the river front. The claim of the city is to a strip five feet wide, reserved for passenger landings.

The Chicago Lighterage company secures the right from the city to use nine "stub ends" of streets in the north branch by the payment of $500 a year, though only two of such landings are actually used.

The Dunham Towing company pays the city $500 a year for the use of thirty-three feet at the foot of Market street.

The George W. Jackson company pays the city $1,250 a year for the use of twelve feet near the Adams street bridge, the rest of its dockage rights being obtained from the drainage board.

TAFT IS VISITOR FAR INTO EARTH

BIG CROWDS GREET HIM.

Speech on the Conservation of Resources Will Be Given Tonight.

PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM TODAY.

Arrive Spokane, Wash.	6:30 a. m.
Leave Spokane for North Yakima, Wash.	9:25 p. m.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President Taft today saw not only all of Anaconda, Butte, and Helena, but went 1,200 feet below the surface of Montana to see some of the wonders of the west. He was locked in the iron cage at the Old Leonard mine and dropped down into the darkness to watch the miners at work drilling for the mineral deposits which have made Montana famous.

The trip to the bottom of the mine followed a trip in automobiles, which, to the inexperienced, seemed even more dangerous than the pit drop itself. The grades which were covered on the journey from Butte to the mines were steep, and, although the chauffeurs were experienced and careful, there was a sigh of relief when the president again was safe on board his private car Mayflower.

The president seems to be having the best of times in the many new experiences he is meeting in the west. When he had regained the top of the earth, after the drop into the pit at the Old Leonard, his first words to the crowd which cheered him were:

"I would not have missed it for the world."

Principal Speech Due Tonight.

It was the president's first visit to the Montana copper district, and between the smelters at Anaconda and the mines at Butte he had an interesting day. Arriving here, he went directly to the state fair grounds, where, after viewing a portion of the exhibits he made an open air address, and watched a race of cowboys. Returning to the city Mr. Taft reviewed a parade of school children.

Leaving here this evening he headed direct for Spokane, where he is expected tomorrow to deliver his formal speech on the subject which holds supreme interest to all the west—the conservation of the natural resources and the reclamation of arid lands.

President Taft walked with a limp when he first got off the train this morning at Anaconda, the result of a sprained tendon in his right foot. The sprain occurred at Beverly, but he suffered little inconvenience from it until today, when his foot was considerably swollen. There is nothing serious about the injury, and Mr. Taft did not let it interfere in any way with his plans.

Largest Crowd West of Chicago.

The president made a flying trip through the Washoe smelter of the Amalgamated Copper company at Anaconda, then proceeded into the city, and after a brief address took the train for Butte. The crowds which greeted him on the streets there were the largest he has seen since leaving Chicago.

The police had their hands full in opening a way for the automobile procession, and after the president's car had passed the crowd swarmed in its wake. Speaking at the courthouse the president looked out upon a mass of humanity that blocked the square and spread far down the converging streets. He made a decided hit with the great throng when he told of the wonderful impression the country was making upon him, and ended by saying: "I am like the old Dutchman, who said: 'The more you live the more you find, by goldy.'"

When the president disappeared down the shaft of the Leonard mine today, he took with him two of his cabinet officers. They were Postmaster General Hitchcock, who joined the president today at Anaconda, and Secretary Ballinger.

Sheer Drop of 800 Feet.

The elevator used by the president and his party consisted of small steel doored square cages in three decks. The lowest of these was loaded first, then the second, and, lastly, the president got into the topmost one, accompanied by John Hays Hammond and others. There was a sheer drop of 800 feet before the first level was reached.

The electric lights at this gallery leading away from the shaft were only a blur. After this the levels came at intervals of 100 feet.

At the 1,200 foot level the two lower cages dropped by the opening to allow the president to step out first. It was still inky dark and grewsome to those below when at last there came the cheery voice of the president from the level, calling to some of the newspaper men who were accompanying him on the trip.

"How are you fellows down there?" he inquired.

There was still 600 feet of blackness below the cage and "We'd kind o' like to get out," came the reply.

"Well, I don't know so much about that," called the president. "I think I got you safe where I want you at last."

Colored Lights in Mine.

The opening of the level had been decorated with bunting and along the gallery the ordinary incandescent bulbs had given place to more bulbs of red, white, and blue.

The upward journey in the cages, with a 6,500 horse power engine pulling at the cables, was accomplished in half the time occupied in the descent and at a speed which made the inexperienced gasp.

During his journey through the mines the president was within seventy-five feet of a fire which has been burning for four years and which has defied all efforts to extinguish it. The smoldering blaze, feeding on old timbers and sulphur in the ore, eats its way through crevices every now and then and breaks into the level where the men are working, only to be fought back into another wall.

At Butte the president was presented with a full sized golf club—a driver—made of copper, silver, and gold, the three metals that have made the Butte camp famous. On the head of the driver the following inscription was engraved:

Butte Shows People's Power.

In the course of his speech at Butte, the president said:

"I am mighty glad to see you, and the reason is that I cannot help but feel from your kindness and cordiality that you are glad to see me. I am deeply pleased at the reception because of its non-partisan character, and that we are all here without thought of party and only to give expression to the feeling of common interest in our common country and love for our dear old flag.

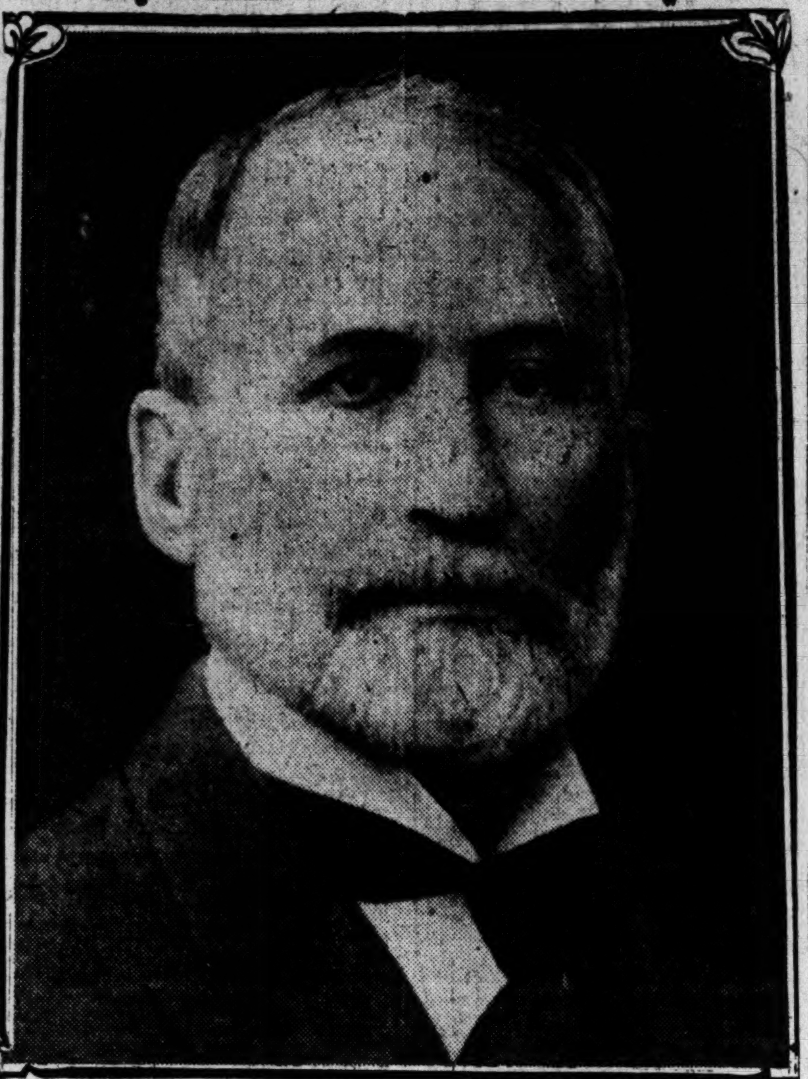
"To come out to this awful looking desert from the green fields of the east and see a city spring up like magic out of what is seemingly nothing, is a revelation in the possibilities of American manhood and American energy. I am going to visit your city underground. I am going to assume that you have a rope that is strong enough to let down three hundred pounds. I am going to see that wonderful system of galleries from which you have taken the wealth that has been a marvel to the world.

"It is not the wealth that you are making here, but it is the use of that wealth that appeals to a real lover of his country."

Big Dinners Tax Strength.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The hospitality of the west seems to be taxing the endurance of President Taft, especially as to the formal dinners which have been arranged in his honor. Some time before the president started on his tour of the west his secretary, Mr. Carpenter, wrote to each of the committee having the matter in charge asking them to make the dinners which the president was to attend as simple in character and brief as possible. Notwithstanding this injunction the cities so far visited by the president seem to have vied with each other in making the dinners as elaborate as possible.

Said to Be Sure of Tammany Nomination.



Justice William J. Gaynor

Friends of Justice William J. Gaynor say he will be nominated for mayor of New York at the Democratic city convention on Thursday, "barring an earthquake."

10,000 SIGN JEROME PETITION

Prosecutor Will Run With or Without Aid of Tammany.

TAFT PRAISES BANNARD.

Hopes Republican Will Be Elected Mayor of New York.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—District Attorney Jerome will file the petitions that will give him a column on the official ballot as an independent candidate with the board of elections tomorrow. He will run independently even if Tammany hall should not indorse him.

About 10,000 persons anxious to see Jerome reëlected for a third term have signed petitions for his nomination. Only 5,000 names are to be filed, however. Jerome needs only 2,000 signatures, and he doesn't intend to give the election board any more trouble than need be.

Murphy Quiet About Jerome.

Mr. Jerome's petitions, with a sufficient number of signatures to insure his nomination, might have been filed a week ago. That they were not was due entirely to the fact that tomorrow is the first date scheduled for the filing of independent nominations with the board of elections.

Whether Tammany hall will indorse Jerome is an open question. Murphy has not committed himself on the subject. Most of the talk about the wigwam for the last fortnight, however, has been discouraging from the viewpoint of Jerome's friends. But both Jerome and his campaign manager, John S. Henneberry, profess unconcern regarding what Tammany hall does with reference to Jerome's candidacy.

The signers of the Jerome petitions have been pretty well divided as to party faith. Strong Republican districts on the upper west side have yielded a considerable number of signatures. So has the lower east side where Jerome has made his home since he first was elected. But a majority of the names of prominence on the petitions are those of Democrats of the conservative type.

John Purroy Mitchell, who was nominated for president of the board of aldermen in the Republican city convention last Thursday, will not consent to run unless he is assured that the tickets, not only for the city offices, but for the borough and county places be nonpartisan. Mr. Mitchell said this in a letter he sent tonight to Chairman Herbert Parsons of the Republican county committee.

Taft Hopes Bannard Will Win.

A message from President Taft, expressing the hope that Otto T. Bannard, the republican nominee, will be elected mayor of New York city, was received today by Representative Herbert Parsons. The message came from Salt Lake City and reads as follows:

"Herbert Parsons, M. C., New York City: I am just in receipt of your dispatch advising me that Otto T. Bannard has been nominated for mayor of New York City. I sincerely hope he will be elected, not only because he is a Republican, and not because of any mere party consideration, but because I know he will give the people of the city of New York such an administration as they have not seen for many a year.

"It is a comfort to be able to bear testimony to his disinterested patriotism, his great administrative ability, his broadminded common sense, coupled with the highest governmental ideals. An intimate friendship of thirty years enables me to bear witness to his high character as a man and his peculiar fitness for the responsible and difficult office for which he has been nominated.

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

POLITICAL POWWOWS AT FAIR

Deneen and Shurtleff Call Followers to Springfield.

MEET IN HOSTILE CAMPS.

Governor's Friends and Foes Will Discuss Primary Law Program.

Illinois Republican politicians, and particularly the members of the general assembly, will meet in Springfield next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in two hostile camps.

Gov. Deneen has summoned his advisers and the legislators known as the administration forces to attend the fair, and aside from looking over the pumpkins and the pigs give him some cheer regarding the probable fate of his primary law program at the extra session of the legislature.

Speaker Shurtleff sent out a grapevine message yesterday which will bring to the state fair grounds all of the old "Shurtleff crowd" and many new recruits who have asked to be sworn in on the primary law issue.

Expect an Old Time Roundup.

There is every indication that considerable hostility is to develop over the primary law question, and enough other matters of state are to be thrashed out as to make the prospect extra good for an old time political roundup for which other state fairs have been notable.

Senator Shelby M. Cullom is reported to be preparing to make his annual fall visit to his home city and incidentally to talk over with the boys the likelihood of a candidate, especially Gov. Deneen, appearing as an aspirant for his senatorial toga at the legislative session of 1913. Senator Cullom, according to late reports from Washington, is in excellent health and looking forward to a week of heart to heart talks with legislators and others.

News from Gov. Deneen as to what he shall urge upon the statesmen in the way of a primary law and a deep waterway statute is certainly expected by the members of the legislature, and the chances are that several gubernatorial booms will be trotted out in front of the Sangamon club for preliminary inspection.

Hardin for Treasurer?

Word comes from the military tract that Everitt C. Hardin of Monmouth, a conspicuous member of the legislature for two sessions, is on the point of announcing his candidacy for state treasurer, to succeed Andrew Russel, whose term expires next year. It is probable, according to the reports, that Mr. Hardin will have something definite to say at Springfield next week. It is understood that strong support has been pledged to his candidacy and that a formidable boom for him will make its appearance next week.

PAPER SAYS COOK IS FAKING PHOTOS

DOCTOR ADMITS AGE.

Cape Thomas Hubbard region that "might have been cairns or might have been blocks of stones." He had not stopped to examine the cairns because he was pressed for time.

A good crowd gathered to hear the explorer's first lecture. The seat holders had been so arranged in the parquet that they gave an appearance of filling the house, but as a matter of fact there were many vacant seats, rows of them in some places. These soon were filled up, however, by the generosity of some one who, as the lecturer got under way, permitted the standees to take the vacant parquet seats. As a result the standees that had come in to "take a look" found upholstered seats at their disposal. Also the Arctic Club of America, under whose management the lecture was arranged, had been generous enough to send out complimentary tickets to the tune of $20 worth at times in a single envelope.

Makes Formal Reply to Charges.

After the lecture Dr. Cook made a formal reply to some of the charges brought against him by Commander Peary. A more complete declaration will be issued by the explorer when Commander Peary makes his accusations over his own signature. The statement is as follows:

"Commander Peary says that my sledges were not fitted to arctic travel and that he would not care to voyage in the arctic with them. The only sledge Commander Peary saw was half a one, which I had given to Mr. Whitney as a souvenir. The remainder of it had been used to make bows and arrows.

"As to my reasons for leaving my instruments with Mr. Whitney, he had told me that the Erik was coming to Etah and would take him over to the American side to hunt big game and would come back later to Annotok. The distance from Annotok to Upernavik by the route which I was compelled to follow was nearly 700 miles.

Whitney Was to Save Risk.

"In that journey I had to travel over high land in two places, with glaciers and difficult places to negotiate. The ice was extremely rough, and there was a good deal of water to be expected that would have subjected the instruments to a risk which was entirely unnecessary when Mr. Whitney awaited a ship to come to Etah for him, upon which he expected to return direct to America.

"By going to Upernavik I hoped to get back by the end of July or the middle of August. I wanted to see my family as soon as possible, as I had been separated from them for more than two years, while Mr. Whitney did not expect to get back before October.

"The other points of the so-called charges have been replied to in detail on several occasions. I will answer everything in the most formal way when Commander Peary prints or makes public his other points. My reply will then be given out as a written statement."

PEARY FIRES HEAVY GUNS.

Commander Peary pointed out that Dr. Cook alleged he in one sledging season had covered twenty-five degrees, or 1,700 miles, of arctic ice, when no previous explorer, notwithstanding vastly better equipment, ever had covered more than eleven degrees of that most difficult going on the universe.

"It is well known," said Peary, scoring what his bitterest enemy must regard as a staggering blow to Cook's case, "what my equipment was when I started north from Cape Columbia. The world has read of my equipment and the world knows what my experience was in the arctic field. Yet I did not make quite fourteen degrees in my last and only successful dash to the pole."

Makes Light of Cook's Sledge.

Peary pointed out with a smile that showed every one of his gleaming teeth and ruffled the bristles of his great sandy mustache that Dr. Cook had taken one sledge on his 1,700 mile journey over arctic ice. This was the sledge that Cook left behind him at Etah.

"I examined that sledge," said the commander. "Yes, I looked over it carefully. So did Hensen. So did McMillan. They know sledges, I guess, and so do I. Was it anything like my Morris K. Jesup sledge? (Peary's shoulders shook, though at the same time he gritted his teeth.) I should say it was not anything like the Morris K. Jesup sledge.

"That sledge of Cook's was built along lines of no sledge I ever saw before. Why, I don't believe that sledge would last one day over arctic ice with a standard load of 500 or 600 pounds."

Getting down to the Whitney phase in his controversy with Cook, Peary asked a few questions that are vital points in his brief against his rival.

Why Didn't Whitney Go Back?

"I would like to know," he said, "why, if Harry Whitney knew the value of the instruments and proofs that Cook intrusted to his custody—to the custody of a man practically a stranger—he did not sail back to Etah on the Jeanie for those things? Why did he come away from Smith's sound and leave those treasures to the mercy of another arctic winter?

"Let me point out," ran on Peary, "where the Jeanie was when I last saw Mr. Whitney. I picked up Harry Whitney at Etah on Aug. 17 and we ran down the sound about 100 miles to Saunder's island. Clear water and fair winds; fine going.

"At Saunder's island the Jeanie came along. We went into North Star bay so that the Jeanie could transfer the coal it had for me to the Roosevelt. Then we ran out into open water again. Whitney was aboard the Jeanie. He was one day's sail from Etah. He had clear, free water along the eastern shore of the sound.

Whitney Went for a Bear.

"Did Whitney run back to Etah for those immensely valuable records and instruments of Dr. Cook? He did not. He sailed directly west, where the ice was packed against the western shore. He wanted a bear. He cared more about a bear than he did about Cook's property. He would not do without two days of his hunting to go back for what he says now he knew was Cook's proof of the discovery of the pole."

Then, to add a touch of the dramatic, Peary related that whereas Dr. Cook had left his polar flag, his instruments, and records to the mercy of a stranger at Etah, he (Peary) had sewn his flag into his undershirt, sewn his records into his clothing, and taken every precaution humanly possible to guard his instruments against destruction.

"Why," cried Peary, with a savage sneer, "I would not have intrusted those things to my father, mother, or brother, to any human being. They were sewn to me; fastened to me; and would have gone to the bottom of the Arctic sea with me before I would have turned them over to a soul."

Says Eskimos Back Him Up.

Aside from his scanty equipment, his lack of experience, the condition of his sledge when I saw it at Etah," continued Peary, "aside from the clumsy and poorly made snowshoes that afterwards were alleged to have traveled over 1,700 miles of arctic ice; aside from the fact that no other explorer ever had negotiated more than eleven degrees, I have further information from all the Eskimos to back me up in my assumption that Cook has not gone over the sea ice to the pole."

"What is your strongest line of proof that Dr. Cook was not at the north pole?"

"One of my main points will be the strongest that has been advanced in arctic exploration ever since the first great expedition was sent there—that is, the recognized custom of an explorer, when reaching a point attained by an explorer previously, to make a copy of the records in the cairn there, put it in place of the original, and bring the original back with him. Dr. Cook did not do this.

"At Cape Thomas Hubbard I left a record in 1906. Dr. Cook declares after he left Annotok he went to Cape Thomas Hubbard with his large party of Eskimos. Although he had men enough to make a thorough search he did not do so. He passed the cape twice to the pole as he outlines it, but neither time did he say that he had looked for the cairn. My record is still there. If he can show that record I will accept it as positive proof that he was at Cape Thomas Hubbard.

"It was at Indian Harbor that I received a message saying that Cook was at Copenhagen, and that he was making the claim he had reached the pole.

"It was then that I sent my message saying that I knew Cook had not gone far from land. The two Eskimos who had been his company had assured me of this, and their statements had been corroborated by other Eskimos. I had seen every one of every tribe all the way from Cape Columbia to Cape York. I had visited every settlement in Eskimo land, and had complete corroborative evidence from all as to what the first two had said."

Bright Lights and Uniforms Fill the Metropolitan at New York Welcome.

HUGE PARK IS DEDICATED

Rain Forces Crowd to Remain Indoors and Prevents Flights by Aeroplanes.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Metropolitan opera house broke its custom tonight and helped make the white way whiter with a great sign with lighted letters spelling the word "Welcome." It meant that the guests of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission, who had hitherto done the lion's share of entertaining, were being officially received and were to be officially heartily thanked by the mayor and commissioners.

The heavy mist, which soon turned into a drizzling rain, rather spoiled the effect of the festoons of orange, blue and white bunting draped above the entrances, but it only made the lights of the official welcome brighter by contrast, until the lights themselves were put to shame by the splendor of the arriving uniforms. Inside the Metropolitan the corridors, lobby, and boxes were hung with vines and pricked out with red berries. In the corridors greens were massed.

The reception guests arrived slowly, and it was nearly 9 o'clock before the stage began to fill with the white, blue, gold, and green of uniforms, with here and there a vivid dash of red from a ribbon of an order.

Almost the first to take a seat on the stage was Julia Ward Howe. Her cream colored dress, white shawl and white hair made a marked contrast to the uniforms of the men who later gathered about her. Mrs. Howe was the only woman on the stage and the only one to take part in the welcoming exercises.

Delegates Take Their Place.

Promptly on the hour set for the beginning of the reception, Prince Kuniyoshi Kuni, special delegation to the Hudson-Fulton celebration from Japan, took his place in the front row of stage seats. He was stiff and military, but wore no insignia other than the broad red ribbon of the royal order. Near the prince sat Sir Edward Seymour, admiral of the British fleet, his uniform shining with gold lace and many orders. Grand Admiral von Koester, the German delegate; Capt. G. P. Van Hecking Golenbrander of the Utrecht; J. T. Creamer, delegate from the Netherlands; Contre Admrial Le Pord of the Justice, and Jean Gaston Darboux, perpetual secretary of the French Academy of Sciences, the delegate from France.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, president of the Hudson Fulton commission, marshaled the reception committee in the wings, and escorted the guests to their places. Many city officials were seated with the delegates, and just as the orchestra was getting to work, Gov. Hughes took his place among the visitors. The entire first tier of boxes were occupied by members of the diplomatic corps and their wives.

Aside from the naval officers and members of the diplomatic corps and their friends, there were comparatively few people in the main part of the house, and many rows of seats were vacant. It is estimated that not more than 1,500 persons attended the ceremony of the official reception.

Mayor Presides at Meeting.

The orchestra enlivened the long wait before Gen. Woodford introduced Mayor McClellan, by playing a medley of American airs.

Gen. Woodford introduced the mayor simply as "the son of my old commander of the army of the Potomac." After the mayor had taken his place as presiding officer, the Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, bishop of New York, pronounced the invocation.

There followed a song by the Glee club, Longfellow's "Excelsior" in honor of the state's motto, and then the mayor delivered his address of welcome to the delegates. The mayor started in right away to say kind words about Henry Hudson and Fulton, to whom, he said, New York owes its existence and prosperity, and then he started the applause by referring to the fact that a man whose home was on the shores that Hudson had sailed past 300 years ago had recently "performed a deed of exploration fraught with more hardships" than those experienced by the earlier explorer.

Mayor McClellan introduced the foreign delegates, taking up the list in alphabetical order. Some of the delegates merely rose in their places and bowed to the applause which greeted them. Others made brief speeches.

Mrs. Howe Reads Poem.

When the mayor had finished speaking he escorted Mrs. Howe to the front of the stage and told the audience that the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" would read the original poem. The audience became quiet and listened with almost reverent attention while Mrs. Howe read.

In his address Grand Admiral von Koester said:

"Nowhere can sympathy for your celebrations be greater than in Germany, which is connected with the United States by the numerous bonds of friendship, of common descent, of commercial intercourse and common scientific work, and by the cultivation of friendly political relations during more than 100 years. We admire the extraordinary work that has been accomplished in the United States by the irresistible energy and the creative impulse of the American people, and we may be proud of the fact that to a high degree the sons of our country have had the privilege of partaking in the development of the magnitude of the United States as well as the city and state of New York."

Palisades Park Is Dedicated.

Although rain today forced the larger part of the Hudson-Fulton crowds to make the day one of rest within doors, and necessitated the postponement of the aeroplane flights and the balloon race to Albany, the more formal part of the morning and afternoon program, including the notable dedication of Palisades park, the new interstate preserve along the lower Hudson, the dedication of an imposing monument to Henry Hudson in the upper part of New York City and the afternoon reception to the naval visitors on Governor's island went off without a hitch.

The exercises at Palisades park celebrated the saving of these picturesque cliffs near the city from the vandal hand of the stone cutter and the turning over to the people of New York and New Jersey of a strip of beautiful park, stretching for fourteen miles up the west bank of the river. Speeches by two governors proved a drawing card which attracted many thousand New Yorkers and Jerseymen to the spot.

Gov. Hughes found the occasion a fit one for urging upon the people of the two states the conservation of their rivers and forests.

"I hope that this is only the beginning," he said, "of efforts which may jointly be made by these two commonwealths to safeguard the highlands and waters in which they are both deeply interested. The entire watershed of the Hudson should be conserved, to become the people's countryside for common recreation."

Fort Sees Work Ahead.

Gov. Fort, speaking for New Jersey, declared that this Pasilades park is destined to become the most important public preserve in the United States.

"The work here is only begun," he said. "The unsurpassed beauty of this park must be made easily accessible by means of boulevards and roadways, and the thousand and one important historical spots along its fourteen mile stretch must be marked by suitable inscriptions and monuments. There is a great opportunity here, too, to aid in the study of geology. Every man, woman, and child who visits this park should go away with a new realization of the meaning of the wonderful strata and rock formations of these thirty million year old rocks."

The cornerstone of the monument to Henry Hudson on Spuyten Duyvil hill was laid later in the day in a drizzling rain. The storm kept down the attendance, but did not bother Gov. Hughes, who had come over from Palisades park in time to deliver a eulogy on the discoverer of the Hudson. The governor spoke standing bareheaded in the open and declining all offers of umbrellas.

Preparations for the great historical parade which will start early tomorrow afternoon went on today, unhindered by the rain. The weather forecaster assured the public tonight that the rain would not continue and that fine, fair autumn weather could be counted on.

In preparation for the largest crowd which the city has ever seen, shopkeepers along the route have shuttered their plate glass windows with boards, and householders have barricaded themselves behind strong picket fences, which the crowds will be unable to scale. Grandstand tickets sold tonight at prices running from $8 to $25 apiece. Hotel rooms fronting on the line of parade are worth $75 to $100 each.

Wright and Curtiss Ready.

If the wind does not exceed five or six miles an hour and the weather otherwise is propitious, both Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss will make flights in their aeroplanes at Governors island tomorrow morning. Their machines have been thoroughly overhauled and the gasoline tanks filled, leaving nothing unprepared in the event of good weather.

Flights today were made impossible on account of an eighteen mile wind which gave way to a steady rain in the afternoon. After waiting for several hours for the wind to fall, Wright crossed to the city from the island and obtained a canoe to attach to the underpart of his machine as a safeguard against sinking if the aeroplane should alight on the water.

Curtiss will arrive here early tomorrow and will go direct to Governors' island. If weather conditions are right he may make a flight before 10 o'clock.

Wilbur Wright was not sanguine tonight over the outlook for tomorrow.

"It looks to me as if this weather will continue for a day or two," he said. "If I was to take the machine out in this rain it would be weighted down with the dampness in a short time."

Alger May Make Flight.

Among those who visited the aeroplanes today was Russell A. Alger, son of the former secretary of war, of Detroit, the first purchaser of a Wright aeroplane in this country. Wright told Alger that he did not think it was likely that he would take up any one with him during his flights here, but if he did Alger would be the man to go. Curtiss, on account of the small size of his machine and the small motor, probably will not take up a passenger.

An interesting sidelight on aviation came up today, when Jefferson de Mont Thompson, representing the Aero Club of America, which will defend the international trophy won by Curtiss at Rheims, called on Collector Loeb to inquire what duty, if any, would have to be paid by the owners of foreign machines brought here for the international contest. He was told unofficially that any aeroplanes brought over solely for exhibitions or racing probably would be admitted free under bond. In the event of the machines remaining here, either for private use or for sale, they may be dutiable at 45 per cent, under the tariff clause covering manufactures of metal for unenumerated articles not otherwise provided for. If composed chiefly of wood the aeroplanes may be dutiable at 20 per cent.

Handwriting Expert Approves Their Suspicion and Contest Over the Estate in Court Is Likely.

Heirs of the late Michael C. McDonald, one time gambling king of Chicago, are seeking to throw suspicion upon the signature attached to his will. Warren A. Drake, a handwriting expert, has been retained by them and has declared his belief that the signature was not written by McDonald.

The instrument was drawn up by Alexander Sullivan, attorney for the McDonald estate, while the gambler was lying on his death bed in St. Anthony's hospital, in July, 1907.

The witnesses to the will are Attorney Frank L. Kriete and Robert Calladine. Alexander Sullivan and Dr. Leonard St. John, who was attending McDonald, were in the room when it was signed.

"I am certain there was no irregularity in the signing of the will," Dr. St. John said. "There was no attempt at secrecy and I am sure Mr. McDonald signed it."

Alexander Sullivan said he saw the will signed and could testify to the signature.

Mrs. Dora McDonald, the widow, is in Milwaukee. Guy McDonald, the oldest son, said whatever action Mrs. McDonald brought the other heirs would back her up in.

"We will all be parties to any suit she brings," he said. "When those people say the heirs are the only beneficiaries under the will they forget that Mr. Sullivan is named as attorney for the estate, with liberal compensation, and that the trustees are getting as much in fees as the heirs are drawing. This is not a frivolous suit. We mean business."

HARRIMAN WILL IS PROBATED.

Late Magnate's Widow Qualifies as Sole Executrix—Guardian for Minor Heirs Appointed.

Goshen, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The will of E. H. Harriman was probated without objection at Goshen today. Papers in which Mrs. Harriman qualified as sole executrix were presented and letters testamentary were granted to her.

Joseph W. Gott, a Goshen attorney, was appointed special guardian for the minor heirs. It was stated that the appointment of an appraiser for the estate had not been asked for, but probably will be later.

It is possible that if the transfer tax appraiser appointed by the controller makes an appraisal satisfactory to the executrix, however, no other appraiser will be appointed.

Car Line to the Lake Opened.

The Chicago Railways company yesterday began operating its Indiana street line to the lake. The cars were filled when the big factories near the Lake Shore drive yielded up their workers in the evening. The line starts at Grand and Fortieth avenues and until yesterday it stopped at State street. It is the only street car line north of Seventy-fifth street that runs directly to Lake Michigan.

SPAIN RELAXES IN VICTORY

Constitutional Guarantees to Be Restored Save in 2 Provinces.

MOORS ROUTED; ASK TERMS.

Defenses Occupied and Coast Line Blazes with Burning Towns.

MADRID, Sept. 27.—Following the satisfactory news of Spanish successes in Morocco, the cabinet has decided to restore the constitutional guarantees, except in the provinces of Barcelona and Gerona, and to summon the cortes on Oct. 15.

The occupation of Zeluan was made easy by the effective shelling of the artillery. The actual storming of the town was accomplished by Gen. Tovar's brigade, Gen. Orozco effecting the enveloping movement. Only a few of the Spaniards were wounded, but the casualties among the Moors were heavy.

Caid Amas Asks for Terms.

Both Nador and Zeluan have been occupied. The ring around Mount Guruga is now considered almost closed, and the position of the Moors is desperate. Caid Amas appeared before Gen. Marina, the commander of the Spanish forces, and asked terms of surrender for the tribes intrenched on Mount Guruga. The results of this conference are not known, but it is believed the Moors are ready to submit without conditions.

The defenses of Nador were razed and the town burned by the Spaniards. The Moors had constructed deep ditches around Nador, evidently with the intention of putting up a stubborn defense. From Nador the Spanish artillery shelled Zeluan. The positions surrounding Nador now are occupied by 20,000 Spanish soldiers.

The entire coast line at Alhucemas, Morocco, is illuminated with the fires of burning Moorish villages. After the Spanish batteries in the fighting of yesterday had silenced the native artillery, the infantry advanced and drove the Moors from their positions.

Nearly Over, Says Ambassador.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Marquis Del Muni, Spanish ambassador, today declared that Spain's campaign in Morocco was nearly ended, and that its military program had been practically carried out. Spanish officials, he continued, were conducting peace negotiations with the Beni Sicar tribe, the most powerful of the Riffians, and their surrender speedily would be followed by the submission of the other tribesmen.

QUEBEC PREMIER CORRECTS STORY OF DUTY ON PULP WOOD

Says This Has Not Been Decided On, but Declares Exportation of Manufactured Timber Will Be Prohibited.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The report that the Quebec provincial government had decided to impose an export duty on all raw pulp wood exported to the United States is denied by Premier Gouin. Mr. Gouin said today that he wished it specifically stated that his announcement at St. Johns recently did not mention any export duty, and that it was not the intention of the government to propose any such duty.

MRS. DEPEW IS AUTO VICTIM.

Wife of Senator Cut About Forehead by Broken Glass Following Collision in Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew met with a painful accident on Saturday while riding in an automobile on the Champs Elysées. A public taxicab collided with her automobile and Mrs. Depew was cut about the forehead by broken glass. It was at first feared she might lose the sight of one eye, but this danger is now past, and with the senator she will sail for New York on Saturday.

FEARS NEW ITALIAN QUAKES

American Savant Believes Sicily Again Will Be Shaken.

SEPT. 29 SINISTER DATE.

Middle West Visited by Slight Tremors, Which Prove Harmless.

MESSINA, Sept. 27.—Frank A. Perret, the American volcanologist, who arrived here today, believes from his scientific deductions that this part of Sicily again will be the scene of seismic disturbances. Mr. Perret said:

"Wednesday, Sept. 29, is the date most favorable for earthquakes or eruptions. At that time the sun, earth, and moon are in line with each other, and the moon also is at its nearest approach to the earth.

"This combination occurs frequently, tending to produce gravitational distortion of the earth's form—namely: to change the earth from a sphere to an ellipse. This extra strain often acts upon the weak spots in the earth's crust, causing them to give way and thus producing earthquakes or volcanic eruptions.

Mars Nearest on Wednesday.

"On Wednesday it happens that the planet Mars is nearest to the earth and also almost directly in line with the earth, sun, and moon, while Saturn is not far from the same line.

"Jupiter, although far on the other side of the sun, also is in a line with the earth. It is true that the effect of these planets is much less than that of the sun and the moon, but when their effect is added the strain will be greater than usual.

"Thus I consider that Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday next will be dangerous. Possibly nothing special will occur, but this simply will mean that the earth has resisted the danger that nevertheless existed."

SHOCKS IN SIX STATES.

Slight earthquake shocks occurred in six middle west states early yesterday. Reports from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Kentucky, and Iowa tell of tremors which caused momentary alarm to the residents but in no case did much damage.

The University of Illinois astromonical laboratory received a shock at 3:45 a. m. Quakes were felt at about the same time at Ramsey, Marion, Albion, Cairo, Decatur, Mattoon, Peoria, Mount Vernon, Springfield, and other Illinois towns. A few points in this state report more than one shock, Marion experiencing four.

B. L. WINCHELL JR. MARRIES DAUGHTER OF A DIPLOMAT.

Wedding of Miss Elizabeth Winslow to Chicagoan Solemnized in Paris Before Brilliant Assemblage.

The wedding of Elizabeth Winslow, daughter of Edward Winslow, consul general at Stockholm, and Benjamin L. Winchell Jr. of Chicago was solemnized yesterday morning at the American church in the Rue Berri, Paris.

The Rev. Mr. Goodrich officiated and, according to cable dispatches, a number of Chicagoans were in attendance.

The bride wore a blue walking costume and black hat with red rose and giant ostrich plume. She walked down the aisle on her father's arm, the prelude to "Die Meistersinger" being played at her request.

Among those present were the bride's sisters, Martha and Anna; Gen. Spiridovitch, special representative of the czar; A. J. Nelidow, Russian ambassador; Henry White, American ambassador; Consul General Mason, First Secretary Blanchard of the embassy at Paris, and Congressman Alexander.

Telephone Company Buys New Lines.

TRUE BILLS UNDER SEAL.

"Ad" Not Specific; Embarrasses Librarian.

Miss Rosamond Jocelyn, librarian of the Carnegie library at Sixth avenue and Ninth street, Brooklyn, had good reason today for believing that men are the only persons who read advertisements in the newspapers. Miss Jocelyn, who is 19 and pretty, has been living with Mrs. Charlotte Adams, 48 Madison street, Brooklyn, but as Mrs. Adams plans going away Miss Jocelyn decided the best way to obtain another housemate was to advertise, so she inserted the following:

Until replies began to appear Miss Jocelyn never knew how many bachelors there are who are tired of washing their own dishes and sweeping their own rooms. She never knew there were so many persons entitled to apply for admission to the Lonesome club. The advertisement brought them out. They started early in the morning. There were men with long hair looking for a chance to be useful about the house, while others were willing to make themselves agreeable with the mandolin while their housemate played the obligato frying the beefsteak.

Miss Jocelyn realized too late that she should have specified she wanted a woman and not a man for a housemate, but the steady ring of the doorbell continued until in desperation she took her name from the letter box and precipitately left Mrs. Adams to cope with the applicants, which Mrs. Adams did by telling them out of the upstairs window "to please go away."

Indictments in Copper and Rebating Cases.

After having investigated the affairs of F. Augustus Heinze's United Copper company, as well as charges of rebating against several transatlantic steamship lines and railroads, the federal grand jury returned several sealed indictments today which were handed into the criminal branch of the United States Circuit court. While it is understood that bench warrants were issued on the indictments, they will be kept under seal until the grand jury investigation of the steamship-railroad cases is completed.

An injunction restraining the holding tomorrow of the annual meeting of the Davis-Daly Mining company, of which F. A. Heinze is president, has been granted by the Maine courts on the petition of Newman Erb and S. M. Jarvis. The meeting probably will be held Oct. 15. The petitioners claimed that the stockholders did not have sufficient notification of the meeting.

According to a statement by attorneys for F. Augustus Heinze, the efforts of Newman Erb and others to wrest the management of the Davis-Daly Copper Mining company from the control of the Heinze interests will prove unavailing, as proxies for 350,000 shares—a safe majority, it is said—are already in the hands of the Heinze committee.

Heinze Suit for $200,000 Against Trust Company.

Stephen Brooks Rosenthal, attorney for F. Augustus Heinze, stated today he had instituted suit for $200,000 against the Windsor Trust company as a result of the alleged theft of $110,000 worth of Heinze stock by youthful Wall street operators, who obtained the securities from the trust company. M. M. Joyce, Heinze's broker, obtained a loan of $50,000 on the stock before it was hypothecated. Rosenthal refused to make any statements concerning the suit until the report that papers had been served upon President John Alvin Young of the trust company was brought to his attention.

1,000 CHILDREN IN STAMPEDE

Fireworks Cause Panic in Jersey School and 14 Are Injured.

SCORES HURT BY EXPLOSION.

Electrical Spark Brings Big Damage in Downtown Pittsburg.

New York, Sept. 27.—Terrified by Black Hand stories 1,000 children stampeded in a Polish parochial school in Jersey City today when fireworks were set off in the street, and rushed for the doors. Fourteen were crushed, one so seriously that death probably will result.

The dangerously injured child is Marianna Zelackshky, 7 years old; the others are five girls and eight boys, all ranging from 7 to 10 years in age. All are in Jersey City hospitals.

The schoolhouse, a three story brick building, is a stone's throw from an Italian church, which had obtained a permit to set off fireworks at a church celebration today.

A rumor got out last week among the children that threats had been made to blow up the schools with dynamite. The children of St. Anthony's school have been particularly nervous about it, and when the fireworks went off suddenly today they ran shrieking from their recitation rooms into the halls and down the stairways.

There are two street doorways, but one of them was closed. At the closed entrance there was a jam, and several of the smaller children were trampled into unconsciousness, while others ran back into the building and sprang through the open windows, fifteen feet to an areaway below.

Scores Hurt in Explosion.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 27.—A terrific explosion today in the offices of the Columbian Film exchange in the Ferguson building in the downtown district injured from fifty to seventy-five persons, many seriously. The monetary damage is estimated at $200,000.

A score of the injured were taken to hospitals. A majority of them are burned, while the others sustained fractures of the arms and limbs.

The force of the explosion was so great that the south wall of the building was blown out. The remaining walls were badly damaged and the building inspector immediately ordered them razed. Windows for a square on either side were broken and a number of pedestrians were cut by falling glass. The explosion was caused by an electrical spark.

Fall Downstairs to Escape.

Practically every office in the building, an eight story structure, was damaged. Panic stricken, the occupants rushed for the exits. Men and women ran, screaming, many of them falling, down the stairways. Others congregated about the elevator shaft, and in their frantic efforts to board the cars wrecked the iron framework encasing the shaft. As they finally reached the street they fell to the ground suffering from burns, cuts, and bruises.

John Jilletts, a clerk, said the explosion occurred in the vaults. Jilletts said he went into the vault to get a film. When he turned the electric light on a spark shot from the switch and ignited one of the films. He jumped from the vault, slammed the door, and shouted to the others to run.

DICKINSON TO HEAR PLEA TO BETTER CHICAGO WATER.

Health Commissioner Evans Will See Secretary of War in Few Days About Dumping Plan to Stop Pollution.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., last evening announced that Secretary of War Dickinson will be ready within a few days to give his personal attention to Chicago's plea against the pollution of its water supply by the dredgings from the river. As soon as he is ready Health Commissioner Evans will make his third trip to Washington in connection with this subject.

The request of the city is that all material dredged from the river be taken at least eight miles out in the lake before it is dumped or that it be emptied behind breakwaters close to the shore for the purpose of making land. Either of these methods, the health department holds, will not endanger the safety of the city's drinking water.

Dr. Evans probably will be accompanied by Industrial Commissioner Humphrey of the Association of Commerce and Dr. W. D. Weiss, health commissioner of Hammond, Ind.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF UNITARIANS OPENS HERE.

"A Divine Discontent Part of Our Heritage Which Forbids Us to Rest Satisfied," Says the Rev. U. G. Pierce.

The Unitarian National conference opened here yesterday with committee meetings at the Chicago Beach hotel. The conference sermon was delivered last night in the Fine Arts building by the Rev. U. G. Pierce of Washington, D. C. The business of religion, he asserted, was to finish the world, to perfect man.

"A divine discontent is part of our heritage," he said. "It forbids us to rest satisfied with things as they are. We cannot regard either the world or ourselves otherwise than as raw material, for a growing man demands a growing world to live in. What we crave for is not a world made perfect for us, but by us.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

WHITE SLAVE BAND EXPOSED IN COURT

CRUSADE IS UNDER WAY.

Offers of Help Pour In on Attorney Roe, Who Is to Direct the Fight.

Striking confirmation of the theory that the white slave traffic of Chicago is conducted by organized bands was afforded by a case that came to light yesterday. In the southwest quarter of the city was found a household into which young girls—many not yet in their 'teens—were enticed. Then notifications were sent out to others.

Edward Wolf, 35 years old, 6324 Normal avenue, was held to the grand jury in the case on charges made by May Michelson, 13 years old, 5329 Winchester avenue. The bonds of Wolf, who says he is an agent of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, were set at $1,500 at the Englewood police court.

Thirteen men arrested by the police in connection with the affair, which involved the alleged enticing of three little girls into the house of Jerry Trimley and his wife, Grace Trimley, 1746 W. Fifty-fourth street, were identified by the children in court. The Trimleys also are under arrest at the New City police station. They are charged with enticing May Michelson, her sister Nora, 11 years old, and Lucy Spears, 9 years old, into their home on the pretense that they would pay them for performing housework. Instead of giving them work, the little girls said that Trimley and his wife locked them in a room with a number of men.

Wolf, it was alleged, went to the Trimley home to collect insurance premiums. The other men came at the request of Trimley, whose wife collected money from all the visitors.

Volunteers Enter the Fight.

The white slave crusade went forward with increasing vigor during the day. The spirit of the volunteer inspired scores of Chicagoans—family people interested in the saving of girls—to enlist under the standard of former Assistant State's Attorney Clifford G. Roe in his fight under the auspices of public spirited members of B'Nai B'Rith, the Commercial club, and other organizations. The telephone bell jangled constantly in Mr. Roe's office on the fourteenth floor of the Ashland block in the afternoon, the callers offering information which may lead to the jailing of procurers and panderers preying upon innocence for money.

Twenty amateur detectives called to offer their services in hunting down procurers and rescuing their victims from resorts. Many of the callers admitted that they had been fired by tales of white slavery taken from recent court records and made public through THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Roe.

Mr. Roe, who has been retained for a period of one year from Oct. 1 by interests represented by Adolf Kraus, head of B'Nai B'Rith, said that while the work will be carried on from his own law office for the present, it is probable that the pressure of detections and prosecutions will force the establishment of a special bureau in the loop district. Especially will this be the case if other cities and perhaps other countries coöperate with the Chicago foes of the white slave trade, as has been suggested.

Encouraged by Church Support.

Mr. Roe was encouraged by the indorsement of the fight by the church federation council of Chicago during the day, meeting in the First Methodist Church building. The ministers were stimulated to give an official stamp of approval to the crusade by addresses made by the Rev. A. C. Dixon of Moody church and the Rev. Ernest A. Bell of the Midnight mission. It was resolved to make conditions in the levee a special order of business at the next meeting, which is scheduled for Nov. 29.

The Rev. Mr. Dixon sounded the call for an organized church war upon what he called the "infernos of the city." He joined with Mr. Bell in asserting that high police officials "protect" the districts. Dr. C. R. Henderson of the University of Chicago, who spoke as a member of the International Prison Reform association, praised the work of Mr. Roe. He told the ministers that it was their duty to help it along.

The demand of the Rev. Mr. Bell and the Rev. Mr. Dixon that the levees be abolished was laid over until the next meeting so that all who may desire to do so will have an opportunity to go on record.

While declining to involve himself in discussions respecting theories on the segregation of vice, Mr. Roe pictured some object lessons in white slavery which have appeared in the Chicago courts. He declared that business men of Chicago are anxious to see the evil annihilated lest people outside of Chicago become afraid to send their children here to school.

Police and Prosecutor to Aid.

Mr. Roe's assertion followed assurances by representatives of the state's attorney's office and Chief of Police Steward to the effect that all the legal machinery available will be put at the service of Mr. Roe.

"Our main field of endeavor will be Chicago," said Mr. Roe, "but we shall be glad to coöperate with foes of white slavery in other countries and other cities. There is plenty of opportunity to start the work. The National Vigilance association, with headquarters at Baltimore, and other organizations will be glad to work in harmony with us. The B'Nai B'Rith is an international organization and it may help us in Europe. The United States district attorney's office is an invaluable aid in combating the importation of girls.

"Our work will be secret. We are going after panderers and procurers as a business man would run a business.

"There are three ways to fight white slavery—publicity, education, and law enforcement. Our way will be that of law enforcement. We have the law and we have the spur to enofrce the law."

POLICE SEEK MILWAUKEE PAIR.

Frank Urbaniak Says His Daughter and Roman Cichatski Eloped, Taking $500 with Them.

The Chicago police were asked yesterday by Frank Urbaniak of Milwaukee to search this city for his daughter, Mary, and Roman Cichatski, with whom she is said to have eloped. The girl's father said she took $500 with her when she went away.

OBITUARY.

JOHN O'NEIL, who superintended the elevation of more than 500 miles of track in Chicago, will be buried after funeral services tomorrow afternoon from his residence, 3416 Vernon avenue. Burial will be at Graceland. Mr. O'Neil's death on Sunday ended a stirring career. He was born in 1833 at Newark, N. J., and went when young to join "Kit" Carson's scouts on a tour through Mexico, during which there was constant fighting with Indians. After the war he came to Chicago and held many political positions. He resigned from office following a suit for $50,000 brought against him by Mabel Beland, his 23 year old adopted niece, who alleged breach of promise.

SIMON SHAFFER of 5850 Calumet avenue died last evening at the Rhodes avenue hospital, after a short illness. He was engaged in business at 386 South Paulina street, and had been prominent in local politics. He is survived by a wife, a son, and a daughter. Mr. Shaffer was 48 years old.

REAR ADMIRAL CHARLES JAMES BARCLAY, U. S. N., retired, died yesterday at his home in Brookline, Mass., aged 66. He was recognized as a torpedo and ordnance expert.

RAIL STOCK MERGER IN EAST

GOOD RESULTS PROPHESIED.

Immediate Improvement in Business Expected by Directors.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The annual report of the directors of the New Haven railroad to the stockholders for the year ending June 30, 1909, was made public tonight. The directors, after alluding to the formation of the Boston Railroad Holding company, authorized by a Massachusetts legislature, states:

"The Boston Railroad Holding company was organized to enter into contracts for the purchase of a large block of Boston and Maine railroad stock, representing a substantial control of the outstanding stock of that company. Your directors have entered into agreements to purchase any stocks and bonds of the Boston Railroad Holding company that may be issued for the payment of the same.

"The result of this transaction will be to give to your company an indirect control of the stock interest in the Boston and Maine railroad through your ownership of all outstanding capital of the Boston Railroad Holding company."

Expect Immediate Improvement.

"This satisfactory conclusion of the controversies which grew out of the purchase by the New England Navigation company of a large stock interest in the Boston and Maine railroad about two years ago is anticipated by your directors, to be a large advantage to your company in building up a distinctively New England railroad system devoted to the interest of that section, securing more advantageous arrangements with connecting lines and a more economical administration of the properties when run in common interest than resulted heretofore.

"Much will have to be done before the estimated results will be realized, but that immediate improvement in the business of both companies will result is confidently anticipated."

According to the report the total operating revenue for the year was $54,347,630, and the total operating expenses $36,080,306, leaving a net operating revenue of $18,267,324. Income from other sources brought the total income up to $24,273,308. Total deductions from the income amounted to $16,843,079, leaving a net income of $7,430,228. Dividends amounting to $7,883,842, deducted from the net income, made a deficit of $453,613.

Plan to Raise Capital.

The directors say: "In order to provide the necessary capital to meet maturing obligations and expenditures for improvements, it is proposed to give to the stockholders the right to subscribe for additional shares of capital stock at the rate of $125 a share. Each stockholder is to be entitled to subscribe for one share of new stock for each four shares held. Holders of convertible debentures will have the same rights of subscription as if they already held stock into which their debentures later were convertible."

BUILDING TRADES TANGLE MAY BE UNRAVELED TODAY.

Situation Amicably Discussed by Officials of Rival Labor Unions, but No Agreement Is Reached.

After many hours of discussion the conference between officials of the two rival building trades' labor unions to settle the present labor strike tangle was continued for today.

No agreement was reached between "Skinny" Madden and his lieutenants and John A. Metz and the new labor organization's officials, but it was said they discussed the situation in a friendly way, and that probably a settlement will be reached this morning.

Workmen at the City hall building had their tools ready to go out on a moment's notice and waited the order to strike. Unless an agreement is reached today a strike will be ordered on all the large buildings now in the course of construction in Chicago. This will involve 25,000 workmen.

SAY CHANGES MEAN HAWLEY MERGER

Railway Men See Vast Trunk Line System as Result of New Appointments.

SOUTHWEST AS GAINER.

M. and St. L. and Iowa Central Changes Interpreted as Step Toward Coast Road.

Official announcement was received in Chicago yesterday from New York of what is believed to be the first definite step toward the physical merger of the railroads comprising the Hawley group of lines into a vast trunk line system extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the Missouri river and with friendly connections which will complete the line to the Pacific coast of Mexico.

The deal is to be accomplished by the syndicate dominated by Edwin Hawley of New York, allied with whom are Theodore P. Shonts, Paul Morton, John W. Gates, and other capitalists.

The announcement was made in the form of a circular appointing the present executive officers of the Chicago and Alton-Clover Leaf system to similar positions on the Iowa Central and Minneapolis and St. Louis roads. These roads have been controlled heretofore by the Hawley interests, but have been operated as separate properties. After Oct. 2, when the appointments become effective, it is understood they will become a physical part of the Alton-Clover Leaf system.

New Officers of Roads.

The new officers of the two roads, according to the circular, are as follows: Chairman of the board, Edwin Hawley, New York; president, Mr. Shonts, New York; vice president, George H. Ross, Chicago; vice president in charge of traffic, Walter L. Ross, Chicago; vice president and treasurer, F. H. Davis, New York; secretary, A. C. Doan, New York; assistant treasurer, W. W. Cole, Minneapolis; controller, E. S. Benson, New York.

Mr. Hawley is now president of the Iowa Central and Minneapolis and St. Louis, as well as vice president of the Alton and Clover Leaf. Mr. Shonts is president of the latter two roads. W. L. Ross and G. H. Ross are the vice presidents in active charge of the Alton and Clover Leaf roads.

The next move in the merger, it is asserted, is to be the acquisition of the Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville, which runs from Chicago to Cincinnati, by the Chesapeake and Ohio. This road, which was recently acquired by the Hawley syndicate, extends from Cincinnati to Newport News, Va., and in connection with the Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville, now in receivers' hands, would complete the connection with tidewater.

Figures Show Magnitude.

The completed system, when the plans with which the syndicate is credited are carried out, will have a total mileage of 5,157, an aggregate capitalization in stocks and bonds of $396,456,000, and will be composed of the following properties:

	Mileage.	Capitalization.
Chicago and Alton	998	$113,595,000
Clover Leaf	451	47,524,600
Iowa Central	558	31,537,000
Minneapolis and St. Louis	1,027	30,000,000
Chesapeake and Ohio	1,841	163,000,000
Chicago, Cin., and Louisville	282	10,800,000
	5,157	$396,456,000

The friendly connection is the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, which has been completed by A. E. Stillwell, with the aid of English capital, from Kansas City to Sweetwater, Tex., a distance of about 900 miles, and which is rapidly being extended across Mexico to the Pacific coast at Topolobampo.

George H. Ross was elected a director of the Orient several weeks ago and his election was followed shortly by a traffic agreement between the Alton and the Orient. The agreement is already in effect as far as it applies to freight traffic and may be extended later to permit the operation of through passenger trains from Chicago into Texas and Mexico.

Other Changes Foreshadowed.

Chicago officials of the Alton and Clover Leaf during the day would not confirm the reports, which have been current for some time, referring all inquiries to the New York men who are in charge of the financial affairs of the two companies. Regarding changes in the operating forces of the Iowa Central and Minneapolis and St. Louis roads, Mr. George H. Ross said he was not yet in a position to make any announcement until after he had studied the requirements of the new properties.

It is rumored, however, that George J. Charlton, at present general passenger agent of the Alton and Clover Leaf, is to become passenger traffic manager of the system, with Robert J. McKay, now assistant general passenger agent, as general passenger agent, and that P. H. Houlahan, general manager of the Alton and Clover Leaf, will be appointed to succeed M. B. Cutter, who resigned Sept. 15. Other changes in the appointive offices are also expected to follow.

Northwest to Southwest.

What changes in the mode of operation of the roads are to follow a merger of the properties is not yet known, although it has been stated that Hawley desired to form a trunk line for through transportation connecting the seaboard with the northwest and the southwest.

The line thus formed would be an indirect one from the east to Chicago, although a shorter distance could be obtained by connecting the C., C. and L. with the Clover Leaf at Marion, Ind., rather than with the Alton at Chicago.

The Iowa Central connects with the Alton at Peoria, Ill., and with the Minneapolis and St. Louis at Des Moines, Ia. From Minneapolis the latter road extends west into the wheat fields at Watertown, S. D. An important feature of the merger is that it would not require the construction of any additional track.

It is understood that steps looking toward the lifting of the receivership of the Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville will be taken in a few weeks.

COAL TRUST A MYTH.—BAER

Reading President Declares Companies Are Innocent.

TAKES STAND IN SUIT.

Asserts That No Agreement on Prices Ever Was Made.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—George F. Baer, head of the Reading Railroad and Coal company, the Jersey Central railroad, and the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre company, took the stand today for the first time in the two years during which the government suit to break up the alleged hard coal trust has been under way.

Mr. Baer's testimony was a general denial both of the charge that there is a hard coal trust and that he and his associates in the Reading company have been instrumental in advancing the price of hard coal to the small consumer.

"There never has been an agreement, combination, or conspiracy between the companies I represent and any other coal or railroad companies to control the output or sale of anthracite coal," declared Mr. Baer. "Some of my topioftical friends in New York who are operating coal companies and railroads said the Reading had no right to go west when our company began seeking a market in the west."

Tells Law of Price and Production.

Mr. Baer then entered a specific denial to all the charges contained in the complaint of the government filed in June, 1907. While on the stand the anthracite leader gave much interesting information regarding the natural law of prices, production, etc.

Mr. Baer was examined by counsel for his companies. He denied that a monopoly existed in the anthracite region, denied that the independent operators were forced to accept the 65 per cent basis on which they sell their coal to the coal carrying roads, and, further, denied absolutely that there is an attempt at division of the coal production.

"We mine and market coal regardless of what other companies do," he said. He testified that no railroad company can prosper by carrying anthracite coal exclusively, and made the interesting statement that the Reading railway at the present time shows a greater tonnage increase in bituminous coal than in anthracite. The Reading railroad's prosperity dated, he said, from the time that miscellaneous traffic became greater than the hard coal tonnage.

Says Agreements Are Voluntary.

In denying that the individual operators were forced to sell their coal to the coal carrying road on the 65 per cent basis, Mr. Baer said the individual operators entered into a voluntary agreement with the railroads.

The cost of mining and selling the coal, he said, was expensive, and by selling his product to the railroad, the individual risked nothing in transportation, had no expense in marketing his coal, and always was sure of his money. The railroads, Mr. Baer said, did not care whether the independent companies continued the contract or canceled it.

He explained that the uniform price charged for anthracite coal is not the result of an agreement. The Reading company, he said, is under greater expense than any other company in producing coal and it fixes a fair price. The others follow and reap a greater profit.

"The price of the entire supply of anything necessary for a community will be regulated by the cost of production of that portion of the necessary supply which is produced at the greatest expense," he said.

STONE FALLS FROM CITY HALL; HIGHLAND PARK WOMAN HURT.

Break in Cable Causes Three Ton Block to Crash Into Street Below, Causing Injury to Miss Caroline Johnson.

The sudden parting of a cable caused a six thousand pound stone to fall from the top of the new city hall building yesterday, and while hundreds of pedestrians were in the street below, only one, Miss Caroline Johnson of Highland Park, was injured.

The stone crashed into the fence surrounding the building, throwing a shower of débris over the young woman. She suffered some painful bruises, but was able to go home unattended after being cared for in a nearby drug store.

Miss Johnson had just returned from a four months visit with her parents in Sweden and was on her way to Highland Park, where she is employed in the home of John A. Putnam. She was warned of her danger by several persons who saw the stone slipping, but apparently failed to hear their cries.

The accident was reported to the building department at the city hall and an investigation has been ordered. Because of the weight of the stone and the height from which it fell dozens of persons might have been hurt. An inspector will make inquiries to learn if the contractors are using cables of proper strength.

Taft Courier in City Today.

The Philadelphia Press transcontinental relay car, carrying a message from President Taft to the president of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, will arrive in Chicago this afternoon. Chief Steward will have a detail of policemen meet the courier and escort him through the city.

FIGHT ON SALOONS HAILED BY WETS

SHIELDS SEES FALSE MOVE

Declares Chairman of the No License Committee Fired First Shot Too Soon.

The liquor interests heard yesterday morning of the forthcoming wet and dry fight in Chicago, which will culminate at the April election, and immediately went into action.

"We welcome the attack," said Rudolph Brand, the recognized head of the militant liquor forces in Chicago. "We are ready for them. We will defeat them three to one."

John H. Hill, commander in chief of the anti-saloon contingent, simply smiled when he heard the reply from the wet camp to the ultimatum that a local option election is to be forced in Chicago.

"This is the opportunity of a lifetime to drive the saloons from Chicago," he said. "It is the psychological moment to initiate the contest, which I believe will result in driving out every saloon from Chicago's city limits."

The only fly in the ointment of the foes of Demon Rum was the attack which came from James K. Shields, the state executive officer of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league. Supt. Shields affirmed that Chairman Hill of the no license committee of 100 had fired a premature blast.

Calls Hill's Move Premature.

"Mr. Hill seems to have had a hurry call," said Mr. Shields. "It hasn't been decided yet whether the anti-saloon fight shall be made next spring or whether it will be better to delay another year. That was to be decided at a conference to which representatives of the active organizations in the fight against the saloons were to have been called for a consultation."

Supt. Shields was on the job at Springfield during several sessions of the general assembly when the local option question was an issue, and he thinks that he is entitled to consideration when the prime undertaking of the foes of the saloon is about to have its official beginning.

Mr. Hill had no comment to make to the criticism of Mr. Shields except to say that he had no such understanding as Mr. Shields conveyed.

"The no license committee of 100 begins operations next Friday," said Chairman Hill. "All the necessary preliminaries will be arranged then and the first petitions will be ready for circulation. There is not the slightest doubt of the ability to secure the necessary number of signatures. The active campaign will begin Feb. 1. We expect the coöperation of every organization in Chicago which honestly and sincerely wishes to drive out the saloon."

Will Put Aldermen on Record.

From wet headquarters came the announcement that, in view of the attack of the dry leaders, the organized liquor forces will expect every candidate for alderman next spring to declare himself one way or the other on the saloon question.

"That is absolutely necessary," said M. J. McCarthy, secretary of the state liquor dealers' organization. "Our plan of campaign makes it almost compulsory for the candidates for aldermen to show where they stand. Practical political organization is a necessity to us and an amalgamation of our forces with the working machinery of an aldermanic candidate is what we expect and doubtless will demand when the proper time comes. Our organization in the state embraces 6,000 saloonkeepers. In Chicago we have 5,000. We expect enough votes to settle the issue once and for all."

Rudolph Brand expressed the same suggestion. "We have no fear of the result," he said, "but a perfect organization is a necessity. We will give them such a defeat as will stop them finally in Chicago. We welcome this fight, because it will compel them to centralize their forces in the city and give us a chance to win back the downstate cities like Rockford, Decatur, and Galesburg, which we lost two years ago.

May Pick Headquarters Today.

"It is not reasonable to think that Chicago will drive 7,000 places of business into the street, deprive the city of $7,000,000 in revenue, and throw that many storerooms on the market."

The aldermen and would-be aldermen who were available last night, did not take kindly to the idea that they would be forced to declare themselves wet or dry. Some of them had memories of the battle which traveled along with the $1,000 license ordinance, and said that they hoped conditions would change between now and the spring time, so that they could forget all about the saloon question and stay in the aldermanic running.

The location of the anti-saloon headquarters has not been chosen. Chairman Hill said that this announcement would be made today or tomorrow, together with the announcement of the names of the active campaign committee of 100 which will have executive charge of the work of circulating the petitions.

JAPS' "HARRIMAN" URGES U.S. AS ALLY

"Let Us Be Known as Yankees of Orient," Says Baron Shibusawa at Banquet.

END STAY IN CHICAGO.

Nipponese Merchants Are Highly Pleased with Knowledge Gained on Trip.

Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, the "Harriman of Japan," director of seventy railroads in the Flowery kingdom, made an appeal for a commercial alliance between the United States and Japan in an address at the banquet given last night to the visiting Japanese commercial delegates by the Association of Commerce in the gold room of the Congress hotel.

"If Japan is to choose an affinity among the nations of the world," he said, "let it be the United States. Let us be called the Yankees of the orient."

In an address to 200 business men of Chicago and members of the Association of Commerce, the Japanese financier urged those of his countrymen present to join him in an invitation for peaceful commercial relations which shall draw the two nations together and make both stronger.

The banquet was the crowning event in the visit of the representatives of the associated Japanese chambers of commerce to Chicago where they had come to study commercial and industrial conditions.

Banquet Climax of Visit.

The banquet was the social event of the visit of the Japanese delegation and the Japanese women of the party sat in the balcony of the banquet hall with a number of well known Chicago women. The group consisted of:

Mrs. E. M. Skinner,
Baroness Shibusawa,
Miss Takanshi,
Mrs. H. A. Wheeler,
Mrs. Sherman,
Mrs. Swadener,
Mrs. Manss,
Mrs. R. U. Kimbark,
Mme. Matsubara,
Mme. Taki,
Mrs. Defrees,
Mme. Horikoshi,
Mme. Midzuno,
Mrs. Starring,
Mrs. Wigmore,
Mrs. Sheldon,
Mrs. Ferguson,
Mrs. Sidley,
Mrs. Clark,
Mrs. Becker,
Mrs. Newman Miller,
Baroness Kanda,
Mrs. J. W. Scott.

President Edward M. Skinner of the Association of Commerce presided as toastmaster and delivered an address of welcome which was seconded on behalf of the city by George M. Bagby, representing Mayor Busse. Other addresses were delivered in English by President Edmund J. James of the University of Illinois, Prof. John H. Wigmore, dean of the college of law of Northwestern university, and Harry A. Wheeler, vice president of the Association of Commerce.

The addresses in English were translated into the Japanese language in a booklet furnished to each of the visiting guests, while the addresses of the Japanese leaders were promptly translated from notes by the interpreters of the party and given in English to the members of the receiving association.

Reproduce Speeches in English.

No better illustration of the acute Japanese intellect, which has developed a wonderful commercial system into that country of the orient in half a century could have been furnished than the rapidity with which the interpreters, K. Midzumo, consul general, and Motozada Zumoto, reproduced in the English language the speeches of their leaders from the notes taken while they were delivered.

Politeness and courtesy dominated the speeches of the Japanese visitors, and though they did not hesitate to criticise what seemed amiss in American business life, they were profuse in their apologies for pointing out the faults.

"Since our arrival in this great metropolis," said Baron Shibusawa, "we have had a rare opportunity of going through some of the most wonderful industrial establishments we have ever visited. In addition to what you have done to welcome us, you have been kind enough to provide this opportunity.

"Since I have listened to the eloquent addresses of so many of your representative citizens I feel that it is incumbent upon me to say something more than a mere expression of thanks. It is not necessary for me to repeat the object of our visit."

"Coming to your country we thought it well to devote as much of our time as you would leave us to the investigation of your commercial and industrial institutions.

Realize America's Greatness.

"We came here to learn of you and complete our industries. We are beginning to realize the greatness of the republic of America.

"We Japanese have during the last fifty years succeeded to some extent in introducing various of your institutions, arts, and sciences from the west, and for whatever success we have had we thank you Americans.

"Mr. Wheeler has said that America has bought more from us than we have bought from you. Let me not be understood to refer to his speech in criticism, but I may, however, ask your permission to point out a few things.

"Though you have bought more from us, the things you have purchased were of greater profit to your merchants than what we bought to ours. What we got from America was given directly to the consumers at little profit for their benefit and for the benefit of the nation, and we have felt the results. The object of this mission is not to find out what we may sell, but what we may buy."

Want to Be "Yankees of Orient."

"It is a pleasure to hear from your speakers that the nations of America and Europe are vying with each other to appropriate us as their affinities, but we would not be called the English, French, or Germans, but the Yankees of the orient."

Kajiro Matsukata, builder of warships and merchant vessels and president of the Kobe chamber of commerce, elicited "banzais" by declaring that Chicago is destined to become the financial center of the world.

"This is not flattery," said the speaker. "Your own Patrick Henry said that 'The past is the lamp of the future.' Let us have peace upon a commercial basis. I believe the statistics of our trade stand as they do largely because of mutual ignorance. We hope to increase our purchasing power."

Baron Naibu Kanda, professor in the Peers school of Tokio, declared that the terms "east" and "west" no longer are proper and that a new phraseology should be devised to furnish designation of direction around a sphere.

Of the welcoming speakers Prof. Wigmore was most enthusiastically received by the Japanese, he speaking to them in their own language. He repeated the story from Japanese legendary history of Miyamoto Musashi, the famous swordsman, who combined the methods of his father and his adopted father and invented a new system which vanquished all comers.

"Japan has become a second Musashi," said Prof. Wigmore, "and adopted this double sworded style which has placed the country in its position of leadership. We of America would also profit by this story and learn the good of both systems."

"America has watched with deep interest and sympathy the wonderful rise of your people," said President James, "from a solitary, self-contained, exclusive, and withal highly civilized nation into a world power whose lines of influence have gone out into all the earth, and which has begun to be acknowledged as in many respects in the forefront of modern progress."

POSTOFFICE TO HIRE MORE MEN

Order from Washington Indicates Over One Hundred Will Be Added to the Pay Roll.

One hundred and thirty-seven men are to be added to the Chicago postoffice pay roll, according to an order that came from Washington yesterday. ROCK RIVER SESSIONS TODAY

M. E. Ministers, Ready for Conference, Expect Storm.

LEEK MAY ASK ADMISSION.

Controversy Over Mrs. Lavender Case May Be Revived.

With the singing of the hymn, "And are we yet alive and see each other's face?" over 300 ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church will begin the seventieth annual session of the Rock river conference in the Court Street church, Rockford, this evening. The opening session will be a reception with addresses of welcome. The business sessions of the conference will begin tomorrow morning.

Grave questions affecting the ministerial standing of several prominent members of the conference will come up for action.

Important changes in the pastorate of several of the leading churches in Chicago also will be made as the result of the deliberations, it is predicted. In consequence the session of the conference is looked forward to with unusual anxiety.

Stormy Year for Pastors.

"The last year has been the stormiest in the history of Rock River conference," said one minister. "The previous year we did not have a single case of withdrawal, nor a discontinuance, nor a single minister who was made the subject of any formal complaint.

"This year, however, we have several members of the conference who have become involved in scandal or other forms of complaint."

The most problematical case before the conference will be that of the reinstatement of John D. Leek, who withdrew from the ministry and membership of the Methodist church while pastor of the Western Avenue church after complaint had been made of the alleged nature of his friendship with Mrs. Mary Lavender, a member of the Woodlawn church and prominent in the work of the Woman's Home Missionary society.

Mr. Leek asserts that he withdrew under a misapprehension of the law in the matter. Later, he said, he had discovered that his action was not demanded by the law of the church, and he then expressed his determination to claim his rights as member of the conference.

Leek Not a Defendant.

If Mr. Leek appears at the conference with the demand for reinstatement there is a certainty that a stormy scene will follow. In the trial of the Rev. E. B. Crawford at the Woodlawn church on the charge of lying preferred by Mrs. Lavender which followed soon after the Rev. Mr. Leek's withdrawal from the Western Avenue church the question of the latter's guilt or innocence was not under consideration. The Rev. Mr. Crawford was acquitted on the charge of lying, but was censured for "lack of kindly considerateness."

"It is to be assumed," said one of the ministers who has been connected officially with the case, "that no minister would withdraw from the ministry and the membership of the church unless there was some grave reason for his doing so."

The Rev. Mr. Crawford may be instrumental in bringing the case of Mr. Leek before the conference. He asserts, however, that he will not do so. He has a grievance of his own, and says that he will demand a ruling from Bishop Goodsell, the presiding bishop, as to the legal merits of the action of the committee who pronounced adverse judgment of his conduct of the case as affecting Mr. Leek and Mrs. Lavender.

He says it was the business of the committee to decide on the charge of lying and having acquitted him of the charge to let the case rest there.

Bishop Hartzell Detained.

Bishop J. C. Hartzell, who was scheduled on the conference program to speak concerning the African diamond jubilee, has canceled his engagement. His place will be taken by the Rev. George B. Smyth, a former missionary to China. Bishop Hartzell, who stated he had been detained by business, is the father of the Rev. Morton Culver Hartzell, pastor of the South Park Avenue church, over whose return for another year a vigorous contention is being carried on by different factions in his church, because of his activity in the prosecution of vice under the auspices of the Douglas Neighborhood club, of which he is the president.

"SOFT PEDAL" BLOW AT POLICE SNAPS

MORE MEN ON REAL DUTY

Chief Ready to Apply "Loud Pedal" if Corporations Do Not Co-operate in Move.

Chief of Police Steward's "soft pedal" plan of obtaining the return of a large number of patrolmen from special details known as "soft snaps" to post duty was brought into action yesterday.

For the last month the chief has been going over the list of special assignments with his inspectors, culling a man here and there, and in some instances issuing oral orders for changes that would increase the number of men traveling beats. His general instruction was that wherever possible special details should be canceled.

The total number now is said to have been cut down a considerable per cent, and the chief's next effort will be to persuade the beneficiaries of the favors of the department voluntarily to return the men whose services have been given them.

Chief Writes to Beneficiaries.

That is the purpose of a letter sent to all offices, corporations, and individuals shown on the chief's list as still retaining special details. It follows:

"There exists an imperative need for substantially increasing the number of patrolmen actually traveling beats. A careful analysis of the situation develops the fact that a considerable portion of the force appropriated for are at present assigned to duties but remotely if at all related to this department.

"Either a considerable increase in the number of men must be secured or the police must be withdrawn from every assignment that an actual public necessity cannot be clearly established. The first course is at the present time unjustifiable, and it becomes necessary, therefore, to ask the return of all police detailed to public, semi-public, and private service in all cases where it appears that the assignment is not a proper charge against the police department.

Jobs for Retired Police.

"In the case of paid details the department in each instance loses a man, as the position vacated by the assignment cannot be filled. For such positions retired police can be substituted who can be suitably compensated directly by the interests served, or special police may be employed if preferred.

"This matter is one of grave public concern, and the correction of the existing condition is one that demands immediate attention to the end that adequate police protection may be given to the homes and the commercial interest of the city.

"It is confidently believed that all concerned will gladly coöperate with this department in an honest effort to bring about materially improved conditions and that individual interests will be cheerfully waived for the common welfare."

Chief Steward said that if the letter did not bring the desired results there would be a "loud pedal" follow up.

DR. WASSALL'S WILL IS FILED.

Mrs. Chadbourne Denies That She Will Contest It in Behalf of Her Son.

The will of the late Dr. Joseph W. Wassall was filed in Lake county yesterday, and immediately there were renewed rumors that the dentist's former wife, Mrs. Thomas L. Chadbourne, proposed a contest in the interest of Joseph W. Wassall Jr., but this she denied. Mrs. Chadbourne reiterated her oft repeated statement that her visit was for the sole purpose of procuring the custody of her daughter, Ellen, who was awarded to Dr. Wassall in the separation agreement, and that no attempt would be made to claim the girl against her will. In a few days Mrs. Chadbourne will again try to talk with Ellen. If the girl still insists on having Mrs. Agnes L. Hellmuth as her guardian, her wishes will not be interfered with.

TRACTION MERGER IS FAVORED

Absorption of Consolidated by Chicago Railways Likely.

DAWES AND HOOVER FOR IT.

Expiration of Franchises Makes Unification Seem Desirable.

The financial condition of the Consolidated Traction company, and the fact that several of the franchises of the underlying companies have expired, and all will have expired by 1916, will be one of the strongest arguments used by officers of the company who advocate consolidation with the Chicago Railways company. Charles G. Dawes and George P. Hoover, members of the reorganization committee, will advocate unification with the larger company as soon as reorganization plans are in shape.

Reports of income and expenditures for the month of June of the several companies which make up the Consolidated Traction company and a blanket report will be filed by the receivers in the United States court today. These reports are expected to furnish additional arguments for consolidation with the Chicago Railways company. The Consolidated Traction company is made up of seven underlying companies. All operate under twenty year franchises.

Franchises and Mortgages.

The Evanston Electric railway company's Evanston franchise expires on Feb. 20, 1913. Its mortgage debt is $130,000. The original franchise of the North Side Electric Street railway expires on July 16, 1914, and a franchise granted for additional streets expires on Oct. 21, 1915. Its mortgage debt is $155,000. The original franchise of the Chicago and Jefferson Urban Transit company expires on April 11, 1912, and a franchise granted for additional streets expires on July 14, 1912. Its mortgage debt is $208,000. The original franchise of the North Chicago Electric railway company expires on March 12, 1914, and a franchise for additional streets expires on July 27, 1916. Its mortgage debt is $868,000. The original franchise of the Chicago Electric Transit company expires on April 5, 1913, and two franchises for additional streets expire on Feb. 20, 1915, and Oct. 21, 1915. Its mortgage debt is $1,097,000. The original franchise of the Ogden Street railway company expires on Feb. 18, 1915. Its mortgage debt is $750,000.

Case of Cicero and Proviso.

In the case of the seventh company, the Cicero and Proviso, its original franchise expired last April and a franchise granted for the use of additional streets expired in June. A third franchise for additional streets, the only one still living, expires on July 23, 1914. Its mortgage debt is $2,000,000.

"I do not know just what is the financial condition of the various underlying companies," said W. W. Gurley of counsel for the parent company. "Reports of earnings and expenditures will be filed in the United States court tomorrow, and there also will be filed a consolidated report showing the total earnings and expenditures of all the underlying companies which make up Consolidated Traction."

TEN YEAR LEASE IN LOOP CLOSED

New Tenant Will Pay $50,000 Annually for Building at 258 State Street.

NAME IS NOT DISCLOSED.

Deals in Apartment Houses and Other Property in Various Parts of the City.

One of the largest downtown leases of recent years has just been closed, involving the four story and basement building at 258 State street, between Jackson boulevard and Van Buren street. It was leased by E. F. Keebler & Co. for Clarence Burley and V. C. Sanborn to lessees whose names are withheld for the present, for ten years from May 1, 1910, at $50,000 a year.

The property has a frontage of ninety feet in State street, with a depth of 100 feet to an alley, and is eighty-four feet south of Jackson boulevard, adjoining the new building to be erected by the Isham estate for Maurice L. Rothschild, the clothier, on May 1 next. The first floor of the building is at present divided into four stores, all the upper floors being occupied by the Imperial hotel.

Vacant property at the southeast corner of Astor street and Burton place was sold by the Catholic Bishop of Chicago, through Cremin & O'Connor, to Joanna and John L. Fortune. It has a frontage of fifty-five feet in Astor street. The consideration given in the deed was $10, but it is understood the actual price was $33,000, which is at the rate of $600 a front foot. The property will be improved with two handsome residences costing about $60,000, the construction of which will begin at once.

The residence of Henry H. Forsythe, secretary of Forsythe Bros. Manufacturing company, at 67 Bellevue place, 246 feet west of Lake Shore-drive, was sold to Reuben G. Chandler of Hulburd, Warren & Chandler, a La Salle street commission firm, for $24,000. The lot has a south frontage of 22⅝ feet with a depth of 129 feet, and is improved with a three story stone front residence.

Apartment Houses Transferred.

Arthur H. Reading has purchased from R. C. Johnston the apartment house property in Jefferson avenue, 599 feet north of Sixty-first street, with 50x130 feet of ground, east front, for $30,000.

The apartment house property in Kimbark avenue, 150 feet south of Fifty-second street with 50x125 feet of ground, west front, has been sold by Emil Rudert to Hilda R. Reichold of Ingleside, Ill., for $25,000, subject to $12,500 incumbrance.

In the partition sale of the Remick property at the auction room of the real estate board the four parcels offered were bid in by Joseph R. Woodruff and others for $29,450. The properties, which have been in litigation for fourteen years, comprised forty acres within the town limits of Lyons, known as the Remick or Sullivan farm, about three fourths of a mile from the end of the electric line, and appraised at $14,000; also the premises 1918 Clark street 25x70 feet at $8,750; a farm of about ninety-five acres a half mile from Warrenville, DuPage company, known as the Remick farm, and apparised at $10.000; and ninety-three acres, one and a half miles west of Warrenville, appraised at $7,000.

In another partition sale William Booth of Springfield, Ill., bid in the property of the Henry Rennick estate at the northeast corner of Taylor and Lytle street for $31,000. The porperty has a frontage of 75 feet with a depth of 125 feet and is improved with a three story and basement apartment building. The property bears two incumbrances aggregating $29,000.

In the suit of Henry Alden Delano Jr. vs. Kate L. Delano, et al., the former bid in the property at the southeast corner of Monroe street and Center avenue 74x188 feet with improvements for $17,241.

Aaron M. Allen has purchased from Reinhart L. Brown the apartment house property at the northeast corner of Evanston and Foster avenue, with 49x150 feet of ground, west front, for $22,000, subject to $14,000 incumbrance.

Skyscraper Site Transferred.

Formal transfer was made of the property at 146 Monroe street, between La Salle and Clark streets, by Norman W. Harris to the Harris Safe Deposit company, which is to erect and hold title to the twenty story building which is to occupy the premises.

The Northern Trust company is trustee in a loan of $60,000, five years, at 5 per cent, to Jesse K. Farley, secured by property at the southwest corner of Franklin and Superior streets, 100x100, improved with the plant of the National Candy company.

For a nominal consideration Louis C. Newton Jr. has quitclaimed to Myrtle R. and Edward A. Fisher the property at the northwest corner of Sheridan road and Thorndale avenue, 105x150 feet, east front.

The Desplaines Avenue Cemetery association has sold to the Order B'Rith Abraham Cemetery association of Chicago six acres opposite Forest park for $18,000.

Mrs. Emma W. West and husband, William H., have sold to William Everling the property in Ingleside avenue, 291 feet south of Sixty-third street, with 100x124 feet of ground, west front, for $14,000.

Charles Schloer has purchased from John Romanowicz the apartment house property in Sixtieth place, between Wallace street and Normal avenue, 55x120 feet, south front, for $18,000, subject to $12,000 incumbrance.

A certificate of change of name of the Sherman Hotel company to the Hotel Sherman company was filed for record. It announces an increase of the capital stock from $50,000 to $3,000,000.

ONLY A FEW BANKS RESPOND TO SMALL CURRENCY PLEA.

Request for Increased Issue of Five Dollar Notes Brings Out Fact That Bankers Are Serene on Crop Moving.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—In view of the fact that but 204 national banks out of the total of over 7,000 in this country have acceded to the recent request of Controller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray that more $5 notes be taken by them it appears that the prediction of the scarcity of small money in the crop moving period this year is not looked upon seriously by the bankers of the country.

Proceeding upon the theory that an additional issue of $5 bank notes would relieve the large demand for $5 silver certificates, and these being released could be exchanged for $1 bills, Controller Murray two months ago issued the appeal.

The new issue of $5 notes is being fed into circulation largely through exchange for wornout and mutilated silver certificates and bills of large denomination. Small currency in great quantities is being turned out by the bureau of engraving and printing these days, a daily schedule of 560,000 $1 bills and 140,000 $2 bills being maintained.

Piles And Purgatory

Begin With the Same Letter and There Are Other Resemblances.

Suffer? Oh, no! "Suffer" don't express it, but there is the PYRAMID PILE CURE. It's a Cure that comes to stay and gives one a fresh grip on things.

IT PROMISES TO CURE

and keeps its word. Even to the last letter. It is made that way. This is why. And it is not expensive—within the easy reach of every one. Only 50 cents a box at your druggist, and a box goes a long way.

YOURS IS THE WORST

kind and of long standing? Already tried everything you ever heard of? Discouraged? Well, rather. But the PYRAMID PILE CURE was made for just such cases. Yours is not a bit worse than hundreds of other cases that the Pyramid Pile Cure has cured.

SKEPTICAL? NO FAITH?

No wonder. But listen. We are so sure that our remedy will cure you that we will send you a Free Treatment. This will begin to show you what enough of it will do, and then you can go to your drug store and get as much more as you need. It won't be more than a box or so.

DON'T PUT OFF

getting rid of this terrible trouble. Of itself it is hard enough to endure, but it leads to things worse. In truth it badly disarranges the entire lower bowel tract; creates ulcers, abscesses and a series of evils any one of which can easily prove fatal.

DON'T PUT OFF

sending for the free trial package. We send this to show how great our faith is in this cure. If we did not believe in it, we would not make this offer. MILK WAR GROWS; DELAY PRICE RAISE Proposed Increase to 8 Cents a Quart Will Not Be Decided Until Friday.

DAIRIES DEFY SHIPPERS.

One Concern Offers to Buy Whole Pumpkin Crop as Lure to Farmers.

The price war between the producers and distributers of milk received a new impetus yesterday when representatives of the big dairy interests flatly refused to go into conference with the shippers, and the latter condemned the methods of the dairies for their alleged attempts to have shippers break their compact to hold out for increased rates.

While the directors of the Milk Producers' Protective association were in session in the Ashland block individual members of the organization were meeting at Kenosha and forming the Bassetts' Creamery company, one of the independent concerns proposed some time ago to wage war against the big distributers. Late last night the situation was such that it was generally believed Chicago housewives would not know until Friday, when present contracts expire, whether they will continue purchasing milk at 7 cents per quart or if there is to be a general raise to 8 cents.

Have Signed Enough Contracts.

Representatives of Bowman, Borden, and other big interests declare they have signed up enough independent contracts to insure a full supply to their customers, but directors of the shippers' organization assert that not more than 10 per cent of their 4,000 members have surrendered to the enemy.

The producers are holding out for $1.86 2-3 per 100 pounds, 35 cents more than last year's price, and 20 cents over the best offer made by the distributers. Certain directors reported that one concern, to get around the scale, offered to pay farmers from 8 to 10 cents per 100 for delivering the milk to railway stations, and others agreed to buy up all the pumpkins on the farm at fabulous prices.

Secretary J. P. Grier told the directors that another concern agreed to purchase all the milk produced in a certain section at 6 2-3 cents less than the scale price. Leaders of the organization, anticipating signs of weaknes from their members, made them again pledge themselves to remain united on the proposition.

Kenosha Farmers Hopeful.

President J. P. Mason told the directors that one of the concerns was now paying the New York shippers 30 cents per 100 over the scale for last winter, or 10 cents per 100 more than the shippers of the Chicago district were asking.

Electric Light is Within Everybody's Reach

There is no longer any reason of supposed economy why every home in Chicago should not enjoy the comforts of electric light. The rate was reduced 6½% on August 1st. Including that reduction, the total cut since June, 1905, amounts to 40%.

Eleven Hundred Houses Have Been Wired at Cost

Even the expense of wiring the house and cost of fixtures no longer combine to defer the installation of this modern illuminant. For we offer to wire houses and provide fixtures at cost, payable a little monthly for two years. We have wired over eleven hundred houses on this plan. Call Randolph 1280 for particulars.

Arrangements for wiring, and the selection of lamps, fixtures, electrical devices and utensils are among the many conveniences afforded by Electric Shop, our Show Rooms, corner Michigan and Jackson Boulevards.

ANYWAY, there is not a shadow of suspicion as to the truthfulness of Mr. Wellman's story.

STILL, we are sorry the Half Moon rammed the Clermont. It had every appearance of being another case of jealousy.

IN a few weeks the advocate of the simple life can introduce a little variety into his way of living by building an igloo in his back yard and sleeping in it at night, if he likes.

IN the midst of all the excitement don't forget that our old friend, St. Louis, will celebrate next week its 100th anniversary as an incorporated town. You will be surprised to see how St. Louis has grown in 100 years.

EVERY time Mr. Wayman puts on his hat and goes out for a walk a report gets into circulation that he has gone in search of some man higher up and has discovered a clew.

MISSISSIPPI is trying to collect $250,000,000 from the insurance companies doing business in that state, for alleged violations of law. What could Mississippi do with $250,000,000?

BANKER DOUGHERTY, formerly of Peoria but now of Joliet, is to give his deposition in a suit involving $400,000. You remember Mr. Dougherty?

SO FAR as Chicago is concerned, that earthquake yesterday morning is not entitled, at farthest, to more than honorable mention.

JURY "fixing" must be stopped. Not only is our jury system the bulwark of our liberties, but it is the palladium of our civil rights; and palsied be the hand, etc.

THE men higher up may have disguised themselves by putting on automobile goggles.

IT is apparent that the editor of the New York Sun is reading Mr. Roosevelt's narrative. He has begun to find fault with its English.

IF the Hon. H. Dink refuses to allow the equally Hon. B. H. John to dedicate a book of poems to him, we foresee trouble in the hitherto placid pool of First ward politics.

A CLASH OF AUTHORITY.

A Georgia judge, actuated solely by a desire to enforce the prohibition laws of his state, has locked horns with a federal judge. There is a distillery whose existence is recognized and countenanced by the internal revenue officials as long as its owner obeys regulations and pays his whisky tax. It is alleged that the distillery is carrying on a "blind pig" trade in defiance of the laws of the state. The Georgia judge, searching for evidence, had the government storekeeper on duty at the distillery brought into court. He refused to give any information because it would be a violation of federal law and the regulations of the internal revenue bureau. So the judge put him in jail. A federal judge granted a writ of habeas corpus, but the state judge held on to his man.

There need be no fear of a collision between Georgia and the United States. The decrees of federal courts are treated with greater respect now than eighty years ago, when Georgia treated with contempt a Supreme court decision it did not approve of. The state judge will learn sooner or later that there are limits to his authority.

This may not be, however, the only controversy growing out of the operation of distilleries in some of the prohibition states of the south. Local sentiment is against them. There is an impression, justified doubtless in many cases, that they put some of their product in circulation in the neighborhood in defiance of law. As long as distilleries comply with federal regulations the internal revenue bureau does not interfere with them. It does not care whether they are run in "wet" or "dry" states. There will probably be a demand for so strict a supervision of distilleries in prohibition states that it will be impossible for them to transgress local laws.

THE CONSOLIDATED TRACTION.

It appears that the holders of the different kinds of securities which make up the liabilities of the Consolidated Traction company have not got together yet. Its affairs are a tangled skein not easily unraveled. So at this moment there is no thought of an immediate request for a new franchise.

When that question does come up the duty of the council will be plain. It should at the very least insist on a contract similar to that between the Chicago City and the Calumet and South Chicago traction companies. Without it no extension of the privileges of the last named company would have been granted. Its operation and rehabilitation were taken in hand by the Chicago City railway company. Practically all the lines of the Consolidated Traction are in urgent need of rebuilding. No scheme of reorganization which would enable it to get the money can be evolved. The rehabilitation must be done by the Chicago Railways company and it should operate lines which are mostly feeders to its own. Furthermore, if a new franchise be granted it should expire at the same time as that of the Chicago Railways company.

It would be preferable in all respects to have one organization instead of two. It would simplify matters if the stronger company were to take over the weaker by purchase or in any other way and then go to the council asking for a new franchise covering the outlying lines. A few of the lines extend into territory over which the council has no jurisdiction, but no difficulty need be anticipated on that score. So the men who are trying to straighten out the financial complications of the Consolidated Traction should see if they cannot arrange for its merger with the Chicago Railways company. That it must be operated by that company all agree.

BRYAN AND BAILEY.

Mr. William J. Bryan is making speeches in Texas in advocacy of the policy on which he wishes the disunited Democracy to unite—a tariff for revenue only, with free raw materials. Senator Bailey is making speeches in support of a tariff for revenue only with low duties on raw materials. He says that was the Democratic doctrine in 1846, when Polk was president. Mr. Bryan contends that President Cleveland, who was for free raw materials, represented the modern convictions of the party.

The two statesmen have been firing at each other at long range. Somebody proposed that they should have a joint debate and thrash out the question. It is one in which the Texans are interested. There are many of them who, while denying vigorously that they are protectionists, approve of stiff duties on wool and lumber, and who disliked the removal of the duty on hides.

But Mr. Bryan, who likes to be the only star in the sky, and who, perhaps, is unwilling to meet at close quarters so strong a debater as Senator Bailey, does not take kindly to the suggestion. He says he will not consider a joint meeting unless Senator Bailey shall make a personal request for it. He thinks it would tend to turn attention from his tentative platform to individuals—to Bailey as well as Bryan. The senator says that, in view of Mr. Bryan's opinion that a joint debate would affect the national party, he is averse to forcing it. How the Democratic party, which is groping blindly for an issue acceptable to the great mass of its members, can be harmed by a joint debate between two of its leaders is not apparent. It seems rather as if it would tend to clear up the situation and enable the Democrats to know what they ought to believe and preach as to the tariff question. At present they are badly mixed, in Texas as well as the rest of the union.

THE HOPEFUL FIGHT FOR HEALTH.

"Tuberculosis will disappear within a generation among those nations where attention to sanitary laws is counted part of civilization." That is the hopeful prediction made by Dr. Philip of Edinburgh in a recent address before the British Medical association. Contrary to the theories of many, this specialist believes that tuberculosis is usually contracted in childhood. While he is not sure that milk containing bacilli is the most fruitful cause of infection, he is convinced that the relatively airless conditions of homes and schoolrooms have much to do with the evil. An abundance of fresh air is the remedy he urges in forceful terms. The results obtained by aerotherapy have proved the value of this open air treatment.

The message brought from the international medical congress by Dr. Murphy is another one of cheer. He believes that the cause of cancer will be ascertained within five years. The discovery of the cause is certain to be followed quickly by knowledge of the cure. If the first prophecy is fulfilled this dreaded disease may take its place before long among the infrequent ills of humanity.

Dr. Murphy's praise for the American research student is gratifying. In many a laboratory he is doing his full share in the investigating which is steadily reducing the mortality of acute infectious diseases. The progress made by men of medical science in this country and abroad in checking the deaths from spinal meningitis, diphtheria, hydrophobia, lockjaw, and other diseases which once were attended by terror has been astonishing.

To reduce the mortality from diphtheria from 54 per cent to 1¾ per cent is a notable achievement, but that is mentioned as only one of a number of accomplishments in recent years.

The emphasis laid upon the individual himself is worth particular attention. There are laws of sanitation which must be obeyed. The more civilized the people, the greater their respect for such laws. Another thing is equally true. If sanitation is not urged and enforced by authorized representatives of civilization much of the blame for disease and death must rest upon those who have it in their power to improve radically the conditions under which human beings live. There is hope everywhere if the people will heed.

THE CITY'S RIGHTS.

The Chiperfield commission, created to investigate the operations of the land pirates who for nearly a hundred years have been seizing real estate belonging to the state or its municipalities, needs all the help it can get. It has to investigate conditions on the lake and the rivers which partly bound Illinois and on the rivers and lakes wholly within its boundaries. Chicago is so directly interested in this matter that it ought before this to have come to the aid of an overworked commission and at the same time proved its title to made land along the lake and the Chicago river and its branches. This means not merely the title of the municipal government but of the two parks which front on the lake.

In this matter the city authorities and the park boards and other agencies, if deemed expedient, should work together, for their interests are identical. They all represent the people, who do not wish to see private corporations thrusting themselves between them and the lake by grabbing public property.

It would be easier for the city to provide public bathing beaches and recreation piers, both of which are greatly needed, if there were joint action by the city and the parks. Let them get together and work out a plan of operations.

IN A MINOR KEY

Perfectly Unprejudiced.

Here the judge took a hand in examining the venireman.

"You don't seem to understand the questions addressed to you by the attorneys," he said. "What they want to know is whether you have formed or expressed any opinion in this case. That is to say, have you told anybody whether or not you believe the defendant guilty of the crime charged against him, or have you said to anybody that you believe him to be innocent?"

"'Course not, judge," answered the venireman; "it ain't necessary fur me to 'xpress no opinion about him. I've knowed him fur thirty years, an' I know blame well he stole the cow——"

"That will do, Mr. Skiles. You may stand aside."

Prompt Action.

Anxious Friend—"Gayman, you ought to do something for that uncontrollable thirst of yours, and you ought to do it quick."

Thought He Knew Better.

"Well, anyhow, it is safe to say that when women really want the ballot they will get it."

"No, I don't think it would be—er—quite safe for you to say it in the presence of my wife."

For a Dry Day.

"Algy, did you call on Miss Peachley last evening, as you intended?"

"I went as far as the front door, dear boy, but I was so thoroughly drenched by a sudden storm that had come up that I merely asked the servant for a rain check and came away."

Unpardonable Ignorance.

Hostess—"You don't know who she is? Why, she's the celebrated Miss de Wranter. You must have seen her in 'East Lynne.'"

Guest (with some embarrassment)—"No, indeed, ma'am. I was never there in my life."

LORD CARNARVON, who has so narrowly escaped death in a serious automobile accident abroad, from which he now is recovering at Highclere, in England, always has been an enthusiast on the subject of motoring, and time and again has been involved in serious trouble with the authorities in Great Britain and on the continent in connection with his flagrant violation of the speed laws. In fact, it is a perfect wonder that he has not yet killed himself. His blonde wife, a pretty and dainty little woman, of the Dresden china order, is, although a Christian, the goddaughter of Alfred Rothschild, who, a bachelor, makes no secret of the fact that she will be at his death the principal heiress of his vast wealth. Not that Lord Carnarvon needs it. For, on the death of his father, he succeeded to an income of about $400,000 a year, and this has almost been trebled since through the late earl having invested big sums in real estate in Sydney and in western Australia some forty years ago, with a provision that the property should remain in trust, the income accumulating at compound interest until 1908.

Lord Carnarvon possesses many other country seats: one in Somerset, known as Pixton park, the feature of which is a heronry, which enjoys European celebrity and is second to none in the world. His favorite home, however, is Highclere castle, in Hampshire, which has been the seat of the earls of Carnarvon since the creation of the present earldom. It occupies a magnificent site, covering extensive views over Berkshire, Oxfordshire, Gloucestershire, and Wiltshire, and stands in a park thirteen miles in circumference, swarming with game.

A curious custom at Highclere castle is that on the birth of each heir to the earldom family tradition requires that a colossal cask containing 500 gallons of beer shall be brewed and remain unopened until he attains his majority, when it is drunk to his health. The cask is of oak, grown on the Highclere estate, hooped with brass, and bearing a coronet and an inscription made of the same metal. Another object of interest at Highclere, which is full of curios, is the chair on which Napoleon I. sat to sign his abdication at Fontainebleau previous to being deported to the island of Elba. It was purchased in France by the earl's grandfather.

Highclere once was a manor of the bishops of Winchester, and the favorite residence of the illustrious William of Wykeham. Sir Robert Sawyer, the defender of the seven bishops, owned it in King James II.'s reign and left it to his only daughter, wife of Thomas, earl of Pembroke, from whom it passed to her second son, uncle of the first earl of Carnarvon.

So much discussion has been created by the recent romantic marriage of Gen. Suchomlinoff, the Russian minister of war, with the beautiful divorcee, Mme. de Butowitch, that I have received a number of letters asking for information about the grounds on which divorce is granted in Russia.

As a number of American women have Russian husbands, some of them being unhappily married, it may be worth while stating briefly that the dissolution of a matrimonial alliance in Russia is exceedingly difficult to obtain. In fact, it is granted only on the grounds which would suffice to secure a decree of nullity from American and English tribunals; or else for infidelity. But confession of infidelity and circumstantial evidence are not considered as adequate legal proofs. Witnesses are indispensable. These of course can be bought, and the result is that perjury plays no small rôle in the obtaining of divorce in Russia, and perjury naturally involves blackmail. Consequently, divorce in Russia is so expensive as to be beyond the reach of all save the extremely rich, even the mere preliminary expenses being rated at some $5,100.

Austria is another country where divorce is extremely difficult to obtain. Thus, Austrian law does not permit of divorce among Roman Catholics. The mere fact of becoming a convert from Roman Catholicism to one of the reformed churches in order to obtain a divorce and remarry is not tolerated by Austrian law, and any man who contracts a second union of this kind will find that it is invalid in the eyes of Austrian law, and that any children born thereof are illegitimate. Divorce is only accorded by the tribunals to non-Catholics whose first marriage has been contracted outside the Roman Catholic church.

Another fact of which few people outside Austria are aware, is that marriages between Christians and non-Christians are contrary to law. That is to say, a Jew cannot marry a Christian. Both must be members of the Jewish creed or else both Christians. Were, for instance, a daughter of Baron Rothschild to marry an Austrian noble, he either would have to become a Jew or she would be obliged to accept Christianity. Otherwise their children would be illegitimate and subject to all the disadvantages from which such progeny suffer at the hands of most European governments.

Although King Edward, since his accession, has restricted his visits to the Marlborough club in Pall Mall, which he founded, to once a year, it still continues to confine the period of its closure for the annual cleaning to the three weeks that he spends at foreign thermal resorts, such as Marienbad, in the latter part of August. This year, as usual, the club reopened its doors on the day before his return from abroad. He got back Saturday evening, and Sunday night, before leaving for Rufford abbey to stay with Lord and Lady Savile for the Doncaster races, on his way to Scotland, he dropped in for dinner at the Marlborough, taking his place at the familiar old table which used always to be reserved for him in the days when he was still prince of Wales. It can hardly therefore be said that he any longer frequents the Marlborough. Indeed, the only club of which he remains a real habitué is the Jockey club, which has no house of its own in London, but extensive quarters at Newmarket, in which a suite of apartments has been set aside for his exclusive use.

The fact of the matter is that sovereignty is incompatible with the ethics of club life, according to which all the members are on a footing of perfect equality with one another. A king cannot continue to be a club member in the real sense of the word.

This is only one of the many drawbacks of monarchy. Indeed, there are lots of things that the anointed of the Lord cannot do; and it is a matter of record that the late Queen Victoria, throughout her long reign of more than three score years, never was permitted to enjoy the essentially feminine pleasure and satisfaction of looking into a shop window or of doing any shopping.

It is a great mistake to imagine that kings and queens are all-powerful. Thus, although the king can pardon a criminal after he has been sentenced, he cannot prevent action being taken against him; and, despite the fact that the sentence is pronounced in his name, he cannot of his own accord add a single day, or even hour, to its length; and while he can extend his clemency to murderers who have been condemned to death, he cannot do so towards convicted Sabbath breakers. The king can recall any of his subjects from abroad, but he cannot compel any of them to leave Great Britain; and even in time of war, when the sovereign would have the power of calling upon every ablebodied man to take up arms, he could not force a single civilian to leave the united kingdom, even for the purpose of carrying on that war.

Although the king is the head of the church, he cannot create a new bishopric nor convert a spiritual court into a temporal one. According to the common interpretation of the constitution, any act of parliament which has received the royal assent becomes law, hard and fast. But unless the king be expressly named therein, he is not amenable to it. Though the law stands thus with regard to the sovereign, he cannot dispense any one from the obligation of obedience to the statutes.

Scene—Drawing room in Dr. Cook's house in Brooklyn. Plush parlor suit; rubber plants R. and L.; croquet set in corner. Map of Brooklyn on wall, showing "farthest east." At rise of curtain Dr. Cook is discovered dusting off his medals. Enter several crowned heads—they pin still other decorations on the doctor, who remains perfectly calm. Enter presidents of geographical societies with degrees; the doctor continues calm and collected. Flourish without. Enter Commander Peary, attended by Matt Henson and Herbert Bridgman.

PEARY (loudly). Friends, scientists, and gentlemen, this person Cook is a gold brick, a glass crash, a phony explorer. (To Henson). Seize him, Matt!

COOK (calmly). Stay! (everybody stays). Good friends, as well you know, I cannot prove my claim till Harry Whitney comes. I gave the pole to him at Etah.

PEARY (furiously). He lies! He never saw the pole. (To Henson) Seize him! (Cook is seized.)

Flourish without. Enter Harry Whitney, in shooting togs. He carries a rifle in each hand and a skinning knife between his teeth. Omnes surround him excitedly. Commander Peary retreats up stage, muttering, "Cooked again! Curses on him!" Matt Henson turns white around the gills. Only the Doctor remains calm. Omnes clamor at Whitney.

OMNES—The pole! The pole!

THE WOMAN ACROSS THE WAY.

On every street—at least on ours—
There's a woman across the way
Who sits at the upper window
And watches the livelong day;
She may be thin, she may be fat,
Heaven alone can tell you that;
Her eyes, I know, are greenish gray,
That waver not in their watch all day.

Her neighbors' ins and outs she'll know
As well or better than they;
And all who come and all who go
She sees from across the way.
She scents a death long, long before
The knot of crape adorns the door;
A birth she plans to the very day—
This wonderful woman across the way.

She'll tell you where her neighbors trade
And pretty near what they buy;
The shape of bundles tells the tale
To her penetrating eye.
She knows each doctor by his rig,
His standing, too, if little or big;
His patient's illness she can guess
By length of visits more or less.

And so she sits at her window there,
Hatching her slanderous brood;
They fly and fly, no one knows where,
And never do anyone good.
Her deathless vigilance she keeps
Nor does it seem she ever sleeps,
For look at the window when you may,
She's always there, across the way.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Back to the Law.

[New York World.]

Of infinitely greater importance than his vindication of Secretary Ballinger is Mr. Taft's mandate "Back to the law." As the president says in dismissing the charges against the secretary of the interior: "In my judgment he is the best friend of the policy of conservation who insists that every step taken in that direction should be within the law and buttressed by legal authority."

To the rampant Rooseveltites this will be further proof of reaction. Due process of law had no place in My Policies, and any man who respects it is therefore under suspicion. That was the burden of the complaint against Secretary Ballinger; yet Mr. Taft declares without ifs, ands, or buts that under the Ballinger policy, beginning in May, "there are now withheld from settlement, awaiting the action of congress, 50 per cent more water power sites than under previous withdrawals, and that this has been effected by a withdrawal from settlement of only one-fifth of the amount of land."

The World has no doubt that both Mr. Taft and Mr. Ballinger are as sincerely in favor of the conservation of national resources as Mr. Roosevelt ever was. It has no doubt either that the public rights in the matter are much safer in their hands than in his hands; for what they do will probably not have to be undone, while the correction of his blunders must continue indefinitely.

This case is in no sense peculiar. A great part of the Taft administration's work must lie in undoing the work of the Roosevelt administration if great national questions are to be dealt with intelligently, constructively, and with a view to permanent benefits.

In so far as Mr. Taft fearlessly insists upon due process of law regardless of the Roosevelt experiments in personal government, to that extent will he render his greatest possible service to American institutions.

Suggested Legislative Reform.

[Kansas City Journal.]

A member of the Louisiana legislature has made a novel suggestion growing out of his experience as a lawmaker last winter. The plan proposed by the southern statesman is this: The legislature of the state shall meet each year for a period of thirty days only. At one session every two years bills will be introduced and whipped into shape by the legislature, but not passed. Then a whole year shall elapse before the bills are put on their passage, and during this period the bills shall be published and discussed all over the state.

The people will have full opportunity to consider all sides of proposed legislation and instruct their representatives how to vote. In this way he thinks "the people will rule." That the plan has some elements of merit cannot be denied. If it would cause serious consideration by the people of legislation it might be commendable. But the politicians would have to be reckoned with. Such publicity as he suggests would seriously embarrass the professional sandbaggers and sandburr leaders who are responsible for most of the freak and undesirable legislation, and they would not give up without a hard struggle.

[Buffalo Express.]

There is a prison official at Warrensville, O., who evidently has some modern and humane ideas in connection with prison management. A house of correction, or a penitentiary as we would call it in this state, is in course of erection there. And a feature of that prison is to be thinking towers which are to take the place of dark cells for unruly prisoners.

The director who is supervising that prison says that light is a good thing for a man when he has reached an unruly stage. So he has planned to have these towers flooded with light, and when a prisoner reaches the stage where he revolts against discipline he will be sent to one of them and there left in the light of day and the solitude of his own thoughts to think the whole matter over. And the director is of the opinion that when the man has had time to think it all over he will come to the conclusion that he would better behave himself. Furthermore, he will come to that conclusion a great deal sooner than though he had been placed in darkness, where he simply grows uglier and from which he seeks release, not because he has seen the right or the wrong of it, but because he simply can't stand the punishment any longer.

A Sectional View of It.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

With no desire to belittle unduly the renewed fight upon the speaker, whose unpopularity among the Republican voters is as pronounced as his ascendency over their representatives, it may be suggested that the surest way to unseat him and to overthrow "Cannonism" is by the election of a Democratic house.

Once in Seventy-nine Years.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—To those who are interested in viewing Mars, now plainly visible during cloudless nights in the southeastern horizon, it may be of interest to know that the mean distance of Mars from the sun is 141,000,000 miles, but now it is at perihelion, and is but 128,000,000 miles from the sun, and the earth is at aphelion, about 94,000,000 miles from the sun, which is the nearest approach to each other, about 34,000,000 miles. This favorable opportunity for astronomical observations will not occur again for seventy-nine years.

A. J. PARK, M. D.

That Dam at Keokuk.

Keokuk, Ia., Sept. 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Mr. John L. Mathews has published an interesting article in Hampton's Magazine, deploring the action of congress and President Roosevelt in granting water power rights in the navigable rivers, and especially the one across the Mississippi river at the foot of the Des Moines rapids at Keokuk. I cannot agree with Mr. Mathews and others who may oppose granting to private enterprises what the general government will not do for the progress of the people and the country. It is not within the province of the general government to enter the field of private business, but it is the duty of the government to encourage private capital to engage in the development of all the resources of the country.

This plant is in the middle of the Mississippi valley, as fertile as any in the world, and in the midst of at least 5,000,000 population. Chicago and St. Louis, with their 3,000,000 people, are in easy range of supply.

Already contracts have been made with responsible corporations to take enough power to yield a yearly income of $1,500,000.

W. BOLLINS.

Asks for Street Signs.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Now that the city fathers have passed an ordinance compelling all or the majority of householders and business men to change the numbers of their residences or places of business at their own personal expense, why can we not have some effective law passed so that street names may be placed on at least one of the four corners of street intersections? We who have been born in this big city usually manage to get on fairly well in finding the streets and addresses we are in search of in the localities we are familiar with, but how on earth does a stranger in our city ever find his way? A city of the size of Chicago must necessarily have localities which it is impossible for every one to know well, so why not establish a systematic way of having the streets named as well as numbered?

NEWS OF THE THEATERS

The affable Mr. Dockstader, who is present at the Garrick with his burnt cork troubadours, has his mordant moments. During the humorous course of the performance of an idyl of the sunny south, entitled the "'Possum Aero Club," Mr. Dockstader engages in a biting criticism of some of our less favorable municipal aspects, couched in the cadence of a song named "Otherwise Your Town's All right."

First, Mr. Dockstader discusses the prospects for a subway, which he thinks are visionary. Then he touches upon the smoke nuisance, with particular reference to the earnest stokers of the Illinois Central. "If to Grant park you repair," he sings, "take a net to strain the air," and he rhythmically relates an apocryphal experience wherein he groped for three hours on Michigan avenue, imagining that he was lost in an arctic night. The case of Mr. McCann is considered with bitter innuendo that hints darkly at men "higher up," and the jury fixers win a nasty sneer. "Justice ne'er will get the scamps," he predicts, "with that bandage on her lamps." But, otherwise, he opines, our town is all right. He comments favorably on the stockyards and the Art institute.

The audience at the Garrick last night was quite of a mind with Mr. Dockstader, whose every joke won enthusiastic plaudits. Transportation, unsuccessful efforts in the national pastime, hummocks and leads in our principal thoroughfares, our soiled atmosphere, and all the other Chicago hindrances to the joy of living were catalogued, criticised, and applauded. Neither Mr. Dockstader nor those he was entertaining could be included among those who hold optimistic opinions concerning our metropolis.

Otherwise the performance is all right. A songster with a melodious baritone voice renders "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" with many pauses and minor chords and proves how much prettier it is than most of the modern ballads. The tall basso dredges the depths of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," and there are amusing colloquies between the pollysyllabic interlocutor and the wags on the "ends," Messrs. Neil O'Brien and Al Joslin.

Mr. Dockstader himself aviates over the heads of the audience in an airship, submitting some new jests and a few old ones. There is a fine band, a large chorus of men's voices, several examples of "neat" dancing, and most of the other minstrel things which have survived the shifting tastes of the capricious public. It is an unusually good minstrel entertainment.

Charles the First, the trained monkey employed this fortnight at the Majestic, attended the performance of "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge" at the Olympic last night, occupying a box just behind two embarrassed visiting Japanese captains of industry and their wives. He arrived in time to hear Phil Ryley sing rather a bad song, and was the only one in the audience who seemed not to enjoy it. A note from the Majestic theater contains the information that "During one scene in the show Charles blushed and turned his head, which proves that he understands a thing or two himself." And monkeys, it is said, have never been distinguished for the austerity of their morals.

When H. B. Warner leaves the cast of "Foreign Exchange" to create the leading character in the sequel to "The Squaw Man," called "These Are My People," Vincent Serrano will assume the rôle of the resourceful artist who rescues the heroine and her child in the final act. Later Mr. Serrano will appear in the principal rôle in "A Little Brother of the Rich."

Miss Gertrude Elliott, it is announced, will not accompany her husband, Mr. Forbes-Robertson, on his tour of America in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," preferring to remain at home in England to minister to the four little Forbes-Robertsons, the youngest of whom is three months old. Miss Mollie Pierson will appear in her stead.

During the week beginning Oct. 11 Thomas Jefferson, son of Joseph Jefferson, will play a condensed version of "Rip Van Winkle" at the Majestic theater.

Messrs. Liebler & Co. have engaged to produce a new play by Mrs. Anne Crawford Flexner, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," recently discarded by Mrs. Madge Carr Cooke, who appeared in Pittsburg last night in "If I Had Money" by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson.

"The American Idea," George Cohan's musical comedy study of our countrymen abroad, is on view at the Auditorium, where its errand is to inflate the exchequer of the Policeman's Benevolent association while incidentally amusing those inclined to the support of that philanthropy. Miss Trixie Friganza, as frail as ever, is to be pleasantly observed as a sophisticated divorcée eluding the attentions of a former husband and endeavoring to encounter those of a more favored suitor. The play will be recalled by Mr. Cohan's admirers as having been visible at the Colonial theater in an earlier stage of its career. It was successful at that time, and since Miss Friganza still graces it with her amiable talents that condition will no doubt prevail during this engagement. The prospective beneficiaries estimate that the week's takings at the Auditorium will be in excess of $50,000.

Henri Bernstein, author of "[illegible] Thief" and "Israel," has completed a new play for the Comédie Française which Charles Frohman will import to England and America. This is Mr. Bernstein's first work for that institution. Its production elsewhere will have to await the first performance in Paris, according to the rules of the Comédie Française. Mr. Frohman announces also his investment in F. Anstey's comedy, "The Brass Bottle," just produced at the Vaudeville theater in London.

HAMMOND.

Audience Likes "The Barrier."

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With a cast headed by Theodore Roberts, "The Barrier," a dramatization by Eugene W. Presbrey of Rex Beach's narrative, was presented for the first time here tonight.

The audience at the Lyceum theater enjoyed the play. The story is told in four acts. In the firs act, the trader and the gambler of Mr. Beach's story meet on the frontier after eighteen years of flight and pursuit. At the curtain falls the young Kentucky soldier is astonished at his proposal to a halfbreed.

In the second act the strong characters of the play are developed. The barriers of conventionality give way to primitive emotion in the third and the action of the fourth act is rapid. In it men fight a duel in the dark and as the light breaks the girl, Nescia, appears to meet her soldier sweetheart. The play ends with confession and forgiveness.

The work of Mr. Roberts, Miss Florence Rockwell, and W. S. Hart was heartily applauded by the audience. Alphons Ethier, Richard Thornton, and Guinio Socola were effective in important rôles. Much attention has been given to detail in staging and costuming.

VISIT TO GREAT RIVER.

German Traders Forced to Supply Blacks with American Made Axes.

[Copyright: 1909: By the Tribune Company.]

Monday.—The day dawned cloudy. Astern on the starboard side could be seen the high wooded peaks of Long island—a fertile field for the ethnologist, as it is densely populated, and, having neither harbor nor anchorage, it remains untouched. Ahead on the starboard side was the lofty zig-zag skyline of the Finisterre mountains, over which we propose to cross into the Ramu valley beyond.

The broken range seemed especially high and formidable as it loomed up clear above the great cloud masses, which obscured the Maclay coast. Towards ten the cloud masses rose and obscured the Maclay mountains, making visible the high coast line against which the surf could be seen breaking.

At noon we enter the great exposed Astrolabe bay and in another hour we thread our way in among wooded islets with a low country in the background, enter a narrow channel, and soon we are tied up alongside a small wharf with big tin sheds behind; while along the east shore are the ten or fifteen houses, scattered through a young coco-palm plantation, which, with the small hospital on the opposite shore, make up the town of Friederich Wilhelm Hafen, and the capital of Kaiser Wilhelm's land.

Outlook for Study Bright.

Well, the scene on the wharf looked most promising; a half hundred natives, a half dozen Europeans. The native Papuans seem at once to be a finer race than any I saw in the Bismarck archipelago except, perhaps, the Bukas. They have bushy hair, colored red with oil and red earth, bark loin girdles and wristbands, arm, leg, knee, and ankle bands, while around their necks were great heavy collars of boars' tusks and dogs' teeth; pieces of shell or boars' tusks in their noses; big ear pendants; combs and flowers in their hair; and their faces painted in stripes or spots to suit the fancy of the individual.

Each man carried a sack or netted bag over his left shoulder, which serves as a general receptacle. Yes, the scene was most promising; surely German New Guinea has not been robbed of all its ethnology. I was especially struck by one chap who had a lovely red coiffure standing straight up and out from his head, four inches long; his hair would fill a half bushel basket.

My boxes were taken care of by local black police boys, and with the governor I walked along a clean, well made road lined with flowers and palms and paved with coral mixed with lovely shells, past the big New Guinea company's stores, the postoffice, and a few other houses to the big house of Judge Assessor Schultz. This house is of one story, double roof, built high above the ground, well furnished, and most comfortable. It is the oldest house in the settlement, with a big octagonal pavilion overlooking the sea, which serves as a lounging place and dining room.

Plans Changed in Hurry.

And now came one of my lightning changes. We saw at the end of the wharf a small steamer of about 200 tons, the Siar, belonging to the German New Guinea company. I learned that it was to leave the next day for a trip along the whole of the west New Guinea coast, and also up the mighty Kaiserin Augusta river. Here was a chance to see Papuans by the wholesale, not one or two villages as on the Ramu river expedition, with but little chance to collect, but dozens of villages that possibly ascend the greatest river in German New Guinea which has remained unvisited since its discovery, eighteen years ago.

So off I went to hunt up Capt. Voogdt of the Siar, the governor kindly accompanying me. He was not on board, so with the governor's secretary we went to the captain's house, a half mile away, in a fine little garden overlooking the sea. The captain described his proposed trip, which was for the purpose of securing recruits, that is, laborers for the Friederich Wilhelm Hafen plantation, and said I could go along if the manager, Mr. Heine, who also was going, had no objection. Then off to Mr. Heine, who said I could go. That settled it.

Mr. Heine appears the sort of man one would expect to find as the chief representative of the German New Guinea company, the greatest of all trading companies doing business in the German Pacific possessions. In fact, the representatives of this company may be said to furnish about one-third of the white inhabitants of all this region, the other two-thirds being made up of government officials and missionaries.

Voyage Full of Promise.

I anticipate much pleasure from Mr. Heine's companionship on the proposed voyage, and as for the voyage itself it promises to be most interesting, for we are to travel westward from here, skirting the coast of New Guinea up to the Dutch boundary, visiting on the way several islands along the coast, and, best of all, we shall probably ascend the Kaiserin Augusta river, greatest of all rivers of this truly great island.

With the governor and judge I returned to the Manila, and we dined as guests of the captain. Back to the judge's house, where we sat up late talking international politics and consuming much beer. Beer is certainly food and drink to a German. As my room seemed close, I carried my cot out to the pavilion, where a fine breeze and a big moon made an ideal night.

Tuesday.—Up at 6, a fine shower bath, a good breakfast of chicken, eggs, and good coffee, and at 7 the governor and the judge took the steam launch and with their knapsacks, police boys, etc., left for a sixteen mile launch ride down the bay, where on the morrow they propose to start on their overland journey to the Ramu river.

After overhauling my boxes I took a government boat and six boys and rowed for a half hour around the point and among islands to the native village of Siar, on a lovely little coral island.

Houses Seem to Be Large.

I landed at the missionary's little pier and had a chat with him, largely in pidgin-English, for everybody must speak this picturesque language hereabouts, it is even more essential than German. I bought some photos of him at a fancy price. And then a few steps further through a fine forest brought me to the village, my first glimpse of real New Guinea. It looked mighty good to me. The houses seemed of enormous size after the miserable huts I had so often seen in New Ireland, all built on piles well up off the ground and reached by a ladder. I climbed one of these ladders and found myself on a platform or veranda, covered overhead by a floor of a sort of second story, the space above being covered by the projecting gable roof.

On the veranda were various native tools, earthware cooking pots, some decorated, ladles and cups of cocoanut, bunches of palm fiber, being prepared for the women's skirts, their sole garment, cocoanut scrapers, and wooden mortars for pounding cocoanut for its oil, which they use on their hair. In the side walls were spears, bows and arrows and fine black old war clubs. The veranda is on a level with the floor of the house proper, entering I found myself in a spacious single chamber, entered direct from the veranda by a small square door. About the floor were pillows, a carved two foot long billet of wood resting on two inverted V shape supports near each end, wooden dishes, more earthenware vessels, and near one corner was the three foot square fireplace.

On one veranda was an old man making a big pig net. Under some of the houses were great wooden signal drums of ten to twelve feet in length with one square and one rounded end and undecorated; and under some houses or nearby were rectangular enclosures marking graves. Of special interest were the large canoes, dugouts with raised sides of planking; over the central portion and resting on the outriggers was a raised platform. In the bay were several of these large canoes under full sail. In the boy's house were weapons, drums, and dance masks. As I had no "trade" goods I made no attempt at purchases, but started back at 11 o'clock, stopping on the way at the little island village of Ragatta.

Natives Want American Axes.

After a good lunch on the veranda, served by the judge's fine, clean cut, black Buka boy, I took a much needed siesta, as the forenoon trip had been a hot one. At 4 o'clock I went to the company's store to lay in a "trade box" full of trade—calico, fishhooks and lines, stick tobacco (Virginia), knives, big and little hatchets and U. S. A. axes (the natives won't have a German made ax), beads and planes, i. e., the blades of planes which the natives use as substitute for their shell or stone adze blades, and matches.

At 6 o'clock I went aboard the little ship Siar. It is not a Lusitania, nor yet a Prinz Sigismund, not even a Seestern, but it will do. There are two cabins—one is occupied by Mr. Heine, the other is mine. No electric light, no ice, no fans; but it'll do. The captain is jovial and generous, and everything looks promising. By 7 we are loaded, and what a load! Cows, chickens, geese, pigs, stores of all sorts for the company's trading stores along the coast, including much beer and familiar boxes of American coal oil. Then the natives, fifty or more of the boys returning from their two years' work in the plantation. It is a regular ethnological show of German New Guinea types.

By 8 we are outside the bay, bobbing and rolling like a cork, with dishes, etc., rattling and pigs squealing. There is little wind, and that from the sea, and as my cabin is on the land side I shall spread my rug on a steamer chair exposed to all the breeze.

Household Hints

In the BOUDOIR

Care of Feet.

If one's feet burn and are dry they should after the evening bath be rubbed thoroughly dry and some good cold cream with plenty of lanoline should be rubbed in. Several minutes should be spent on each foot and the superfluous cream removed with a bit of old cotton or with cheesecloth. The latter, which is easily washed, should always be kept on hand when cold cream is used.

After the cream is thoroughly rubbed in and the surplus removed the feet may be bathed with witch hazel or with cold water containing a little alcohol. This will stimulate the skin and the cream already absorbed will prevent its drying the skin. Witch hazel is always good for the feet. If the feet perspire witch hazel or alcohol much diluted or a weak solution of alum water may be used to bathe the feet with twice daily, and oftener if convenient.

Care of Hands.

In applying any cream or lotion to the hands be especially careful to work it in around the tips of the fingers where those tiny cracks come. Stain lodges in them and is difficult to eradicate. It should be first thoroughly cleansed by means of a handbrush and a nailbrush or a pumice, and then the cream will heal the soreness.

Nervousness Help

If you are suffering from nervousness do not overlook the value of deep breathing. Many persons have warded off acute nervous prostration by drawing in deep breaths at frequent intervals during the day.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

Boys' Blouses

If boys' blouses are gathered at the waistline and put into a belt they will have a much neater appearance than when they are drawn up with a tape, for the ends of the tape are almost invariably hanging outside the garment.

Skirt Hangers.

A neat, convenient skirt hanger may be made by using the steel of a discarded hose supporter for the foundation. Put a piece of ribbon about an inch wide and four inches long, through the top. Bring the ends of the ribbon together and fasten them securely, sewing into this fastening a medium sized safety pin. To hang up a skirt, fasten the pin in the skirt binding, bringing the front and back together, and hang to the hooks in the closet by the hose supporter. Use two for each skirt the same as loops.

Skirt and Blouse Hint.

The surest way to keep skirt and blouse together is to sew eyes to the blouse and hooks to the skirt. When the blouse is worn underneath the eyes should go at the top of the belt line, one inch to each side of the middle, while the hooks go at similar distances on the inner side of the skirt band.

Stout women whose hips are large will find it more satisfactory to put hooks and eyes so that the skirt and blouse are fastened under the arms also. This can be managed by putting an eye at the side seam of the waistband with hooks to correspond on the skirt.

TESTED RECIPES

Chicken Cream Soup.

Boil an old fowl, with an onion, in four quarts of cold water until there remain but two quarts. Take it out and let it get cold. Cut off the whole of the breast and chop fine. Mix with the pounded yolks of two hard boiled eggs and rub through a colander. Cool, skim, and strain the soup into a soup pot. Season, add the chicken and egg mixture, simmer ten minutes, and pour into the tureen. Then add a small cupful of boiling milk.

Chow Chow.

One peck of green tomatoes, half peck string beans, quarter peck small white onions, quarter pint green and red peppers mixed, two large heads cabbage, four tablespoons white mustard seed, two of white or black cloves, two of celery seel, two of allspice, one small box yellow mustard, pound brown sugar, one ounce of turmeric; slice the tomatoes and let stand over night in brine that will bear an egg; then squeeze out brine, chop cabbage, onions, and beans; chop tomatoes separately, mix with the spices, put all in porcelain kettle, cover with vinegar, and boil three hours.

Beefsteak Toast.

Chop cold steak fine and put into a stewpan with a lump of butter and water to more than cover. Boil twenty minutes, then stir in a well beaten egg. Season with salt and pepper and pour over toast. Serve hot.

ARCHITECTS TO STUDY MUSIC; PLAN TO GIVE LIGHT OPERA.

Club Abandons Idea of Minstrel Show—Fort Dearborn Club Elects Officers—Actors' Church Alliance to Meet.

The members of the Chicago Architectural club contemplate adding another of the fine arts to their list of studies.

At an informal dinner held last evening in Wiechmann's restaurant it was suggested that the club plan some musical entertainment for the winter season, and this idea met with such favor that the original scheme of a small musical or minstrel show was abandoned.

A committee was named to report next Monday upon the advisability of giving a light opera. The receipts from such an entertainment will be devoted to the establishment of a scholarship in some architectural school.

The club's program for the coming month, announced last evening, includes a lecture next Monday evening by Louis V. Le Moyne on "Some Manor Places of England," and a gallery talk in the Art institute two weeks later, conducted by James W. Patterson.

Meetings and Entertainments.

THE THIRD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH held a missionary rally last evening at the church parlors, Ashland boulevard and Ogden avenue. The Rev. Frank E. Higgins spoke upon "Missionary Work in the Logging Camps."

THE FORT DEARBORN CLUB met and elected officers Saturday evening in the clubrooms at Washington boulevard and Wood street. The club's social season will open in the latter part of October with a stag dinner.

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF BANKING, Chicago chapter, will meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the Northwestern University building. James I. Ennis will speak upon "Contracts."

THE ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH MEN'S CLUB will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Judge F. L. Fake Jr. will deliver a lecture on "Crime."

THE ACTORS' CHURCH ALLIANCE, Chicago chapter, will hold a reception in the Auditorium parlors between 3:30 and 5:30 this afternoon. Maclyn Arbuckle will be guest of honor.

THE MAYWOOD PHILANTHROPIC SOCIETY will hold a card party and dance tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Winterburn.

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD

Duchess de Chaulnes to Spend Winter in the South.

MEN WILL AID IN PAGEANT.

North Shore Shows Interest in Celebration at Evanston.

The persistent rumors which continue to reach the public asserting the duchess de Chaulnes (Theodora Shonts) will spend a portion of the winter in Chicago are wholly erroneous, according to the aunt of the duchess, Mrs. John A. Drake, who has but recently returned from Paris.

"The duchess de Chaulnes is now on the ocean with her mother, Mrs. Theodore Shonts, having sailed last week from Paris on a ten day boat. She is bringing her boy, and after two weeks in New York the family will go to the Shonts' summer place at Daphne, Ala., to spend the entire winter, because they feel that a winter in the south will be best for the baby. She does not plan to come to Chicago during this time."

During the conversation Mrs. Drake was asked about the likewise persistent rumors of the engagement of the duchess to young Prince Joachim Murat.

"These reports are most cruel," said Mrs. Drake. "The duchess remains in the deepest mourning and since the death of her husband has not so much as received a call. As to the Prince Joachim Murat, I know certainly that she does not know him, that she never has met him, and these repeated reports nearly break her heart."

Mrs. Drake's mother, Mrs. Robert Rea of the Kenwood, whose serious illness called Mr. and Mrs. Drake and Miss Roberta Rea from Paris earlier than they had planned returning, is improving slowly. Mrs. Rea has not been in robust health for some months, but a sudden collapse a few weeks ago became so serious that the members of the family then abroad were cabled to return immediately.

It is not often that the services of the men may be enlisted in the giving of charity entertainments, but many of the prominent business and professional men of the north shore are taking an active part in the various historical scenes in the Illinois pageant to be given on Northwestern university campus on the evenings of Oct. 7, 8, and 9.

The Rev. Craig Stewart, who is to impersonate Marquette, will be chairman of the Pere Marquette group in the first scene. Alfred Granger of Lake Forest is chairman of the La Salle group dominating the second scene, Ernest T. Clymer and Philip Huguenin of the Pontiac group of the third, Prof. Lardner of the School of Oratory of the Gen. Clark group in scene 4.

The organizers of the Clark group include the Y. M. C. A. and Mrs. Frederick Arndt, R. C. Cook, Mrs. A. Vawter, George Miller, and John Nevins, and the principal characters will be taken by Prof. Lardner, Prof. Baillot, H. H. Hoyt Jr., William Walters, Dr. Hurlbut, and Mrs. Arndt. Scene 5 shows the Fort Dearborn group, with Roscoe N. Gilkie as chairman, and the next scene will show the Blackhawk massacre, with the students of the Art institute and the Donald Robertson players in the rôles. In this scene the horseback group will be in charge of Henry J. Patten, Paul Tietgens, and Edward Hardy. One hundred Northwestern university students will act as rangers. Raymond Hardenberg and J. Allen Haines will be the chairmen for the last scene—the Lincoln celebration group—and the final procession is to be given under the direction of Prof. Lutkins.

Nov. 13 has been announced as the date for the presentation of Miss Ethel Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Fisher of Astor street. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and Miss Fisher are in Lake Forest for the month of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey T. Weeks will give a dinner on Oct. 13 for Miss Herma Letts and their son, Frank Edward Weeks.

Miss Maude Ashum will be presented on Nov. 11 by her aunt, Mrs. Walter Fitch, 4649 Woodlawn avenue.

The wedding of Miss Elvira Sinsabaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sinsabaugh of Mattoon, Ill., and Herbert Silvers Brown of Chicago will take place tomorrow evening at the First Congregational church, Mattoon. Miss Sinsabaugh is a prominent member of social and musical circles of Austin, where she has resided with her aunt, Mrs. George H. Park, at 135 South Park avenue, the last two years. She is a member of Beta Psi Delta sorority, and a delegation of girls will attend the wedding, leaving Chicago tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Chicago upon their return from an extended wedding journey.

Miss Julie E. Manierre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Manierre, 1507 Dearborn avenue, will sail on Thursday next from Germany, where she has been studying music since last spring under Mme. Von Niessen-Stone of the Metropolitan Opera company. Miss Manierre will pass in midocean her younger sister, Miss Wilhelmine, who will sail today to attend Miss Kettle's school at Dieppe, France.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

With the help of the Giants' ninth inning rally yesterday the Cubs kept themselves half a notch above absolute zero by trimming Philadelphia, 4 to 1, in the first game of their series here. For a time it looked as if the last lingering, mathematical toe hold of the world's champions was to be wrenched loose, as it would have been if Pittsburg had won both games of its double header.

While the bugs divided their interest between the battle progressing on the diamond and on the score board the Cubs fought as stiffly and persistently to down the Phillies as if each telegraphic inning was not consigning them irrevocably to the freezer. Then when the engineer of the bulletin board displayed a "5" in New York's ninth, which postponed the funeral services for at least one more day there was actually a yelp of glad applause from the stands. The season is not yet dead, long live the season.

Overall in Great Form.

Overall pitched in midseason form, holding the Phillies down to four singles, which were scattered from one end of the game to the other. Backed by veteran warriors, except on first base, Big Jeff found the victory an easy one, and the enemy never would have scored on him but for a couple of buskins by Actor Tinker in the third inning. Seven visitors were set down on strikes, and only one walked to first. During the afternoon there were four Phillies on second base at different periods, but the rest perished before they went half way around. Only once was there a hostile runner at second with less than two out. He scored.

The Cubs won their battle by bunching four hits in the second inning. These, with the assistance of a base on balls and a battery boot, compiled three runs and left the rooters no occasion for worry the rest of the day unless Overall broke something.

A coterie of the distinguished visitors to our fair city from Japan watched the game from box seats with close and honorable attention, and expressed great, honorable delight over the honorable excellence of our ancient and honorable national pastime, which their own progressive and honorable nation is introducing rapidly. At the conclusion of an honorable discourse between the honorable president of the Cubs and his most courteous guests their honorable spokesman expressed the honorable hope that in a few honorable years the honorable Cubs and the honorable champions of Japan might play an honorable series for the honorable championship of the honorable world.

Luderus' Play Ludicrous.

These visitors and a play in which Luderus was made to appear really ludicrous for the first time were the features of the local combat. The play in question was a steal of second by Knabe in the fourth inning, which rivaled in hilarity one which Jimmy Sheckard is credited with pulling off on Kit Bransfield some time ago. Knabe was on first with two out in that fourth when Archer spotted him taking a long lead and fired the ball to Luderus. Knabe knew he was a dead one going back, so dashed for second on the throw. Luderus caught it low and quick as a cat swung hands and arms around to intercept and tag out Knabe, who at that instant was legging the last few yards of the path to second. Before Fred recovered from the momentum of his own rotation Knabe slid to safety among the Trojans' feet.

The bugs roared, of course, and instead of making them roar harder, as Bransfield did when it was pulled off on him, by lifting up the bag and looking under it for the runner, Luderus merely turned red to the peak of his cap. It didn't matter, for Knabe was left on second when Doolan whiffed for the second time.

Corridon was going great guns before the gulf storm hit him. He banished three Cub batters in a row in the first, striking Sheckard out. Then he started the second by fanning Luderus, but Steinfeldt led the sortie which won by slugging a single to left. A passed ball let him to second and Hofman's grounder, well played by Doolan, advanced him to third. Tinker was there in the pinch with a blow to left which let Steiny trot home. Archer scratched a slow roller past Corridon and Knabe and beat it. Overall worked his rival for a free ticket and filled the corners with two out. Evers played his string down to three balls and two strikes, then pickled a peach on a line to right, scoring Tinker and Archer. Sheckard's grounder stopped that good business.

Quakers Get Back Run.

Murray's men got one of those runs back in their third. Tinker fumbled a Corridon grounder with one out and Grant planted a single in center. Bates hit a bounder to Tinker, who forced Grant by stepping on second, but when he heaved hard to double the batsman at first the ball went through to the grand stand. Corridon scored from second and Bates reached that bag, but a foul by Titus closed the incident.

Archer doubled with one out in the Cub fourth. Overall whiffed, but Evers was passed and Sheckard sent Archer tearing home on a clean single to center. Schulte fouled the side out. Not another run scored either way. The visitors had only two men on first in the remaining five innings and both of them perished trying to steal second. Evers brought his familiar catch and slap play into use to stop Dooin's steal in the fifth and got his man, although Red ordinarily would have beaten the ball. Overall finished by striking out four in the last two innings, the final play being a double in which Magee whiffed and Titus, who had [illegible] off the fourth single, was nailed at second by Archer. NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Philadelphia again today and tomorrow.

Members of Constellation lodge, A. F. and A. M., to which Treasurer Williams of the Cubs belongs, will be guests at today's game with the Phillies.

Luderus got a near hit his last time up in the seventh. He whanged a fly far out over left center, but Magee pranced back at top speed and nailed it.

There is one thing of which the Pirates cannot rob the Cubs this year, and that is their world's record of 116 victories in a season. If Pittsburg wins all nine of its remaining battles it can only reach 115 for the year, leaving our 1906 record untouched.

Archer crashed against the grand stand chasing Dooin's fly in the eighth, but escaped injury somehow. It was just after the Pittsburg score had been posted, showing New York's victory in the second game, and Jimmy was not going to have the loss of the pennant charged to his missing that play.

Doolan almost threw Tinker out in the eighth after Joe's hit had smashed through Grant in safety. It was a whale of a stop and throw for Mike. Right afterward, with the ball in Corridon's hands, Tinker sneaked for second, and they didn't wake Frank up until too late. Then a wide throw was muffed by Doolin, letting Joe keep going to third base in safety.

Umpire Brennan made his first appearance in Chicago as an arbitrator and worked on the bases, making a good impression. There was only one of his decisions which caused any kind of a protest, and that a slight one by the Phillies. He had plenty of close ones, but was not at all feazed by Evers' catch and slap trick which caught Knabe stealing, and which has fooled many umps by surprising them.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 27.—Pittsburg lost an opportunity to clinch the National league pennant when Leifield weakened in the ninth inning of the second game with New York, the visitors scoring five runs and winning by a score of 8 to 7. The locals won the first contest by a score of 6 to 1. Pittsburg needs only one more victory to win the National league flag.

Opportune hits off Crandall in the initial game won for Pittsburg. Adams was strong at all times and allowed only three hits, these being in the seventh inning, When New York secured its only run.

Errors by Abstein gave the visitors two runs early in the second game, but heavy hits by Pittsburg players soon placed their team in front, the score at the beginning of the ninth inning being 7 to 3 in favor of the locals.

At this period Leifield weakened and Meyers, the first man up, singled. Devore, running for him, stole second. Snodgrass, batting for Wiltse, singled, scoring Devore. Doyle secured a hit to left and went to second. Snodgrass scored when McCormick singled to center. Murray clinched the victory by sending the ball high over the left field fence, bringing in Doyle and McCormick. Scores:

Highlanders Clout Three Times, but Each Single Counts in Result.

New York, Sept. 27.—On account of a slight rainfall only one game was played between New York and Detroit, and this the locals won, 4 to 1. The visitors' only run came in the first inning on a base on balls to Bush, Cobb's single, and Crawford's sacrifice fly.

New York won the game in the second inning. Engle singled and Knight was hit by a pitched ball. Austin forced Knight and stole second, scoring with Engle on Blair's scratch hit along the third base line.

In the third inning New York got two more runs on Hemphill's single, which was the last hit off Willet; Moriarity's fumble, Chase's steal, a wild pitch, and Engle's out. Score:

CUBS ASK FOR DOUBLE HEADER.

Wish to Play Before Rockford Minister Who Preached Sermon for Sunday Baseball.

Permission has been asked of the National league to advance Thursday's scheduled game with the Phillies here and play it off as the second game of a double header tomorrow afternoon. As the change cannot have any effect on the championship race, no club is likely to refuse its consent.

President Murphy learned yesterday from the Rev. Thornton Anthony Mills of Rockford, Ill., who was at the game, that the ministers' conference now in session in Chicago, had set aside tomorrow afternoon for sightseeing, and immediately extended the courtesies of the Cub plant to them through the Rev. Mr. Mills. In order to insure the greatest possible demonstration of baseball's supremacy in the line of clean, wholesome sport, the Cub magnate planned to give his guests a double header "without money and without price" and wired the other clubs for consent to do so.

The Rev. Mr. Mills' acquaintance with Mr. Murphy dates back to the occasion when the former delivered a sermon to his Rockford flock in favor of Sunday baseball as a force making for good among the masses and the latter, discovering a report of the sermon, mailed the Rev. Mr. Mills the assurances of his distinguished admiration and an invitation to attend all Cub games on week days, or Sundays either, together with an annual "open sesame."

NAVIN NOT TO MAKE COMPLAINT

President of Tigers Says Highlanders Couldn't Steal Battery Signals, as None Were Given.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President Navin of the Detroit baseball club, takes no stock in the story that the Tigers' battery signs were tipped off to the Highlanders. "They no doubt tried, but they could not steal our signals anyway," he explained, "for the catchers have not been giving signals down east. I don't propose to make any complaint to the league, for none will be necessary. Mr. Johnson will investigate the matter for himself, charges having been preferred by the Washington owners."

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Sox were 8 to 1 victors over the Senators today in a game the feature of which was the fact it was played in one hour and a half. It doesn't often happen that nine runs can be made in this space of time, when the full nine innings are played.

The reason for the phenomenon was that the Sox kept on going around the bases as soon as they reached first. They waited for nothing at all. Ed Forman, recruited from Erie and recommended by Mike Donlin, allowed them to take leads as long as a training trip, and Jack Slattery could do nothing but look at the Chicago runners as they took advantage of the openings given them. Young Messenger alone had three stolen bases to his credit before two innings had been completed. Six was the Sox total of thefts. It could have been twelve just as well, but there is a limit to a base runner's endurance.

Forman Doesn't Last Long.

Forman was found for five hits in the two rounds he worked, but his manifold weaknesses and slips by his support netted us five large tallies before he was taken out to make room for Doc Reisling. Doc was much steadier, but even he could not have won, because Washington was not strong enough on attack to worry Jim Scott. Jim was wild again, but it didn't seem to make much difference. The enemy couldn't hit him with any effect except in the third round, when Milan and Gessler drove in the run which saved the Senators from the disgrace of a shutout.

Manager Cantillon's other team was given a chance to work this time. Only Schaefer, McBride, and Milan of the bunch that started in Saturday's battles were visible when the umpire called play. Slattery was behind the bat, to be sure, but he had been at first base until forced to catch in the second conflict of double-header day. Harry Gessler had his job this afternoon. Yohe was at third, George Brown in right, and Lelivelt in left. The change didn't seem to help the cause any, but there is no use to do anything but humor Joe if he wants to act that way.

Fielding Mistakes Frequent.

The fielding on both sides was brilliant at times and dull at others. Freddie Parent had a wild throw and a fumble and Cole a bad muff. None of the mistakes hurt anybody but those who made them. Washington was not so fortunate with its errors, all three of which figured in the run getting of the White Hose brigade.

It was cold again and half an hour before the game started it didn't look as if there would be any one present but the athletes, scribes, and umpires. However, a few men and a whole lot of chorus girls appeared just before 4 o'clock and made some noise when the scores from out of town were posted and when Parent and Tannehill pulled off some fielding stunts.

Some class D performing by various Senators and classy base running by the Sox gave the latter nine a lead of three against the wild young Mr. Forman in the first round. Messenger walked and Altizer sacrificed. Mess took advantage of Forman's big windup and started out to set a stealing record. He got away with third base easily and came all the way home on Slattery's bad throw. Cole then was passed and promptly stole second. Dougherty hit to Gessler, whose toss was muffed by Forman. This slip sent Cole in from second. Purtell singled to right and Parent's scratch over Forman's head filled the bases. Tannehill grounded to Schaefer and Parent dodged him long enough to allow Tannehill to reach first and Dougherty's run to count. Payne forced Tannie for the third out.

Cole's Single Counts.

Scott walked and Messenger forced him in the next inning. Mess stole second, and after Altizer had been wounded by a pitched ball took part in a double steal with Dare Devil. Cole brought them both in with a single to center.

Doc Reisling took Forman's place in the third and the Sox increased their total to seven. One out, Yohe's wild throw saved Tannehill. Payne and Scott singled and the bases were choked. Messenger filed to Milan and Lee Ford scored. Altizer stung safely to right, Payne coming in. Scott was nipped at third by Browne's nice throw.

The Senators collected one run in their half on a pass to Reisling and singles by Milan and Gessler. Double plays stopped them in the fourth and fifth. The one in the last named inning was sparkling, with Lee Tannehill doing the sparkling. With Reisling on second and Browne on first, Yohe hit a vicious liner toward left. Tannie jumped up and speared it in his glove, juggled it a while and then grabbed it with his other hand in time to throw to Purtell before Reisling could get back. Altizer's infield single, his theft of second and Dougherty's double to right gave Chicago its eighth tally in the sixth. Payne bunted safely and Scott walked, with two out in the seventh, but the Sox were tired of scoring.

Senators Weary by Efforts.

The Senators appeared to be weary of trying to score. In the last three rounds three of them got on, one on a muff by Cole, another on Parent's fumble and another on a pass. As these things happened in different chapters, they didn't serve any purpose, except to delay the finish. Score:

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Ed Walsh will be due tomorrow, but may be saved for Philadelphia.

Freddie Payne continued to swell his batting average. He had a clean single and a safe bunt out of four attempts.

Jerry Eddinger has been dubbed Sherlock Holmes on account of the part he played in detecting the New York signal system.

"I don't see why they need field glasses to read the catcher's signs," said Umpire O'Loughlin. "I can tell what's going to be pitched when I'm umpiring at first base."

The best play of the day was pulled off by Parent in the ninth inning, when he ran over across second base, scooped Lelivelt's mean grounder, and pegged his man at first.

Dave Altizer almost batted 1.000 for the afternoon. On his last appearance at the plate he hit a terrific one at Schaefer, but the Dutchman managed to check it and toss the Dare Devil out.

The arrival of three musical comedies from New York has filled Washington with ladies of the chorus. Forman probably was not accustomed to the sight of so many highly colored bunches of femininity.

Harry Gessler would not have appeared at the park if he had thought there was any chance of his being asked to play. Members of the Washington club should know enough to stay away if they don't want to take an active part in the daily defeat.

Doc White has a contract to supply the Sox with uniforms next season. Some of the players visited his store and were measured this morning. "They took my measure," said one of the veterans, "but I don't know whether or not I'll be asked to wear a suit next year."

MACKMEN JOLTED BY EX-NAPS.

Lose Opportunity to Gain on Tigers by Losing Hard Fought Game to Cleveland, 5 to 4.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27.—Cleveland defeated Philadelphia, 5 to 4. The last six innings were played in a drizzling rain, which made the ball hard to control. Philadelphia had several chances to send runners across the plate, but three double plays, in each of which Lajoie figured, cut off its chances. In the ninth inning, with Cleveland ahead, Manager Mack sent in substitute batsmen. The first, Hartsel, drew four balls and Ganley had two balls and no strikes called when Winchell was sent in to pitch in place of Otis. A run and hit play was attempted, but Ganley popped to Lajoie, who doubled up Hartzel at first, and Heitmueller ended the contest by striking out. Score:

CANTILLON'S ERROR REVEALS MOTIVE

Senators' Manager Says He Knew of New York Team's Alleged Trickery in June.

SILENCE; THEN REVENGE?

Effort to Get Even with Clubs Which Opposed His Reappointment Behind Acts.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Manager Joe Cantillon of the Washington club, the man who is given credit for discovering the New York team's alleged trickery in having the opposing catchers' signs tipped off to its batsmen, appears to have made another mistake.

According to Joe, he knew what was going on at the Highlanders' park as long ago as June. He confided his suspicions to Jerry Eddinger, trainer of the Senators, and together they made investigations which proved the New Yorkers were not winning games on their merits. Joe's mistake was his failure to disclose what he knew just as soon as he knew it. Instead of doing so he waited until last Thursday when he revealed his knowledge to Hugh Jennings, manager of the Tigers, who were to open a series on the Yankees' yard on the following day.

Reasons for Cantillon's Acts.

There is a lot back of Cantillon's revelations and the reason for them. According to information received here the Washington club had decided to engage him as manager for another season despite reports to the contrary. A meeting of the board of directors was held and Joe was appointed leader of the club for 1910 to succeed himself. When this was made known to the owners of other American league clubs protests against his reappointment were filed by three magnates. Then, according to the story, President Johnson informed the Washington directorate that these protests had been made, with the result the owners of the team here reconsidered and decided it would be best to secure another manager.

Cantillon, of course, was made aware of what had gone on and he set out to ascertain who had "knocked" him. He was shown statements from four owners, Comiskey of Chicago, Hedges of St. Louis, Taylor of Boston, and Navin of Detroit. All of these were boosts. Naturally Joe then figured that the "knocking" must have come from Cleveland, New York, and Philadelphia. He could find out nothing concerning the action of the Cleveland club, but claims to have discovered that Manager Stallings of New York had brought charges against him of disloyalty to the American league founded on some statements Joe had made regarding what he would do if the American association and Eastern league declared war on the majors. He is said to believe that Philadelphia was his most bitter foe, however.

Athletics Not Friendly with Joe.

Harry Davis was being boosted as prospective manager of the Senators, and the owners of the Athletic team were said to be pulling for Harry to land the job. Furthermore there has been bitterness between Manager Cantillon and the Philadelphia players during the last few weeks, the Athletics claiming that Cantillon was trying to beat them out of the pennant by using his best pitchers against them while he was laying down to Detroit. Thus it will be seen that Cantillon did not have much affection either for Stallings or for Connie Mack.

In explaining his reasons for tipping off Hughey Jennings to the New York club's alleged practices Cantillon said he thought it was only fair to warn a manager who was up in the fight and to whom victories meant a great deal. But it is believed here that the Washington manager's revelations were a sort of come back for the injuries alleged to have been done him by the New York club.

Now that the matter is out, the players on both the Washington and Chicago teams make no bones about saying they thought something was wrong over on the hilltop. Manager Sullivan of the White Sox asserted this morning that he had watched closely during the game he caught over in New York for evidence that his signs were being tipped off. On a building outside the center field fence he noticed a handkerchief waving suspiciously and at the time he thought this might have been a signal. He couldn't understand how the Yankees, usually so helpless before Walsh, were having so little trouble in hitting the big spit ballist.

Doc White made the assertion that he noticed the batsmen against him were not looking at him at all before he was ready to pitch, but beyond him. He suspected that runners on second base were reading Fred Payne's signals and he warned Fred about it.

Protests from Mackmen Expected.

The Chicago players expect a protest will be lodged by the Philadelphia Athletics in a day or two. Connie Mack may want the games he lost on the New York grounds thrown out, charging that they were decided by trickery. All the athletes gathered in this city are awaiting developments eagerly, and are anxious to know what is going to be done if, on further investigation, it is found that the charges against New York are found true in their entirety.

Semi-Pro Season Nears End.

Closing games in the Chicago baseball league were scheduled at last night's meeting at 10 Clark street, Anson's Colts playing at Gunther park and the West Ends playing two games with the Leland Giants at Auburn Park. On Sunday Rogers Park will play the Logan Squares in the last game of their series, while the Lelands will play an exhibition game at Gunther park on Saturday.

VISION OF VICTORY SPURS PURDUE ON

ECKERSALL AT PRACTICE.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—With the best prospects of beating Chicago since 1905, Coach Speik of the Purdue football team, which meets the Maroons on Marshall field next Saturday, put his charges through a gruelling practice on Stewart field this afternoon.

The players reported at 3 o'clock, and it was not until 6:30 that Speik sent them around the field on the last lap of the strenuous day's workout. The former Maroon, realizing he has a chance to turn out a team that is liable to win from the aggregation representing his alma mater, is exerting every energy he possesses to whip a team into shape that will bring honor and glory to the institution located on the banks of the Wabash.

Speik a Thorough Tutor.

Not one phase of practice work was overlooked by Speik so thorough is he in preparing this year's eleven. Falling on the ball, tackling the dummies, charging the machines, kicking and catching punts, throwing and catching forward passes, and every other form of elementary practice known to football came in for its share of attention.

Following this workout three teams were formed and sent up and down the field for more than an hour learning the varied assortment of plays which will be used in the Chicago game. The players, too, realize they have a chance to down the Midway eleven, and to accomplish this feat they got in today's practice with a vim and determination which augurs well for their success. The formations with the onside kick and the forward pass—and there were a lot of them—were snapped off in good style considering the short time the players have been together, and when the team leaves here for Chicago on Friday afternoon the various complicated formations will be reeled off with clocklike precision.

Players Know New Football.

The Purdue team of 1909 will not be an aggregation similar to the ones that represented this institution in 1906 and 1907. In these years the Boilermakers did not know new football and did not know how to stop the simplest formations made possible by the new rules. Consequently Purdue teams in those years were smothered under an avalanche of forward passes and onside kicks which completely bewildered them and allowed Chicago to run up surprisingly big scores. In those contests the old shoestring trick was worked innumerable times when a high school eleven would have been in disgrace if a similar thing were perpetrated on it.

This year's Purdue team knows new football, and it knows what to expect when it gives battle to Chicago on Saturday. The Maroons will not be combating with the teams of 1906 or 1907. If today's practice is to be taken as a criterion, Capt. Page and his cohorts will meet an eleven that is determined to win and which will fight as no other Purdue team has since 1905.

Big Handicap Removed.

The coach and players know they go to Chicago this fall without being handicapped by having to watch some one player on the Maroon team who possesses remarkable ability in some department of the game. This the old players on this year's eleven assert has been the cause of Purdue's humiliation in the past, because they claim that when they were watching continually some player on the Chicago team they allowed some one else to slip away for scores. Coach Speik and the players do not fear a single Maroon this year and are out to avenge the defeats of the last ten years. Whether they will be successful remains to be seen, but they already are worked up to that fighting pitch where they will give a worthy account of themselves.

In Capt. Eggeman Purdue has a great player and leader. Not only does he play the game all the time himself but he is instilling continually that fighting spirit into his teammates which is so essential to success in these modern days of football. Eggeman seems to be a natural leader, one who possesses the faculty of getting everything out of his men with little effort. The players like him and work for him, which is one of the reasons the team is coming along so quickly.

Eggeman Tackle of Ability.

Eggeman will play left tackle this year, and he possesses all the requirements for the position. He is fast and active for a big man, charges low and hard, and he is a tough player to box when he is playing on the defense. He is good at carrying the ball on tackle around plays, and once he gets going he is hard to stop. The other tackle position will be pulled by Mitchell, a senior, who is a hard, determined player but who lacks the experience of the position to play it well. He plays in a mechanical sort of fashion and lacks resourcefulness in his makeup. Speik is aware of this, but is doing his utmost to have this player as well versed by Saturday as possible.

The guard positions will be taken care of most likely by Speck and Fauber. Both are fairly heavy and have average knowledge of how the positions should be played. Speik has taught them to be aggressive and to break through when playing on the offense on forward passes in the hope of aiding in the interference in event the pass is successfully executed. Both go down under punts in good shape and are hard, low players on the defensive.

Veteran to Play Center.

McFarland, a veteran of two years' experience, will play center. He has played against Chicago twice and asserts he knows just what to expect from Stagg's aggregation. He is an accurate passer and strong defensive player. Geupel will pilot the Boilermakers on Saturday and his selection of plays in today's scrimmage was good. He ran his team with pretty good judgment, but did not show any tendencies to help the man with the ball. His forward passing can be improved upon, also his onside kicking.

Geupel is a senior and has not had the experience of varsity competition, but Speik thinks mighty well of his new recruit, and expects him to improve as the season wears on. His lack of experience asserted itself in today's scrimmage numerous times, especially on forward passes, when he did not fake enough to make the play look as if he was going to run instead of throw the ball. There were other faults noticeable in his play, which he may overcome before the Maroons are met.

Trees and Geupel Fast Ends.

The ends will be taken care of by Trees and Geupel, both of whom are hard, aggressive players, besides being fast and expert handlers of the forward pass. On defense they are used as smashers and today they generally maanged to turn the runner out for a clear shot by the defensive halves. They tackle well, and especially Trees, who throws himself at a runner and generally gets him. Geupel does the punting and goal kicking. His punts average from forty to fifty yards and he gets good heighth to them, thereby allowing his ends plenty of time to cover them.

Hanna and either Urwitz or McGrath will play the half back positions. The former is sure of starting in Saturday's contest, while Speik is undecided as to whom he will start at the other position. He asserts he will not know until the team leaves for Chicago, for right now there is not much to choose between them. Hanna is a fast little player and only weighs 124 pounds, but he was one of the gamest, grittiest players on the team. He picks his holes well and is a valuable man in the interference. Urwitz and McGrath try hard enough, but neither seems to possess the real instincts of a good half back. With the drilling which they are bound to receive this week, both should be able to play good football against Chicago.

Full Back Is Uncertain.

The full back position is another uncertainty. Kassebaum and Smith are fighting hard for the honor of starting Saturday's battle, but if today's contest between the two picked teams was to decide the issue, Smith would win the position. Kassebaum does not drive hard enough to make a good full back, and he is poor at picking holes and weak in the interference. On the other hand, Smith hits the line hard with plenty of drive and fights for every inch. He is a better man in the interference and is a strong defensive player.

Coach Speik has plenty of material in case any of his players are disabled. He has three full teams from which to pick the players who will go to Chicago. Eisensmith, Franks, Deiner, Baker, Hanland, Miller, Collins, are the most promising who will not be in the first lineup.

The Purdue team will leave for Chicago on Friday and will stop at the Chicago Beach hotel. A rate has been secured and at least 500 rooters will be on hand to cheer the team.

Athletics here have taken on a different aspect with the completion of the new gymnasium which was opened this fall and erected at a cost of $75,000. It is equipped with all modern athletic equipment and contains a running track, thirteen and one-half laps to the mile, also a forty yard dash straightaway. A swimming pool sixty by thirty is installed in the basement, and altogether the building ranks with anything similar in the west.

Stewart field is to be enlarged so that it will contain three gridirons, fifteen tennis courts, and a quarter mile straightaway, besides one or more baseball diamonds. If Purdue is not successful in winning the western championship its secondary aim is to win premier honors in Indiana. To accomplish this the Boilermakers must defeat Indiana, their nearest rival. A victory over the Hoosiers makes the season a success here, and if Coach Speik is not successful in winning from Chicago, his next ambition will be to defeat Indiana, which is coached by Jimmy Sheldon, Speik's old teammate at Chicago.

(Tomorrow's article in the Football Special series will deal with the Wabash college eleven. Wabash is coached by Jesse Harper, who was understudy to Eckersall in the quarter back position on the Maroon eleven of 1905.)

EDMUNDS JOINS YOST'S SQUAD.

Big Full Back Arrives and Is Given Set of Signals—Redden to Help "Hurry Up."

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—"Bill" Edmunds, weighing 190 pounds and apparently in the best of condition, arrived in camp today and announced that he was ready for hard work. Yost did not set him at work today, allowing the big full back to follow the team in citizen's clothes. However, he was given a set of signals with which the varsity is laboring and tomorrow he will be asked to replace George Lawton at full back, at least in part of the practice.

That Michigan is going to make use of every possible effort to turn out a winning eleven this fall was shown by the fact that "Cap" Redden, for four years end on the Michigan eleven and captain in 1908, had been secured to assist Yost in coaching the eleven. He will reach Ann Arbor shortly after Oct. 1 and remain until the close of the season.

This probably marks the beginning of graduate coaching to help Yost, although Redden and Neil Snow were in Ann Arbor part of the time last season helping to drill the ends and back field candidates.

CHEERFUL AGAIN AT EVANSTON.

Appearance of Two Big Candidates for Purple Team, Dispels Gloom at Northwestern.

The gloom which has surrounded the Northwestern football squad and coaches has been dispelled through the appearance of two new candidates on the field. Jacobson, left guard last year, did more than simply appear to lighten the shadows.

He gave the probable explanation of the poor showing of the team in scrimmage work on Saturday by saying it will take more than a week for him to play the game the way "Big Bill" Horr teaches it, and the coaches have decided that the team had not become sufficiently acquainted with the Syracuse style to use it effectively. The improved showing made last night in the scrimmage work gave support to this theory.

The other candidate is McCormack, who is a sophomore in the dental school. He is after an end position and bids fair to give the other candidates a hard run.

GREAT VAULT BY A. C. GILBERT.

Yale Man Clears Bar at 13 Feet 2 Inches—Mark a World's Record, but Will Not Stand.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—In giving an exhibition pole vault at Westville's old home day celebration, A. C. Gilbert, the Yale athlete, who won the pole vault at the Olympic games, cleared the bar at 13 feet 2 inches, some six inches better than the world's record. More than a dozen officials measured the distance accurately, but Gilbert had not selected his apparatus carefully, and will not claim the record.

Indictments for Bookmakers.

New York, Sept. 27.—That indictments have been found by the Kings county grand jury against nineteen alleged bookmakers at the Sheepshead bay track was announced today, when the men were arraigned in Brooklyn for examination. They were arrested Sept. 17, and are charged with violation of the penal code. Hearing of their cases was put over until next Friday.

YOUNG IS PLACED AT QUARTER

MAROON COACH PESSIMISTIC.

Famous Smile Disappears When Charges Show Poorly in Practice.

Coach Stagg unmasked another surprise on his charges yesterday when he temporarily eliminated "Bunny" Rogers from the race for quarter back. This was his answer to many who have taken it as a foregone conclusion that Rogers would be seen at the guiding position in the Purdue game Saturday and that Capt. Page was picked as Kassalker's mate at end.

This change in the lineup was made not only in the signal work, but also in the scrimmage. At signals Rogers was stationed at end, while in the game that followed he was placed at half back. Instead of the Rogers team it was the Youngs against the Pages.

One thing is thought certain, and that is that "Bunny" will start the game. He has shown an unlimited amount of cleverness. One of his great assets is that he has perfected the famous Steffen "step" in open field running. The way he fooled his opponents on the team with the famous dodge has been the sensation of the scrimmages. If he does not go in at quarter he will play end or half.

The shift was taken as the first of a series of narrowing down processes which will make it possible to figure out something resembling a lineup against Speik's Boilermakers within the next few days. From now until next Friday Stagg probably will institute quite as surprising shakeups as that of yesterday.

Three new plays were given out. They are real 1909 models, Midway make, and are said to be by far the most deceptive ever used on Marshall field. They are so good that many think Capt. Page will prefer to use them later in the season, unless they should be asolutely needed against Speik's men.

Rademacher at guard or tackle has struck the fancy of Stagg more than any of the candidates. He has proven a remarkably speedy man for a 220 pounder. He follows the ball as closely as a half back and never fails to get into plays. Smith at center is proving a Tartar for Badenoch, the center from last year. He is strong on defense, but not as reliable on passing as the veteran.

"FRATS" DISRUPT AN ELEVEN.

Macon, Ga., Sept. 27.—The football team of Mercer university is disrupted, college athletics in general at the institution are torn asunder, the student body is sharply divided, and the faculty is playing hands off, as the result of a fraternity war, which reached an acute stage today when four "non-frats" on the team surrendered their uniforms to Coach Blake. The crisis was reached when Coach Blake took two "non-frats" off the team.

Cars Bearing Message from Philadelphia to Exposition at Seattle Pass Through City.

Chicago motor enthusiasts had a fleeting glimpse yesterday of the Philadelphia to Seattle automobile racers, traveling in relays of 100 miles each with a message from President Taft to President Chilberg of the Alaskan-Yukon exposition. Two of the relays—between South Bend and Chicago and Chicago and Dixon—were furnished by local tradesmen.

The contest started a week ago last Saturday and was halted by an accident resulting in the death of the courier bearing the message from Philadelphia, and was again set in motion last Saturday. Fast time was the order, with each relay smashing its running schedule into smithereens.

C. C. Craig, local representative of the Haynes, furnished in the thriller on the relay from South Bend to Chicago. The Haynes delegation left South Bend at 9:47 yesterday morning, and a wild trip ensued with the speed creation averaging fifty miles an hour over the whole route into Chicago. The car arrived at 12:58.

Webb Jay, in a Premier, took the message at 1:12 and whisked out of town with Dixon, Ill., as his destination. A Jewell car will take up the going on the next control.

"CHUG, CHUG" RACE ABANDONED

Dangerous Condition of Brighton Beach Track, Caused by Rain, Stops Six Day Motorcycle Event.

New York, Sept. 27.—After having raced but twelve hours out of a scheduled six day event, the motorcycle race on the Brighton Beach track was called off by the management shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon because of the dangerous condition of the track. Following the rain the track had become slippery and after seevral minor accidents it was decided best not to risk life and limb for the sake of speed. At the close of the race four of the original five teams were competing, with the New York and Harlem riders in the lead they had maintanied from the start. The New York team had covered 599 miles.

PLAN AN ICE HOCKEY CIRCUIT

Organizers Meet Here and Discuss the Formation.

WORKING ON LOCAL RINK.

Manager Prior Hopes to Have Structure Completed in Two Months.

Plans for the formation of a national ice hockey circuit were discussed at a meeting held in this city last night at which there were present William T. Richardson of the Boston arena; A. S. McSwigan of Duquesne garden, Pittsburg; Thomas Prior of the new Chicago rink, and Allen I. Blanchard, president of the Western Skating association.

It is the purpose of the promoters to organize on lines similar to those of the major baseball leagues and play a series of intercity matches this winter. In addition to the cities represented at the meeting St. Louis, Brooklyn, and Toronto are on the list, with Buffalo, Milwaukee, and Cleveland as possibilities.

Work on the new Chicago ring is progressing satisfactorily and the masons will start on the brick work early this week. Manager Prior expects to open close to Thanksgiving day. The Pittsburg rink will open on Nov. 19.

The promoters of the proposed circuit intend to go after the best professional talent obtainable and will have some kind of an agreement with the Canadian associations to prevent the jumping of contracts which prevailed in the old international circuit.

VIDA LLEWELLYN IS VICTOR.

Western Champion Defeats Mrs. Brochon in Final for Title at La Grange Golf Club.

Miss Vida Llewellyn, the western champion, added another title to her list yesterday by defeating Mrs. L. N. Brochon in the final for the La Grange championship, 1 up in 19 holes. Mrs. Brochon, who has grandchildren, gave her younger opponent the hardest kind of match, but on the extra hole, 605 yards, the champion's excellent long game enabled her to win, 7 to 8. The consolation final was won by Mrs. Frank J. Grulee, Mrs. M. Dial taking second place.

Local women golfers who will compete at Philadelphia next week in the women's national championship, will hold their final practice today at the Evanston club. It is uncertain if the west will be able to gather a representative team to meet the teams of the east and Canada, but at least six Chicago players are expected to compete for the national title, Miss Llewellyn being among the number.

Other events scheduled for today are as follows: Calumet—Women's play against bogey. Windsor—Bogey handicap for women. Onwentsia—Women's medal play handicap.

Falls Down on Reputation.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Leonard Lauder failed to live up to the reputation preceding him from his California home in an eight round bout with Morris Bloom of St. Joe, Mo., at the Phoenix club, the fight going the limit to a draw. Jack Robinson made Sammy Phillips quit in two rounds.

Local Y. M. C. A.'s Withdraw Membership in the Central A. A. U.

G. K. HERMAN RE-ELECTED

Chicago Man to Continue at Head of Organization; Committees Appointed.

Dr. George K. Herman of the First Regiment Athletic association was reëlected president of the Central association of the Amateur Athletic union at the annual meeting held at the Great Northern hotel last night.

The meeting was characterized by sensational action, the Central Y. M. C. A., Evanston Y. M. C. A., Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., Oak Park Y. M. C. A., Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., West Side Y. M. C. A., and the south park playground system withdrawing from membership in the Central association. This action no doubt is the beginning of a conflict between the Amateur Athletic federation, of which the aforesaid are members, and the Central A. A. U.

A. A. U. Men Not Worried.

Dr. Herman said after the meeting that in his opinion the withdrawal of the Y. M. C. A.s from the A. A. U. would have little effect on the athletic situation of the middle west, as the Athletic League of North America, which is composed of the Y. M. C. A.s of the country is affiliated with the National A. A. U., and that members of the Y. M. C. A.s are still eligible to compete in A. A. U. sanctioned meets and are barred only from championships.

The withdrawal is thought to be a slap at the A. A. U. in regard to the handling of basketball and indoor baseball, which never have been managed to the satisfaction of the members of the Y. M. C. A. It was rumored last night that the South Park play ground system, of which Dr. E. B. De Groot is chief, and the local branches of the Y. M. C. A. would affiliate and draft rules of their own governing basketball and indoor baseball.

Dr. Herman was elected president without a dissenting vote. E. C. Racey of the Illinois A. C. was selected vice president and Charles A. Dean of the Naval Reserve A. C. was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Schmidt Chairman of Committee.

The registration committee for the coming year is composed of Otto B. Schmidt, Central turnverein, chairman; H. J. Handy, Chicago Swimming club, and Dr. W. J. Swift of the Seventh Regiment A. A. Martin B. Herbert was reëlected official handicapper. Dr. Herman appointed Dr. Wallace of the Canton (O.) Y. M. C. A. as delegate at large to look after Ohio territory.

The following clubs were represented at the meeting: Illinois A. C., Chicago A. A., First Regiment A. A., Seventh Regiment A. A., North Side Athletic club, Wilson Beach Swimming association, Chicago Swimming club, White Eagle A. C., Milwaukee A. C., Naval Reserve A. A., South Shore Country club, Gaelic Athletic association, United Scottish Societies, Bankers' Athletic association, Lewis institute, Maywood Church Athletic league, and the Canton (Ohio) Y. M. C. A.

Delegates chosen to attend the National A. A. U. convention, which is to be held in New York, were as follows: Dr. Herman, H. J. Handy, E. C. Brown, W. H. Liginger, C. A. Davis, and E. C. Racey.

TWO NEW RECORDS ON ALLEYS.

Almeroths Set Season's Mark with 990 and Berringer Notches 226 for High Individual Mark.

Totals of 982, 948, and 1,040 gave the Almeroths of the Southwest league an average of 990 flat last night, the best of the year. This work gave them three straight from the Senators.

The Chicago league opened its season last night at Brill's alleys, the Righeimers taking two games from Brill's Colts, while the Eagle Teas took the odd from the Artesians.

M. Berringer of the Standards in the Kiowa league set a new season record with an average of 226, his games being 216, 210, and 258. Scores:

MURPHY HORSES LEAD TO WIRE.

Innerguard and Alice Roosevelt Win Trotting Races at Columbus—One Victory Is Easy.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—T. W. Murphy added two to his list of grand circuit winning races when this afternoon with weather conditions unfit for fast time he won trots with Innerguard and Alice Roosevelt.

Innerguard's victory was an easy one, although Marie N. did get the final heat in new record time for her. The finish was close between the Geers' mare and Innerguard. The judges, however, set Innerguard back to last position as a penalty for the offense of changing from the pole to middle track in the stretch.

The question is—
Rogers-Peet & Co.'s tailors who make them are "Bachelors of Science" in cutting reliable, up-to-date styles.
And don't forget that our young men's clothing is just as reliable in cloth and making.
Young men's Fall suits, $18 to $38.
Young men's Fall overcoats, $15 to $40.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

BY HEK.

THE CALL OF THE NORTH (WOODS).

He stalls off his vacation till the time
The thin shell ice is forming on the mere,
And tamaracks are glistening with the rime,
Then sallies forth to stalk the timid deer.

In leafy June, when others went away,
To fight mosquitoes in the bosky dell,
And revel in the scent of growing hay
He gazed out in the smoke and said, "Ah, well.

"What fools they are to waste such precious hours
At rowing some fat person round a lake
No larger than the bath tub we call ours,
And smash their molars on the fibrous steak."

In hot July the postal card he gets:
"I wish that you were with us" and some more;
"You don't know what you're missing," with regrets

The two-for-two-bit photograph comes in,
Of some bloke posing by the sad sea wave;
And attitude that says "I can't behave."

He's pelted with: "This is the proper place;
And "your's must be a melancholy case,"
"It must be tough back there," and things like such.

Do you think those poor fools are grigging him
By being where they are and he is not?
Upon the baking streets he gazes grim
Sardonic, and exclaims: "I'll show 'em what!"

In August he goes out to buy his kit
And spends his days in some department store
At buying things that fit and do not fit—
Guns, rifles, rods, and lines, and then some more—

A lot of truck the salesman says he'd ought
To have upon the trip that he has planned.
The lot of junk that So and So has bought,
And other dicker new and second hand.

And when he's gathered all the things he needs
Or tell him that he needs—that's just the same—
He loads up all his freight and swiftly speeds
To where they say abound the larger game.

A fortnight he spends up there in the woods
And lives on things he would not eat at home—
Canned stuff that's on the list of ptomaine goods—

When home returning feeling like a hound
And furnishing an aspect ten times worse,
If he is truthful gladly he'll expound
About the time he's had—with the reverse.

If he continues on the truthful lay
In answer to the question "what he shot";
If he unto his shopmates fairly play
He'll spiel about just what he really got:

"At e'en I shot craps with a cabin mouse,
At noon I shot fleas with a forty-four,
I shot a bloke afflicted with a souse,
Another with a most resounding snore.

"I shot a lot of hot ones into him
Who would not cease repeating what he'd said
Before it came the time to douse the glim
And crawl into the thing they called a bed.

"I shot a lot of things I did not need,
A lot of things I needed mighty bad.
I shot the winter's coal, the baby's feed,
And an overcoat I think I should have had.

"But what worries me when I come back to labor,
And shoots the passing tribute of a sob,
As in my place I find a plodding neighbor,
I wouldn't be surprised I shot the job!"

An Englishman writes us that if we "didn't mix as much Irish with our English and as much German with them both we would get away with our Scotch." This is rawther clever for an Englishman, but he has lived in this country a long time—long enough, in fact, to be able to translate 7 and 6 into one meg and four bits and copping the right change.

Now that the police are busy chasing down a more shuddering industry, a person may seek to get down a bet on a horse race while considering himself halfway respectable.

A person who should know better writes as referring to the Cubs as the "ex-champions." We are so sore about this inethical (or unethical) swash that we refuse to consider the balance of the communication. The Cubs are still champions and shall remain champions until the title officially is bestowed upon some other club, whichever that shall be. Nobody had the bad taste to refer to Mr. Roosevelt as the former president of the United States until a moment after Mr. Taft was inaugurated. If time and place permitted we would like to sink a thumb in the gill of the ignorant pollywog who would take such liberties with polite custom.

RACING ON COAST TO BEGIN NOV. 20

Tom Williams Announces a Meeting at Oakland Despite Hostile Law.

FULL PLANS WITHHELD.

Jockey Club Head Will Visit New York Tracks Before Deciding on Betting.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Turfmen here were jubilant this afternoon when President Thomas H. Williams of the New California Jockey club announced that he would open a racing season at the Oakland track on Saturday, Nov. 20.

Williams said the law would be complied with, but he refused to give any details of his plans until he had personally looked over the field in New York. He starts for the east on Thursday.

Three courses are open to Williams. In case the California State Appellate court knocks out the recent anti-race track law, then the Oakland track can be operated as it was before with open betting. Should the court sustain the law, then the New York style of credit betting could be inaugurated, although all experts admit this would not be attractive. The third method would be to run the track without betting. This would entail a heavy loss for the association, as few people would attend.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY
Everything has its use. The big fortunes are made out of the by-products and that's another word for what once was waste. Some day the squeal of a dying hog will be utilized. When mother nature created weeds she smiled—a long, artful smile. Weeds were the by-products of her garden. Man came along restless and inquisitive. He half suspected. Then he found it. Divine tobacco! This story is concluded in a Geo. W. Childs generously good cigar. Five cents at all stores.

STOCKS HAVE UPWARD TURN

STEEL IS STRONG FEATURE.

No Change in Money Markets Following Bank Statement.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Four days of declining prices in stocks prior to the holiday Saturday last paved the way for a reaction based on technical conditions alone, and today's general advance in prices was largely accounted for by this situation. There was little in the bank statement returned on Saturday to arouse speculative enthusiasm, nor did any news of importance develop over the holiday.

It was the renewal of heavy buying in United States Steel common shares and the market rise in that stock, together with a similar demonstration in Union Pacific, which became the signal for the forward movement of prices as a whole. Steel shares made a new high record in the course of the session, but aside from the already familiar explanations of expanding business and the possibility of an increase in the dividend on the stock no word was forthcoming in connection with the rise. There were current reports of new financing by the corporation entailing rights to stockholders, but in official quarters these stories went unconfirmed.

Erie Issues Not Buoyant.

Erie issues formed practically the only exception to the advancing tendency of the market; the sharp declines in both preferred and common stocks were accompanied by reports that the holdings acquired in connection with Mr. Harriman's open interest in the property were being liquidated. It would be a serious matter to assume from such reports, however, that the position of Erie today is at all like that which the road occupied a year and a half ago, for in the interval improvements have been completed or put under way which, together with other plans now certain of consummation, assure an opportunity to the property to make the best of the large traffic tributary to it.

Excellent statements of gross earnings for August were made by the Atchison and the Chicago and Northwestern, the former showing an increase of $1,460,000 and the latter $821,000. The Railway association's report on idle cars noted a decrease of 31,778 between Sept. 1 and 15, bringing the total down to 78,798.

Prices in the cotton market fell sharply, a familiar happening in a speculative campaign like that under way on that exchange, and grain markets were strong on reports of frosts in certain parts of the west, although these appeared to have done no damage whatever.

No Change in Money Markets.

No change was wrought in the money markets by Saturday's clearing house statement, which followed closely all forecasts. The increase in loans and decrease in cash were well within expectation, and illustrated the salutary effects of the quiet stock market of the week. Since Friday the banks have lost to the subtreasury $1,260,000, which compares with a gain of $500,000 or more in the same period a week ago, and which, therefore, promises to influence the bank return for this week. Russia secured $5,000,000 gold reaching London today from South Africa, and on the London stock exchange 3 per cent for carryover was charged on American securities as against 2¼ per cent London stock exchange issues.

Money on call firm; 2¾@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾@3; closing bid, 2½, offered at 2⅞. Time loans slightly easier; sixty days, 3¾ per cent; ninety days, 4 per cent; six months, 4¼ per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange easy, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8425@4.8435 for sixty day bills and at 4.8610 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.83⅝@4.84. Bar silver, 51¼. Mexican dollars, 43. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds easy.

PROFITS OF SEARS-ROEBUCK

Directors Will Declare 1½ Per Cent Dividend on Common.

LEATHER MERGER DETAILS.

Colgate & Co. Explain Settlement That Ended Lawsuit.

It was officially announced yesterday that at a meeting of the board of directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co. to be held in October, a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the common stock will be declared payable in November. This will place the shares on a 6 per cent dividend basis as against the present rate of 4 per cent.

Earnings of the company are, it is said, at the rate of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 per annum. It is proposed to invest $1,000,000 of this year's profits in bonds. The company made a similar investment last year.

The stock advanced on the local exchange during the day to 121¼. The proposed action of the directors fully explains the advance in the shares to the present quotation. It is not improbable that some time next year there will be a further increase in the dividend. It is, however, asserted officially that nothing better than 6 per cent may be expected for some time.

United States Leather Merger.

James B. Colgate & Co., who represented 30,000 shares of the preferred stock of the United States Leather company in the litigation to prevent the merger of that company with the Central Leather company, made public the terms and the settlement reached with the Central, and the consequent withdrawal of legal proceedings, thus permitting the merger to take place. The statement was made in a circular which was in part as follows:

"Acting as we believe for the best interests of all concerned we have sold our stock in the United States Leather company and have consented to a discontinuance of the action we had brought to restrain the merger of the United States with the Central preferred and have also arranged that all the holders of the United States Leather preferred stock who became parties to the agreement with James B. Colgate & Co., dated Dec. 29, 1906, or July 28, 1909, may to the extent of these agreements receive the same pro rata amount of securities and cash for their stock as we do.

"The terms are that for each share of preferred stock of the United States Leather company we are to receive $130, payable as follows: $50 in first mortgage bonds of the Central Leather company at par, $55 in the preferred stock of the Central company at $110, $25 in cash, and interest and dividends on the securities and cash to be adjusted. It is optional with you whether you accept these terms or those of the new merger agreement."

Dividend Disbursements Larger.

October dividend disbursements by industrials, steam railroads, and street railways will aggregate $80,221,106—an increase of $13,724,000 compared with the corresponding month last year. Following are the figures:

Directors of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company are scheduled to meet in New York today. It is possible that action may be taken in the matter of resuming dividends.

Directors of the Illinois Brick company held their regular monthly meeting yesterday. Only routine business was transacted.

The stockholders of the Public Service corporation of Newark, N. J., approved the proposition to turn the gas properties of the company over to the Public Service Gas company. The latter concern is owned by the Public Service corporation and will be an operating company. The stockholders also authorized a mortgage for $50,000,000 to secure an issue of bonds.

It is announced that the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron company has absorbed the Bean Coal company of Columbus, and that S. F. L. Bean, head of the latter company, will become general manager of the Columbus and Hocking company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Davis-Daly Copper company has been adjourned to Oct. 15 as a result of a restraining order obtained by Erb and Jarvis. The court will act on the matter Oct. 12.

Chicago Securities.

Aside from the trading in Sears-Roebuck common, the principal interest on the local exchange centered in Chicago Subway. The stock was firm at the opening, but sold off in sympathy with New York. The buying was fairly general. There is no fresh news as to the occasion for the heavy volume of selling.

Commonwealth Edison was firm, touching 120⅝, and closing at the top.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Money was in fair demand and good supply on the market today and discounts were steady. On the stock exchange the general carry over occupied most of the attention, but there was fair speculation in kaffirs, especially in Rhodesian mines. Copper shares showed hardening prices, but the other sections were dull and uninteresting. American securities opened steady. During the early session United States Steel and Canadian Pacific displayed strength, but there was little doing in the rest of the list pending the receipt of the New York opening. At noon the market was quiet and firm with prices ranging from unchanged to 1¼ higher than Friday's New York closing. Steel made its advance on trade reports and Canadian Pacific on traffic returns and with New York supporting in the afternoon the list further improved and closed firm.

INVEST IN IOWA CORN LAND

You should own a farm in Iowa—the center of the world's corn belt. Values there are doubled in ten years and annually are increasing from Five Dollars to Fifteen Dollars per acre. The land rents for one-half the crop delivered and about $5 to $7 for the grass land. This system of renting leaves a landlord better than $10 and often $15 for his share of the crop, and for the increase in valuation. One friend of mine made $18 per acre from his one-half of the corn crop raised on 80 acres. The land went up $10 per acre the same year. It had to; its productive powers were worth more money, and it was unimproved—therefore required no outlay on the part of the owner for repairs except a trifle for fences.

Hundreds of these farms may be had in Washington County. Every one of them is of rich black productive land and is making nice clean profits for the owners each year. You, reader, want a good place to invest a part of your money. You want only a fair profit. That's what I offer. I am not asking you to buy irrigated land in the far west, southwest or northwest. I am asking you to buy Iowa land—near all the world's good market—and at a figure not so much in excess of what you must pay for a patch of dry, dusty western sand covered with sage or other bushes. I am asking you to invest a portion of your money in a locality whose values have increased steadily for thirty years—a locality which boasts of doing well its part in making the record breaking corn, wheat, oats, live stock, dairy, and poultry output of the state of Iowa. Our bank deposits—over $4,000,000 (and we have no factories)—indicate our position in the ranks of producers, and uphold our reputation as a thrifty, progressive county. Our people did not get this money by accepting the speculating investments usually offered city people. They make it from the land—and most of it from an economic advance in the value of land. Think well, Mr. Investor, before you pass this opportunity to make a guaranteed investment. I will have thirty hard silver dollars in trust for ten years to back every acre I sell you. Did you ever hear of land falling off Thirty Dollars per acre in Iowa? I should say you did not. And if it should fall off from some unforeseen cause, there is money guaranteed that protects you. Quite a plan, isn't it? You never heard of it before probably, but you will immediately see the protection offered investors.

My deal appeals to far seeing business men—investors who wish to combine safety and a fairness of profit which will leave a nice sum for a valuable asset—a farm for their children.

Here is my plan: I not only sell you the land in old never failing Iowa, but I guarantee you a profit of $3 per acre per year for ten years. I do it in this way: I place the amount per acre per year in advance in trust, and at the end of ten years will buy your place back, if you want to sell, for Thirty Dollars per acre more than it cost you. I am obliged to buy; but you do not have to sell. I don't think you will sell, as your land will be worth more than thirty dollars in advance of what it cost you. If you are thoroughly satisfied at that time, then I get back my guarantee from trust, and you sell or keep your farm as you elect. If you accept my $30 increase offer the land becomes mine on proper and satisfactory transfer. But I want to show you my faith in this land, and gladly make this bona fide offer and guarantee. Any one will sell you land, but who will guarantee the profit and make good? I will. You had better investigate me and this plan if you want a farm—a paying one—and an assurance of a real live profit annually. Get in touch with me. Do it at once. I now manage nine farms, and want to handle twenty more. That's my business. Wouldn't it pay you to invest $7,000 or more in Washington County land, and be under the protection of my guarantee and my ability as farm manager? Write for more particulars and a few descriptions of choice "buys."

PACIFIC
Gas & Electric
Common Stock

Pacific Gas and Electric common stock will repeat the history of the price movement of American Light and Traction stock, which has risen from 70 to 250 in eighteen months.

ONE OF THOSE BIG THINGS

It is one of those big things now in the making which has the actual merit, in a situation of unusual development. It bears the endorsement and has the financial backing of banking firms of international reputation, and New York Stock Exchange houses, who are recommending the stock to their clients.

Two weeks ago the stock was quoted at 50. It has since sold above 60, and will go to par within six months. This prediction is conservative and it is not improbable that it will sell at par by January, 1910. The net surplus earnings for the calendar year 1909 will be at least 12% on the common stock, and next year they will be nearer 20%.

ITS FIELD AND WHAT IT OWNS

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company, through its constituent companies, serves 60% of the population of California with gas, electric light, electric power and water, and supplies motive power for 450 miles of street railway and interurban roads in San Francisco and central California; also power to mining companies, smelters and manufacturing concerns.

100 CITIES AND TOWNS

in central California, including San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Berkeley, Sacramento, Stockton, Alameda and Fresno are thus served; a population exceeding 1,350,000, located in twenty-three counties having an area as large as the New England States and four times as large as the State of New Jersey. Gas for lighting, heating and cooking is supplied to including the city of San Francisco. The gas properties controlled by the company consist of sixteen gas plants, with 1,400 miles of mains and 131,000 meters.

The company's electrical properties develop 154,000 horse power, of which nearly two-thirds is generated by water. This tremendous electrical energy is distributed through 2,500 miles of transmission lines.

Miscellaneous properties controlled by the company include the street railway system of Sacramento and various water and irrigation systems. Franchises and rights are either perpetual or extend for long periods, and the company serves its territory practically without competition.

which owns and controls a dozen or more subsidiary gas and electric companies. A $5,000,000 issue of bonds of the California Gas and Electric Company was recently purchased by the National City Bank of New York, and Lee Higginson & Company of Boston. The banking house of N. W. Halsey & Co. purchased a recent issue of Pacific Gas and Electric Company bonds.

WATER POWER TO MOVE THE WHEELS

On the Pacific Coast, where coal is a luxury, the substitution of water power for steam gives results in cost of operation which largely increases the net earning capacity and benefits the common stockholder.

The development of hydraulic power to generate electrical energy is one of the most important features of the vast business of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

WATER POWER RIGHTS

From the many streams rising in the Sierra Nevada Mountains and falling to the valley of central California water power rights have been acquired and developed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. At present 93,000 horse power is thus produced by hydraulic generation.

THE WESTERN POWER CO.

The Western Power Company has entered into a long-term contract with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the major part of its output.

This additional power will not only enable the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to increase its sales of electric energy, but will largely increase the net earning capacity.

SURPLUS EARNINGS FOR THE STOCK

Based on its actual earnings for six months of the year 1909, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will show a balance applicable to common dividends of approximately $2,249,373, or a percentage of 12.81 on its common stock. This compares with 6.82% in 1908, 6.32% in 1907, and 2.62% in 1906, the first year after its organization.

The following table gives the income account for the year 1908 and the estimated result for 1909:

*Accounting experience has shown that gas and electric companies earn from 8 to 14 per cent more in the last six months of the calendar year than in the first. Pacific Gas and Electric Company's statistics, however, place that increase at 10%, so that the figures for the year ended December 31, 1909, above quoted, are based on the actual figures for the six months ended June 30, together with figures for the next half year, estimated at the rate of a 10% increase.

$9,000,000 EARNINGS REINVESTED

In the past five years the company has expended more than $9,000,000 out of surplus earnings for improvements, betterments and extensions; in other words, an aggregate amount equal to one-half the par value of the outstanding common stock has been "put back" into the property from earnings.

The physical value of properties owned by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is estimated by engineers at $66,000,000. The entire bonded debt of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, including its subsidiary companies, outstanding, is $56,182,000. The preferred and common stock outstanding is $28,704,000. The total capitalization is less than the purely physical valuation as estimated by competent engineers.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC AND WHERE TO GET IT

Any broker having New York Stock Exchange connections can furnish bid and asked quotations or buy the stock for you. It is not listed, but is dealt in by leading brokers in New York, and will soon have a broad market in a dozen cities.

Watch this stock in the near future.

Its earnings are growing rapidly and will show $14,000,000 gross this year.

Its net earnings this year will be fully 2½ million dollars, applicable to dividends on 20 million common stock.

The company's contract with the big Western Power Co., owned by Edwin Hawley and associates, will largely increase its net revenues hereafter.

WHEAT SHOWS STRONG TONE

Offerings Not Heavy and Local Traders Boost Values.

NORTHWEST RECEIPTS BIG.

Corn Rallies on Light Buying; September Oats Shorts Are Run In.

Notwithstanding a bearish array of statistics, wheat did not show any weakness yesterday and closed with a firm undertone. No heavy pressure was on the market at any time, and there was enough buying by local bulls and commission houses to turn the speculative scales in favor of the bulls. The trade was prepared for a drop in values at the start, but when it was seen there was no heavy offerings pressing for sale the bulls started buying in a moderate way, and it did not take much to advance prices. No help was had by either side from the outside public, as the general volume of business was small. Resting prices were ¼@1¼c higher, the September advancing sharply on a few trades and finishing at $1.03⅜.

Statistics Are Bearish.

The usual Monday statistics were bearish with a few exceptions. Russia shipped a total of 7,072,000 bu, which swelled the total world's shipments to 11,632,000 bu, but stocks afloat showed a small decrease, whereas a considerable increase was expected. The visible gained 3,186,000 bu in the United States, while Canadian stocks gained 2,115,000 bu. The aggregate increase in both countries was about the same as a year ago. The total visible supply in this country is now 16,640,000 bu, compared to about 10,000,000 bu more than a year ago. Northwestern receipts were again of a record breaking character, Minneapolis and Duluth having 2,469 cars, compared to 1,986 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg swelled the total spring wheat receipts by 1,427 cars, against 819 cars a year ago.

Foreign Markets Are Steady.

Foreign markets as a rule were not affected adversely by the larger world's shipments, Liverpool closing unchanged to ⅛d higher, Paris steady to 1¼c lower, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin 1⅜c up, and Buenos Aires 2⅝c higher. The decrease on passage, although of small proportions, was unexpected. The demand for wheat the world over started this year as soon as the grain was thrashed, and so far stocks have increased slowly in all positions. The Bulletin des Halles of Paris estimates the French crop at 331,000,00 bu, compared to its estimate of 293,000,000 bu last year. Its estimate last year was considerably lower than the official figures. Primary receipts for the day were under those of a year ago at 2,002,000 bu, against 2,416,000 bu.

Millers Short of Supplies.

Winter wheat millers were in the Minneapolis market buying wheat, and the cash premiums there were firm. St. Louis took 100,000 bu No. 1 northern for milling purposes. The general cash situation continues to be the mainstay of the market, and local bears are not inclined to sell short under such a disadvantage as at present, with cash premiums over the September and deferred months at a discount. Receipts here were 40 cars, with 79 cars promised for today. Clearances of wheat and flour were 126,000 bu. Flour prices were quoted 20c lower for spring wheat special brands. Among the leading buyers were Marfield, Lake, Press, Re Qua, Barrell, Logan-Bryan, Shearson-Hammill, and local traders led by Bloom and Hellman. Bartlett-Patten, Armour, Updike, Knight-McDougal were sellers. Lichtstern was credited with selling about 300,000 bu May.

Corn Again on Up Grade.

Corn prices made a further advance of ⅛@⅜c for the day, and shorts were on the buying side. Receipts were small at 212 cars and the cash market was firm, creating a stronger tone in the pit. The firm tone in wheat also contributed to the strength of the market. Local professionals were on the buying side, with selling led by Bartlett-Patten, Van Ness, and cash houses. Cash sales were moderate, aggregating 100,000 bu, and the demand was not urgent. Frost was again reported in this state and Illinois, but no damage resulted therefrom. The entire crop is practically out of danger. Estimated receipts for today are 380 cars. Liverpool closed ⅛d higher. World's shipments were 3,584,000 bu. Primary arrivals were 637,000 bu, against 442,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply increased 69,000 bu, making the total now 2,300,000 bu, against 3,527,000 bu a year ago. Stocks on ocean passage decreased 368,000 bu.

Oats Shorts Are Routed.

Buying by September shorts in oats forced an advance in the current delivery of 1½c for the day and caused a rally in other months of ¼c. The supply of oats was limited in the pit. Elevator interests sold a few September, with Logan-Bryan and commission houses the buyers. Peavey and Armour bought May and sold December. Wagner was a heavy buyer of December and May, while Bartlett-Patten sold those deliveries. The visible increased 1,441,000 bu. Receipts here were 179 cars, with 182 cars estimated for today. Primary receipts were 772,000 bu, against 990,000 bu a year ago. The cash market was ½@¾c up, with sales of 190,000 bu.

Rye Market Firm.

Rye held firm. September and December closed nominally at 70c. No. 2 was quoted 71@72c; No. 3, 64@70c; and No. 4, 55@63c. Receipts were estimated at 3 cars.

Barley was steady. Malting was quoted 64@66c; mixing, 50@54c; and screenings, 40@52c. Receipts were estimated at 115 cars.

Flaxseed was 1@3c lower. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.41 bid and No. 1 southwestern $1.38 bid. Receipts, 1 car.

Timothy seed was neglected. September closed at $4.00, October at $3.90, and March $4.20 nominal.

Continued enormous receipts of wheat at Duluth, comparatively much larger than at Minneapolis and also much in excess of a year ago, have led to a good deal of inquiry as to the cause of so much wheat going to the head of the lakes. Duluth prices have been enough higher so far this season to attract a large percentage of the wheat, but there has been no reason forwarded for the higher prices. Duluth reports have insisted that the demand, both domestic and foreign, was disappointing in the extreme, the principal sales reported having been to Chicago. One theory advanced was that Chicago bulls have kept the Duluth market strong in order to hold the grain from coming here, and it is also stated that the receipts include a large percentage of durum. With the comparatively light receipts at Minneapolis, however, which have been smaller than a year ago, the big movement to Duluth has given rise to a suspicion that export sales may have been larger than given out. Asking prices for Duluth No. 1 northern are now about 3½c over Chicago December.

One of the leading cash wheat brokers here, who has an extensive milling trade scattered over a wide territory, said yesterday that the demand was the best he had ever known at this time of the year. In explanation of this he stated that so large a percentage of the winter wheat crop had been damaged in quality before the harvest that the majority of mills have deficient stocks of high grade wheat. As a certain percentage of best grade wheat is essential to all mills, the demand for top grades has been insistent, and as a consequence the market has been kept drained of these qualities. Business has been restricted only by the lack of available supplies and not by lack of demand. Winter wheat millers are being obliged to compete for the spring wheat offerings, and brokers here believe that the demand for the spring wheat being brought here from Duluth will be as keen as the call for winter wheat has been. St. Louis yesterday bought 100,000 bu No. 1 northern for milling purposes. Minneapoli rseported millers from other sections also competing for the offerings.

"I do not think you can hold present prices for wheat. If prospects continue good, Australasia will get in liberal sales for January and future shipments, and Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay will have as much wheat as they had last season and probably a good deal more, while Canada will get her work in—is doing so and a better wheat than our northern wheat. We are holding back—time is running and it looks to me as if the last six months of the season will find supplies seeking foreign buyers. I shall be surprised if wheat does not sell down to 94c in Chicago for May; may be lower."

Armour was a buyer of standard oats in the sample crowd and this grade was strong, while inferior qualities were inclined to drag. Standard oats were ⅜c up; other grades were ½c higher.

"Premiums on nearby wheat at Winnipeg have practically disappeared, and the Canadian market is now so far below a parity with Duluth that export business seems out of the question. At the same time it was stated that Winnipeg prices are too high to meet the views of the English buyer and that a further adjustment will be necessary.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CATTLE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Choice native steers sold at steady prices, but the plain to good grades suffered another decline of 10@15c. Buyers took hold of the prime offerings early in the day, paying up to $8.85 for one lot of choice 1,780 lb steers and for other loads of lighter offerings. They held few orders for plainer cattle, however, and in their efforts to intimidate salesmen bid ridiculously low prices for all cattle grading under strictly prime. The uneven bids made by the packers enabled them to catch unwary salesmen and secure loads of stock at a larger depreciation from last week's closing figures, but sales to show more than 10@15c decline were in the minority.

Receipts of 27,000 were fully up to expectations, and included about 10,600 range cattle. Of the latter the cows met with a good inquiry at firm prices early, but weakened later in sympathy with a lower market for native butcher stock. Range steers of prime quality sold close to steady, but all of the lighter grades suffered a depreciation of 10@15c. Bulls cleared at weak prices. Calves were of common quality and attracted little attention during the early hours, being finally disposed of at a decline of 50c. Stockers and feeders were in fair request at 10@15c lower prices. Quotations:

Beef steers, good to choice	$6.50@8.85
Yearling steers, good to prime	6.50@8.25

Cattle at six western markets, 83,200, against 85,500 a week ago, 61,900 a year ago, and 73,300 two years ago. Total for 1909 to date, 5,743,000, against 5,783,000 the same period in 1908.

HOGS.

Early sales to shippers and speculators were at a decline of 5c, while the late market was fully 10c lower than on Saturday, with packers securing mixed hogs at the full depreciation. Receipts of 24,000 head were in excess of expectations, shipping orders were the lightest they have been on a Monday in years, and packers had the trade almost entirely to themselves. They took advantage of the lack of outside competition to pound the market and even the decline of 10c failed to stimulate their buying operations, it being estimated that more than 7,000 hogs would be left unsold at the close.

Shippers and speculators paid up to $8.50 for a few loads of prime heavy hogs at the start, but few of the packers could be induced to bid up to $8.45 and most of them contented themselves with stock that was available at $8.00@8.40. Packers held the controlling hand throughout and the market rested on soft ground to the finish. Pigs met with a narrow outlet at a decline of 10c, but boars sold more advantageously, some of the smaller butchers paying up to $5.00 for desirable weights. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$8.10@8.40
Mixed packing	7.80@8.30
Mediums and butchers	8.10@8.45

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $8.25, against $8.36 Saturday, $8.22 a week ago, $6.86 a year ago, and $6.30 two years ago.

SHEEP.

Bulk of sheep and lambs sold at a decline of 10@15c, while there were many sales made at a reduction of fully 25c from last week's closing figures, medium native lambs being the chief sufferers. The action of the fat sheep and lamb market was exceedingly sluggish, as most of the packers insisted on big reductions in values, while salesmen refused to accept sharply reduced bids because receipts of 35,000 head fell nearly 5,000 short of the run a week ago. Consequently most of the early trade was confined to the feeding stock. Attendance of country buyers was large and outsiders showed more liberality in bidding for stock than the packers.

Native lambs were unusually unsatisfactory in quality, and although prime offerings were quotable up to $7.00 few sales were made at higher than $6.50, while packers secured the bulk of the best killing grades at $6.00@6.25, many of the sales being at a decline of 25c. Range lambs, sold to packers early at $6.75@6.85, were fully 15c lower, while the feeding grades to the country at $6.40@6.65 were steady. Range wethers cleared at $4.80@5.00, being steady to 10c lower, while range ewes at $4.50 were steady. Country buyers paid $4.65 for feeding sheep and $5.65, the high price of the year, for feeding yearlings. Quotations:

Native wethers	$4.75@5.25
Native ewes	2.75@4.85
Range yearlings	5.00@5.75

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

January product was relatively strong in the provision market, and there was excellent buying for investment, and also by some of the packing interests, while the nearby deliveries were affected by profit taking. The entire market was weak after the opening, but rallied sharply, and closed with pork 5@25c up; lard, 2½c up to 7½c lower; and ribs, 2½c up to 7½c down. Western hog receipts were 55,100, against 49,300 a year ago. The hog market at the yards was easy, and prices a little lower. Receipts here were 26,000, with 11,000 promised for today. Exports were less last week than a year ago, except for meats. Receipts of product were 34 cars, with shipments of 80 cars. A. S. White, the Anglo company, and the Cudahy Packing company were sellers early. The Milwaukee Cudahys were credited with buying January product.

Chicago Horse Market.

Less burdensome receipts and the appearance of more pressing eastern orders had a beneficial influence on the market for horses and prices were more closely adhered to, strength being especially noticeable in the market for good heavy offerings. Sales of prime 1,800 lb and heavier horses at $225.00@287.50 were fairly numerous, and there were many orders for lighter chunks at $170.00@220.00. Chunky feeders found a ready outlet at $160.00@225.00, and there was a good call for loggers to go to Wisconsin and northern woods at $190.00@200.00. Expressers sold at $175.00@200.00, and wagon classes were taken by local dealers at $140.00@175.00. Receipts for the day were placed at 650, against 691 a week ago, and 768 a year ago.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Business opened fairly active, with jobbers in receipt of numerous mail and road orders calling for canned goods and cereals for immediate delivery. There were more cheap canned tomatoes pressing on sale, but all other vegetables were firmly held and the market was in good condition. Quiet prevailed in the market for raisins, while apricots were sparingly offered, and there was a good steady trade in prunes and peaches, most of the business being for supplies to be delivered early in October. Demand for flour, rolled oats, cornmeals, breakfast foods, and other package cereals was broader.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Market opened firm and active, with local retailers and outside merchants sending in liberal orders for refined sugars for immediate delivery. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard granulated, beet and cane, $5.84@5.44; cut loaf, H. & E., $6.27; standard powdered, $5.85; canary, $4.85; extra C, $5.95; chemically pure milk sugar, 22c per lb in brl lots.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Market had a good, healthy undertone and prices were sustained at a firm level. Demand for spot roasted offerings was brisk. Receipts of green coffees at Rio were 14,000 bags; Santos, 88,000 bags.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 5 points on March but generally unchanged to 5 points lower in sympathy with the partial decline of ¼ franc at Havre. Trading was quiet and offerings scattered, but the market seemed without any support of consequence, with March losing its initial gain, and with the close quiet, net unchanged to 5 points lower. Sales were reported of 10,000 bags, including September at $5.35; December at $5.45; March at $5.55; May at $5.60, and September, 1910, at $5.60. Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 7⅝c; Santos No. 4, 8½@9c. Mild quiet; Cordova, 8½@12c.

Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Firmness pervaded in the market for all staple dry goods and further withdrawals of price lists on certain lines of spring goods, orders for which were briskly solicited a few weeks ago, served to emphasize the advantage of early purchases. Many lines of staple merchandise offered for future delivery were held at value and mill agents acted indifferently about accepting large orders. Cool weather was reflected in more urgent inquiries for heavyweight merchandise and jobbers were called upon to hasten deliveries of goods ordered earlier in the season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The cotton goods market was strong during the day and substantial price advances were named in keeping with the recent advance in cotton. Leading houses will close on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons because of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Raw silk was steady. Dress goods was quiet.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—COTTON—Spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands, 13.55c; middling gulf, 13.80c; sales, 5,600 bales. There was a severe break in the market under general liquidation, with the close weak at a net decline of 28@33 points. The greatest weakness was late in the day, a steadily sagging market uncovering stop loss orders and leading to considerable excitement. The opening was irregular at an advance of 7 points to a decline of 7 points. The general tendency of the market was downward and in the last half hour offerings became extremely heavy, with December contracts selling off to 13.17c and January 13.14c, or about 29@32 points net lower. This presented a reaction of nearly $2.00 a bale from the high records made last Friday, but the market developed no rallying power and closed at practically the lowest figures of the day. Futures opened steady and closed weak. Quotations:

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 27.—COTTON—Spot steady, unchanged; middling, 13 3-16c; sales on the spot, 700 bales; to arrive, 3,000 bales. Futures opened steady at a decline of 2@6 points on bearish aggressiveness. Around the middle of the morning bears started their hammering again and much cotton was sold short in the attempt to bring about a reaction. This attempt was only partially successful, prices at their lowest being 27@31 points below Saturday. The close was steady at a net decline of 26 points. Futures closed steady.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

I AM THE LARGEST PLANTER OF GRAFTED paper shell pecan orchards in this country. I make a specialty of planting for parties who have a few friends to join them in buying and operating more economically. I also plant large orchards for men who wish to form and control a pecan orchard company. If desired I will furnish the land and plant trees at a low wholesale cost, or I will plant your land.

My orchards when 5 years old produced $5 per tree, and $50 per tree when 10 years old. Land can be used for other purposes. The pecan tree is a shade tree and requires no attention except gathering the nuts.

If you wish an independent proposition which you can handle and control yourself, it will pay you to call at my office, 1605 Fort Dearborn Bldg.

$20,000 WANTED—BIG INTEREST. Party with well established business wants partner or investor with $15,000 or $20,000 to invest in business with positive guarantee that the investment will double itself in two years. This guarantee will be backed by sufficient collateral to make your investment absolutely safe and your profits sure. If you have the cash and want it doubled in two years, write me. The business does not owe a dollar, but I need the money to enlarge same. Investigate my proposition and my collateral. You may devote as much or as little time to the business as you like, but your profits are guaranteed. Address W 516, Tribune.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district] and my being the president of a large manufacturing wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. Ask for WILLCOXE, care the Englewood Co., 1101-1103 E. 63d-st., cor. Greenwood-av. Tel. Hyde Park 4333.

URGES SCHOOLING FOR GIRL WORKERS

Mrs. Young Says Boys Have Advantage in Technical High and Other Courses.

WANTS NEW SCHOOL LAW

Thinks Employers of Children Under 18 Should Be Made to Assist in Their Education.

"In the many discussions on the subject of continuation courses and technical high schools I have heard since becoming superintendent, I have heard nothing but boy, boy, boy. I think it is about time I heard something about girl, girl, girl, and I expressed that opinion to the members of the school management committee a few days ago. I think it is time we considered the needs of the girls as seriously as we consider those of the boys."

In such vein Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, announced herself as a champion of the girl pupils and at the same time spoke of plans which she has under consideration which will mean a long stride in common school education.

"Since the question of educating working boys in the Farragut school came up, I have considered whether the education of working girls is not as important," she said.

Wants Courses for Girls.

"I am not in favor of technical high schools for girls but I am heartily in favor of continuation courses for girls who work, just as is proposed for boys at the Farragut school. I have walked by Montogomery Ward's plant, Sears, Roebuck & Co., and other great manufacturing plants which employ girls. Hundreds of these girls should be in school.

"I believe the men who control these great plants could be interested in a plan to give their girl employes an education as are the men who are supporting the proposition to be tried at the Farragut school.

"It merely is a matter of getting them interested and I believe that will be easy. I have delegated to Mr. Shoop the task of thinking out some plan whereby we may have continuation schools for both boys and girls."

Mrs. Young stated an effort will be made at the next session of the legislature to get a bill passed which will require employers of child labor to give employes, both boys and girls, between the ages of 14 and 18 either eight or ten hours' schooling each week. The continuation schools will conduct the classes, and attendance will be made compulsory, the responsibility resting on the pupil, his parents, and his employer.

Opposes Girls' Technical School.

"Continuation school courses for working girls would be of great benefit, but I should not favor the idea of a technical high school for girls," said Mrs. Young.

"In a family where there are several girls all of them are not needed at home, and all are not fitted for the teaching profession. Therefore, it becomes necessary for some of them to select other occupations. The continuation schools would fit them for this.

"But the plan for a technical high school, as has been proposed, would tend to segregate girls who intend to earn their living from those whose families have means to support them. Such a system would tend to snobbishness even more than the high school fraternities and sororities, I believe."

President Alfred R. Urion and School Architect Dwight H. Perkins will confer with members of the Chicago Association of Commerce on desirable sites for the proposed administration and commercial high school building tomorrow noon. Mr. Urion said yesterday that the Jones school site, Harrison street and Plymouth court, seems to be the only available downtown location, but the matter will be discussed with officials of the association in the hope of discovering a site within the loop.

Mrs. Young received through the mail a copy of Pugilist Battling Nelson's autobiography, on the first fly leaf of which is inscribed in hand script, "To Ella Flagg Young."

Mrs. Young said she had not read the book—yet.

SHOW AUTO ROUTS HORSE

Three Times as Many Motor Cars Used on Boulevards.

EQUINE GAINS ON SUNDAY.

Greatest Traffic Is South of Jackson in Michigan Avenue.

The horse is giving way to the auto on the Chicago boulevards, according to statistics gathered by the park commissioners, but Dobbin has one consolation in the fact he makes a better showing on Sunday, comparatively, than the motor car. These statistics also show the entire amount of traffic on the highways under the control of the commission.

Even the motorists themselves are astonished at the report, for it shows there are three times as many automobiles on the south side boulevards as there are horse-drawn vehicles. Another point noticed is that the automobile is not so much a strictly pleasure vehicle as one might suppose, for the report shows that more motor cars are running on a week day than on a Sunday.

With the horse it is the other way—more are "on the job" Sunday than on a week day. This is true, too, of the motorcycle and the bicycle.

Horses Show Best on Sunday.

The greatest traffic is shown to be at a point just south of Jackson boulevard in Michigan avenue, according to deductions drawn from the report by Assistant Secretary W. W. Crawford of the Chicago Automobile club.

"For twenty-four hours on Sunday the total number of vehicles passing this point was 9,052, while on a week day the total reached 13,964," said Secretary Crawford yesterday. "Of the Sunday traffic 6,392 vehicles were automobiles, 237 bicycles, and 2,147 horse drawn. On a week day the proportion of horse drawn vehicles was larger, the figures being 9,772 automobiles, 3,290 horse drawn, 119 motorcycles, and 218 bicycles. Going farther south, the proportion of horse drawn vehicles diminished rapidly.

"At Michigan avenue and Thirty-third street there were on Sunday 5,245 automobiles to 245 horse drawn vehicles, and on a week day 5,951 automobiles to 587 horse vehicles.

Police Get the Statistics.

"In compiling the statistics distinction was made between the day and night travel. During the night hours Dobbin had an easy time, while the automobile was burning its gasoline lavishly. At Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard the lesser demand for horses was not so apparent, as there were on Sunday 2,111 automobiles to 702 horse vehicles during the nine hours, but at Michigan avenue and Thirty-third street there were 1,777 automobiles to 36 horse vehicles during the entire night."

At Washington park and Fifty-seventh street the report shows on Sunday 3,881 motor cars to 1,545 horses, and week days 2,550 autos to 676 equines; at Midway, west of Woodlawn, 3,297 autos on Sunday to 1,382 horses; week days, 2,806 autos to 595 horses. These points demonstrate the greatest differences.

The statistics were obtained by policemen stationed at the thoroughfares mostly used by autoists and pleasure horses. The report was turned over to the Chicago Automobile Journal yesterday.

ELOPERS LOSE OUT IN COURT.

Judge Fines the Man, Reprimands Father, and Paroles Girl to Her Sister.

The romance of Chester J. Drummond of Blue Island, Ill., and Mathilda Graff of the same place, was interrupted yesterday when the two were arraigned before Judge Newcomer.

The father of the girl, John Graff, a laborer, who objected to the marriage of his daughter, came in for a severe reprimand from the court when the girl testified she left home because she had to work too hard.

Drummond instead of becoming a bridegroom was fined $100, and his intended wife, who is 16 years old, was paroled to her sister, Mrs. Joseph Weber of Harvey, Ill.
